SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS

The success of a bank depends, in a large measure, upon the success of its customers.

For this reason a bank sometimes refuses to make a loan where there is doubt as to the profitable employment of the proceeds of a loan.

This bank is seeking good safe loans

IN WINTER AS IN SUMMER ...KEEP YOUR FOOD BELOW 50°!

● If you could see food under a microscope you would know why any ice-box or other refrigerator that cannot maintain temperatures below 50° is dangerous. Outside temperatures are varying and uncertain—but it's always summer in your kitchen. If the temperature where your food is kept is not in the Safety-Zone—below 50°—all the time, there's danger!

Kentucky Needs Roosevelt

Kentuckians.... and the citizens of other States should be grateful to Franklin D. Roosevelt not only because of humane and progressive social security legislation but because of the conversion of deep despair and economic chaos into confidence and orderly prosperity.

IN 1932--UNDER HOOVER

Frantic home-owners and farmers could not pay their mortgage interest—sometimes 8 or even 12 per cent.

Banks were failing at the rate of 100 a month. Bank deposits were not protected.

Kentucky factories were closing and cutting off men periodically.

Educators were conferring about plans to save the educational system from collapse as revenues shrank.

Wheat was 48 cents a bushel, corn 24 cents. It cost more to raise stock than it brought at market.

FARM CASH INCOME DROPPED UNDER

4½ BILLION (1932).

IN 1935--UNDER ROOSEVELT

Home Owners' Loan Corporation restored 1,00,749 homes to their owners, F. C. A. saved a half million more.

In June, 1933, mortgages were foreslosed at the rate of 1,000 a day; in March, 1936, foreclosures were lowest in 5 years.

By paying $225,000,000 in back taxes, Home Owners' Loan Corporation enabled towns and counties to continue schools and other public services.

Home Owners' Loan Corporation advances of $75,000,000 for home repair benefited workmen, contractors and dealers.

Farmers have saved over 20 million in annual interest charges on loans refinanced by F. C. A.

The exchange of liquid government-guaranteed bonds for frozen mortgages has protected the savings of 50,000,000 people invested in real estate by banks, insurance and loan companies.

Dollar wheat is back and corn tripled in price.

New automobiles carry the farmer to a market where his stock sells at a profitable figure.

Not a single bank failure in the entire Nation in 1936, for the first time in 55 years. Bank savings are protected by Federal deposit insurance.

Educators are teaching in better equipped, modern buildings than any time in history.

As the farmer's income has increased, the business of every merchant, large or small, has grown.

Fear has been banished; hope has returned and the feet of the Nation set definitely on the road to abundant prosperity.

FARM CASH INCOME ROSE 2½ BILLION IN 1935

We urge all Kentuckians, men and women, Democrats and Republicans, to vote for President Roosevelt and those who will help him-----Senator M. M. Logan and the State's Democratic Congressmen.

JUDGE LASSING DIES AT HOME IN FLORIDA

Had Been in Failing Health For Several Months—Was Leading Figure in Boone County and State Politics

Former Judge John M. Lassing, 72, passed away Saturday at his St. Petersburg, Fla., home. He, as had been his custom, spent the summer in Burlington and the winters in Florida.

He left here last Thursday and arrived in St. Petersburg, Saturday morning the 24th, and before sunrise Sunday morning he passed over the river, leaving his relatives and friends to mourn the loss.

He was stricken with an ailment of the heart last January, and while he would improve for a time the condition of his heart was such, that attacks would recur, but for the past month he had seemed to improve and his friends thought that he was much better. He had been so much improved that he was transacting business every day and he visitetd friends the evening before departing for Florida, and was in the best of spirits, and thought that after spending the winter in Florida he would return in the spring much improved in health. However, while we plan for the future, only God in Heaven knows what the morrow may bring to us.

He was born near Union in Boone County, more than seventy-two years ago, and while his business required that he leave the county for a time, the betterment of his home County was ever in his mind and at no time did he forget the County of his birth and he did all that was in his power for Boone County and her citizens, for which he spent a large portion of his time and also contributed financially.

He is survived by his wife, Mary L. Lassing, three sons, Warren, Robert and John and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Richwood cemetery, Wednesday morning at 10:00 a. m. by Rev. D. E. Bedinger.

Pall bearers were his three sons, Robt., Warren and John; two brothers, Coleman and Walter and one nephew, Lassing Huey.

The courthouse was closed all day Wednesday in honor of Judge Lassing, who hada been a practicing attorney at the Boone County Bar for over fifty years.

Chambers and Grubbs had charge of funeral arrangements.

He was the eldest son of Dr. H. C. and Anna E. Lassing, was born at Elm Tree near Union in 1864. He received his elementary education in the common schools of Boone County and his collegiate course at Central University, Richmond, Ky., from which he graduated in 1886. For the next two years he taught school and studied law in his spare time under Fountain Riddell, an eminent lawyer practicing at Burlington. To complete this study he entered the Cincinnati Law School in 1889, finishing the regular two year course in one year, graduating with the class of 1890 ranking seventh among a total of ninety students. He at once entered the practice of law at Burlington and became actively identified with Democratic politics in Boone County and the Sixth Congressional District.

In 1891 he was elected to the office of County Attorney which position he held for the three-year term fixed under the new constitution of that date. At the expiration of this term he was reelected in '94 and held this office until the death of John W. Green, Circuit Judge in this District when Mr. Lassing was appointed Circuit Judge resigning thte office of County Attorney. He was elected to this office by the people at the November election following his appointment and at the expiration of this term was reelected. Judge Lassing held this office until Judge Thomas H. Paynter, who represented this district on the Appellate Court Bench, was elected to the United States Senate creating a vacancy on the Appellate Court from this district. Judge Lassing was appointed to fill that vacancy and held under this appointment until the next regular election when he was nominated by the Democratic party and elected for the remainder of that term when he was again nominated and elected for a full term. He held this office until impaired health caused him to resign.

He held each of the above mentioned offices approximately seven years, thus giving him twenty-one years of public service along the lines of his chosen profession. His political record was unique and perhaps without parallel, having been twice elected to each of three offices and having voluntarily resigned each.

Shortly after locating in Burlington Judge Lassing married Mary Lillard Brady, youngest daughter of Robert A. and Susan Brady. They were blessed with three sons, Warren and Robert, who are located in Florida and John Jr., who resides in Burlington.

Judge Lassing was, for many years, quite active in State politics having charge of Democratic Headquarters with Gov. McCreary in the management of the Beckham-Yerkes campaign which was perhaps the most hotly contested of all Kentucky gubernatorial campaigns. He likewise managed the successful campaigns of Gov. McCreary in his race for the United States Senate and later the campaign of Judge Paynter for that office. It has been said of Judge Lassing that he never lost a fight where he was given exclusive control of its management.

He had devoted most of his time to improvement of the roads in Boone County and the network of federal and state highways being laid out in this county stand as a testimonial to his ability along those lines.

SATURDAY CLOSING DATE 1936 ACP BENEFIT

Farmers have until Saturday, October 31, to get credit for any 1936 unearned Soil Building Allowance practices under the ACP program, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The soil building practices if all earned according to revised figures wil lamount to more than $45,000.00 in Boone County.

Practices carried out after November 1st will be given credit under the next year's farm program according to present laws. Many farmers have already carried out sufficient soil building practices to earn their full allowance. There are probably $15,000.00 in allowance that has not been earned to date.

Farmers this week, who have not earned their allowance, are busy spreading limestone at rates of from one-half to two tons per acre, applying from 80 to 320 lbs. of phosphate either with fall seedings of grass or grass and wintetr cover crops or top dressing old seeding of grass and legume crops on crop land, sowing grass mixtures of at least 40 per cent Red Top or bluegrass or a number of other practices for which credit is given.

Fall seeding of grasses, use of limestone and phosphate are the most practical practices for most farmers that can still be carried out this week. Limestone applied now will give results from five to fifteen years or longer. Phosphate should give increased yields from three to six years or longer.

David Coleville, Assistant County Agent under H. R. Forkner, has been very ill at his home in Burlington. He is suffering with a skin infection that he received while attending the State Fair at Louisville.

TOBACCO PRICES WILL BE GOOD

SAYS PROMINENT KENTUCKY TOBACCO MAN — RECOMMENDS USE OF FIRE CURING FOR BETTER PRICES.

Tom Marshall, Walton, a recognized tobacco man for the past thirty years, predicts that the good grade of tobacco this year will bring more cash than last year, but there is so much common tobacco that it may offset the average.

When asked about the recent experimental work being demonstrated in Boone County with fire curing, Mr. Marshall answered, "Yes, I am a strong believer in fire curing and am convinced that it will bring the producer one-third more cash for his crop. Quite a number of growers are using this simple method in Harrison county, and are getting fine results."

Mr. Marshall has been in the tobacco business for the past thirty years, and at the present time is connected with the Cynthiana Warehouse, holding position of general manager. Marshall stated that he had been connected with several different markets throughout the state, but said, "I am convinced that we have one of the best markets at Cynthiana that can be found anywhere in the State."

Marshall is a resident of Boone County, and can be reached by telephone at his residence in Walton, Ky. If you have any tobacco problems, Mr. Marshall will be glad to work with you on them.

BOONE STUDENTS PLACE FIRST AT STATE TOURNEY

The Boone County boys and girls who attended the State Tournament held at the University of Kentucky were victorious in scholarship, winning the trophy in competition with thirty-six other counties. FORTY ATTEND TOBACCO MEET

AND TOUR HELD WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21—MANY POINTS BROUGHT OUT IN CURING OF BURLEY TOBACCO.

Forty Boone County tobacco growers attended the Tobacco Feild meeting and tour held on last Wednesday, October 21st, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Demonstrations visited and discussed at the field meetings mark an important step of advancement in the curing of Burley tobacco. The demonstrations visited were conducted by S. B. Scott & Sons, of Grant, Emmett Elliott and Wm. Hill, of near Idlewild.

Both Elliott and Hill have used recommended curing practices the past six years and advised growers that these practices had increased the value of their crops in the barn from five to twelve cents per pound.

Russell Hunt, tobacco field agent from the College, advised growers to give greater attention to the curing of their crops. The new smoker types of Burley tobacco injuring color. Color is such an important point in selling price and is an ever changing factor often changing several times during the curing season. The college is doing considerable research work on the curing of Burley tobacco. The use of artificial curing is a dangerous proposition if not property carried out and combined with good judgment represents the greatest advancement in production of smoker type burley tobacco in recent years.

Boone County growers, as a whole have their own ideas and take great pride in their personal ability to produce better quality of tobacco. This interest combined with demonstration and close study will lay a sound foundation for future progress.

MEMBER KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED JANUARY, 1860

Editorial of the Week

SIMPLE ARITHMETIC

Suppose you owe a man for services rendered and instead of paying him in cash you give him a note due several years hence. You conclude to put aside a certain amount each year to pay the obligation. A few years later your creditor asks for something on account, times being hard, and after some protesting, you make a partial payment.

Time goes on, and some years you put aside the money to meet the balance of the note. However, an unprecedented depression occurs and at the height of the panic you shuffle off this mortal coil, leaving your affairs in a saddly muddled condition and this obligation to your heirs.

Hard hit by the depression, the creditor pleads for an immediate settlement. The heirs acknowledge their obligation and at length borrow the money, including the portion of the sinking fund not laid aside during some years by the testator and pay off the debt. The estate is still obligated, just as the testator was obligated, but for the good of all concerned the original debt is paid.

That is the story of this country's debt for adjusted compensation due soldiers of the World War. The act was passed during the Coolidge administration and became a statutory law in 1925. It became a debt of the nation then, a promise to pay. The debt was inherited and paid by the Roosevelt administration. Bonds were issued to pay it and, of course, some day the bonds must be paid.

Mr. Landon, in an unusually muddled statement, even for Mr. Landon, charges that the Roosevelt administration incurred the debt made under the Coolidge administration twelve years ago by the act of borrowing money and paying the debt in full.

"This is not an obligation added or incurred by the Roosevelt administration, "Congressman Fred M. Vinson points out, "and Mr. Landon ought to know it."

Yes, Mr. Landon ought to know it. But after reading candidate Landon's tergiversations on the reciprocal tariff treaties and the price cheddar cheese, one is inclined to wonder if the Kansas Governor knows always whereof he speaks, or is inclined to follow with too much credulity the text his "ghost writers" furnish him.

In any event, Mr. Landon, we think, would need a pencil and some paper and more time than will elapse before November 3 to figure it all out.

AN UNANSWERABLE REASON

Kentucky's phenomenal industrial and agricultural gain in the last two years is a fact that constitutes a concrete and unanswerable reason why Kentuckians should vote to return the administration responsible for its business recovery to Washington.

In 1935 Kentucky made the greatest gain of any state in the cash receipts from principal farm products and rental and benefit payments. Kentucky's gain over 1934 was 40 per cent. Kentucky's receipts were $166,433,000. The increase from 1932 was more than 80 per cent.

The gross income from cattle and calves in this state in 1935 was $14,769,000 compared with $8,817,000 in 1934. The gross income from hogs including benefit payment of $1,081,000 in 1935 was $21-954,000 compared with a gross income in 1934 of $15,720,000 including benefit payments of $2,88,000. Gross income from milk in 1935 was $30,774,000 compared with $26-937,000 in 1934.

Department [illegible] isville were 16 per cent greater in June, 1936, than in June, 1935. Wholesalers took orders in August of this year for fall merchandise 15 to 30 per cent larger than in 1935. In Louisville 6 per cent more passenger cars were licensed in 1935 than in 1929. Mammoth Cave had more pilgrims in 1935 than ever before in its history and more so far in 1936 than in the same period last year. Bank clearings for the state's leading city were 19.3 above the same week in 1935 on August 26th.

The list of agricultural and industrial gains might be extended indefinitely, but that is not necessary. All Kentuckians know that recovery is here, that the most widely shared, most genuine prosperity we have ever knew lies just ahead.

That Kentucky, under such circumstances, will vote to go forward with the President under whose policies such gratifying gains have been made is a reasonable assumption. Any other course would be contrary to the dictates of common sense.

Dick Faulkner was the Saturday night guest of the Maurer family.

TERMITES ATTACK THE CORNERSTONE

COCA COLA COMPANY SUES CAFE OPERATORS

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for November 1

LAW, LOVE, AND TEMPERANCE
(International Temperance Sunday)

LESSON TEXT—Romans 13:1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth. Rom. 14:21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why We Keep Rules.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Junior Citizens.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Shall We Do About Drinking?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Law, Love, and Temperance.

Revolution, political disorder, anarchy—these are words which characterize much of the world's news of our day. What should be our attitude toward government? Should a Christian participate in revolts against government? These are questions that stir the hearts of men.

The Bible has an answer, and it is found in our lesson for today. Let us study it with care and seek God's message for us and for our nation in these utterly confusing days.

We consider together a portion of Paul's epistle to the Romans in which, having laid his superb doctrinal foundation, he turns to a practical application. Let us ever remember that while right doctrine is necessary to right living, it is never sufficient to hold the doctrine and fail to permit it to control our daily walk.

Good citizenship of the true type is the result of staunch Christian character. Much of the weakness in our political and social life can be traced to the neglect of the things of God in the home, the school, and the church.

Paul presents the Christian as one who has the right attitude toward his neighbors, and toward his own daily walk. The Christian is

I. Politically-Intelligent and Loyal (vv. 1-7).

Lectures on political economy are well worth while. School children should learn to love and honor their country. But for real intelligent citizenship we must have a study of God's Word. For all governmental authority is dependent on a God-given power. No man has any right to rule over any other man except as God delegates that right to him.

No "divine right of kings" is justified by this passage, but clearly it does teach that government is ordained of God and functions by his providence. To resist such authority is to resist God.

Must we always obey the government? Yes; until it commands us to do that which is clearly contrary to the laws of God. We do not resist or question the authority of any properly appointed governmental agency, no matter how weak, or even wicked the agent may be, as long as he acts as "a minister of God . . . for good." Any government is better than anarchy. But no government has the right to command any man to disobey God.

In our land we have a powerful agency for the correction of governmental weakness and error — the ballot box. Let every Christina use it discreetly and in the fear of God.

Before leaving the passage, note that the Christian does not dodge, "fix," or leave unpaid the taxes which support the government under whose benefits he lives and works. There is too much dishonesty at this point, and we need to correct it.

II. Socially-Honest and Loving (vv. 8-10).

"Love thy neighbor as thyself" and there will be no social dishonesty, strife, and ill-will. Remember the lesson of last week on love—I Corintians 13.

III. Personally-Clean and Spiritual (vv. 11-14).

The time when our redemption is to be fully completed—that is, when the Lord himself returns — is at hand. We therefore will not live as those who walk in darkness, but as children of the light, clean in life and thought. We will "put on the Lord Jesus Christ."

In these days when almost every wayside store and hundreds of thousands of city buildings have been converted into drinking places far worse than the old-time saloon, when men and women are making drunken sots of themselves, it is indeed time for Christians to raise their voices in protest and to act to protect the boys and girls of America.

But above all—let us win them to Christ, for if they "put on Christ" they will "make no provision for the flesh to fulfill the lusts thereof."

Respect for Parents

Honor your parents in your hearts; bear them not only awe and respect, but kindness and affection; love their persons, and fear to do anything that may justly provoke them.—Rev. W. Cradock.

Good Neighbors

It is a small thing to a man whether or not his neighbor be merciful to him; it is life or death to him whether or not he be merciful to his neighbor.

Dorothy Smith, 13, of Muskegon, Mich., has just added her thirteenth "bad break" to the list of bone fractures she has suffered. She fell and fractured her right arm, the only member not broken before.

COUNTY ACP COMMITTEES TO MAKE ADJUSTMENTS

The Boone County Agricultural Conservation Association Committees are meeting in Burlington this week to make 11% adjustment in Boone County's soil depleting crop bases as required by the State Office.

Boone County's 1936 soil depleting crops based on 1058 work sheets include 27,451.4 acres. Of this amount 3053.2 acres represent tobacco and 24,398.2 acres general soil depleting crops. The county average is nineteen soil depleting acres (corn, tobacco, wheat, etc.,) for each 100 acres of land.

A survey by the Boone County Agricultural Planning Committee last spring showed the yield of important soil depleting crops in this county had shown a marked decrease during the past fifty years.

The average acreage of these crops have been reduced in proportion to the decreased yield. The change in attention from soil depletting practices to soil building practices under the ACP is bound to make a marked change in Boone County's agriculture. The entire system of farming will tend to change toward greater production of livestock and tobacco and smaller production of corn, ats, and similar crops.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carnes Eastman, of the Dixie Highway celebrated with a dinner for their immediate family, honoring the golden wedding anniversary of Mrs. Rouse's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Rouse. It has been a happy life, fifty years of real championship.

Mr. Rouse, the only surviving son of the late Nancy and Eli Rouse, has lived all his life among friends and relatives, amid the scences of his childhood, and there is in possession of the family a little walnut cradle made by the hands of his father, the wood having been cut from a tree on the old farm. It was in this cradle that Mr. Rouse was rocked as an infant.

Mrs. Rouse, the third daughter of the late John Bentham and Elizabeth Ironfield, is a native of Lancashire, England. At the time of her marriage she was a resident of Covington, a member of the Episcopal church and of the choir, a teacher in the Sunday School there. She adapted herself and has endeared herself to the hearts of the people in whose community, she with her husband established their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rouse are at home to their friends at the homestead, which is truly a "show place" of the old type. One of the very interesting features are the beech trees in the front lawn, relics of the pioneer days.

The Light Meter shows why she frowns

IF THE mere thought of darning socks gives you a headache, cheer up! For "measured light" is coming to your rescue.

Scientists say it's perfectly natural that mending should be more tiring than reading a well-printed book. There's so little contrast between the sock and the darn that your eyes may demand many times more light.

And that's where the new scientific Light Meter comes in. It not only measures light as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature, its dial tells instantly how much light your eyes need for any given seeing task.

We'll be glad to measure your lighting with one of these new Light Meters without any cost or obligation on your part. Phone for an appointment today!

LANDSLIDE FOR ROOSEVELT

FORTY-SIX STATES FAVOR ROOSEVELT

DIGEST POLL VERY ERRONEOUS

Republican Papers Concede Election of Demorcrats. Five Hundred Thirty-One Electoral Votes For President; Eight For Landon

Voters of Boone County gave Roosevelt a majority of better than two to one in the election Roosevelt 2761, Landon 1036.

Totals were cut considerably due to rain falling throughout the day.

The following is a list of the vote by precincts for Roosevelt and Landon:

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4—Kentucky voters expressed themselves overwhelming in favor of President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

When State Headquarters in Louisville closed after midnight the President and his popular Kentucky running mate, M. M. Logan were running far ahead of Governor Alfred Landon and Robert E Lucas, Louisville senatorial aspirant.

A total of 1278 precincts had reported at closing and President Roosevelt had polled 224,517 votes to Governor Landon's 142,014.

There are 4299 precincts in the state.

On this basis the President was leading his opponent by less than two to one.

Senator Logan's total was approximately the same. There was little scratching of tickets and Congressmen in each district polled totals similar to those polled by the Chief Executive.

Congressional Races

Indications were that the following Democratic congressmen would be elected.

Noble Gregory, First District; Glover H. Cary, Second District; Emmett O'Neal, Third District (Jefferson County); F. W. Creal, Fourth District; Brent Spence, Fifth District; Virgil Chapman, Sixth District; A. J. May, Seventh District; Fred B. Vinson, Eighth District.

In the Ninth District, Congressman John Robsion is believed to have retained his seat. He will be the sole Republican congressman from the Bluegrass State.

The showing of William Lemke Coughlin candidate on the Union Party ticket, was a disappointment to his followers.

Rain Cuts Vote

Lemke's stronghold, the Fifth Congressional District, failed to give him the vote expected. State Democratic leaders had conceded 100.000 votes in Kenton and Campbell conties alone.

First estimates were that the heaviest vote on record would be polled. As returns rolled into headquarters it was evident that Kentucky would poll about 800,000. Heavy rain throughout the entire state was blamed for the loss of approximately 200,000 ballots.

Democrats believe this will bring the Roosevelt majority below that polled in the 1932 Presidential race. The early Roosevelt trend likewise fell from 3 to 1 to a bare 2 to 1. However, the state was considered safely in the New Deal parade.

Roosevelt: 1,571,968.
Landon: 956,083.

The Illinois vote:
Roosevelt: 1,018,179.
Landon: 541,160.

REELECTED TO OFFICE OF PRESIDENT

Franklin D. Roosevelt

DR. SPERTI IS NAMED BY POPE

TO NEW SCIENCE POST—HE WILL SERVE AS MEMBER OF THE PONTIFICAL ACADEMY OF SCIENCE.

Dr. George Sperti, director Institution Divi Thomae, archdiocesan scientific research and graduate school, has been named to the new Pontifical Academy of Science by Pope Pius XI.

The new academy represents a complete reorganization of the old papal academy, Nuovi Lincei, established in 1603, which became inoperative several years ago.

Dr. Sperti's contribution to science, including his achievements in the selective irradiation of foods and cancer research, were recognized by the Holy See in the appointment.

It was known unofficially several weeks ago that Dr. Sperti probably would be one of the academy when he was commissioned to represent the acamedy at the Harvard tercenteary celebration at Cambridge.

Dr. Sperti's achievements have been noticed particularly in the field of selective food irradiation and patents originally acquired by him are now used widely by the General Food Corporation of New York.

At 36, Dr. Sperti is a recognide authority in the research field and is co-author of the "Quantum Theory in Biology," published in 1926, which opened a new field in this science and paved the way for the selective irradiation of foods.

He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, where he received the Baldwin Scholarship in 1923-24 and 1925, the National Research Council Fellowship from 1929-31 and the Rockefeller Foundation special traveling fellowship in 1930-31.

In June of this year, Dr. Sperti announced that he and his aides had "conclusive proof of the existence of a force, which might be called the 'vital' force, or of a substance common to all living matter, and which might be called the 'vital' substance." Further development of this discovery, he hopes, will afford some day material aid in the solution of the cancer problem.

ELIZABETH DRINGENBURG

Services for Mrs. Elizabeth Dringenburg were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Sunday at Florence Baptist Church. Burial was in Hopeful cemetery. Mrs. Dringenburg died Friday at he home near Florence. She was 64 years old. A daughter, Mrs. Clifford Tanner, and two sons, William and August Dringenburg, survive her.

Mrs. Ethel Worford, of Carthage Ohio, is visiting with her brother, Leslie Sebree, who is quite ill.

REVIVAL AT BAPTIST CHURCH DRAWING LARGE AUDIENCES

The revival campaign now in progress at the Baptist Church is rapidly increasing in interest and power. Evangelist Elmer C. Miller, of South Bend, Ind., is delivering sermons of great power, and Gospel Singer D. P. Dehart is leading the music in a most helpful manner.

Rev. R. Lee James, pastor, says of this meeting: "The present revival at the Baptist Church is by far the most successful in several years. Conviction is felt at each service. I am confident that scores of persons will accept Christ as their personal Saviour. I thank God for the coming of Brethren Miller and DeHart."

Services will continue each evening this week at 7 o'clock. The public is most cordially invited to attend.

FORMER BOONE MAN RETIRES

AFTER THIRTY-SIX YEARS OF SERVICE AS PULLMAN CONDUCTOR—HAD BEEN ON L. & N. FOR PAST TEN YEARS.

James Ira Wingate, who for 36 years has guarded the rest and comfort of the traveling public is going to give his own comfort his major attention from now on.

Mr. Wingate, who is going to do his resting at 40 W. Fifth street, Covington—his home—is retiring from long service with the Pullman Company.

Mr. Wingate is a native "hillbilly boy" from Boone County, Petersburg. He thinks "country boys" are all right. He said "old Col. A. S. Berry, who was congressman from this dstrict then, got me my job. He took me in to see C. C. Chase, then Pullman Company superintendent, and said, 'here is a country boy from down in Boone County that wants a jom.' Mr. Chase didn't say a word. He just reached in the desk drawer and handed me an application. I filled it out and was working within 10 days." He began work Aug. 2, 1900. Previous to that time Mr. Wingate had been in the laundry business in Aurora and Lawrenceburg, Ind.

Only three wrecks marred the career of Mr. Wingate, and he came through them "without a scratch." One was as his train was leaving Latonia. A brakeman was killed in the crash. Another was when his train wreckner near Sulphur, Ky., and its engineer lost his life. The other was a small crash of a train leaving Memphis, Tenn.

ATTENDANCE 96% IN SEPT.

IN BOONE COUNTY SCHOOLS—GARRISON HAD ONLY ONE SCHOLAR ABSENT DURING MONTH.

The average daily attendance for all the schools for September was 96 per cent. Garrison had only one absent during the month and many of the teachers had 99 per cent attendance. This is a very fine record and we hope to keep this record throughout the year. If we could eliminate from human life, poverty, unemployment, ill health, ignorant and indulgent parents we would always have 100 per cent attendance each month for every normal healthy child enjoys going to school.

LARGE CROWD ATTEND RALLY

AT BURLINGTON THURSDAY OF LAST WEEK—SENATOR BARKLEY AND CONGRESS SPENCE ADDRESS VOTERS.

One of the largest crowds ever to attend a public address were present Thursday of last week at the courthouse when Senator Alben W. Barkley and Brent Spence delivered interesting speeches.

Former Representative of Boone and Grant Counties, Carroll Cropper introduced the speakers. Mr. Brent Spence made a very short and interesting talk to the voters and expressed his appreciation for the support he received from this County in the August primary.

Both speakers paid tribute to Judge J. M. Lassing who passed away Saturday, October 24th, before entering into their speeches.

Senator Barkley kept the crowd attentive from the beginning of his address until the finish. with bursts of applause many times during his speech.

We feel that this County has been honored by having such a noted man for a speaker. It has been said that he will be one of strongest contenders for the Democratic nomination for President in 1940. He has been keynoter at the Democratic National Convention twice in succession, an honor that has never been bestowed upon one man more than once.

When Senator Barkley was asked to speak at Burlington, he replied, "I am always glad to go to Burlington," and we are always glad to have him.

JAMES BARNES

James Barnes passed away, Oct. 26 at the home of his son at Mt. Healthy, O., after a few days' illness. Age 89 years, 2 months and 1 day.

He leaves to mourn his passing, 6 sons and 1 daughter and many other relatives and friends.

Mr. Barnes was a resident of Boone County for many years and was well known by many Boone County people.

Funeral services were held Thursday at Mt. Healthy, burial at Harrison, O., by the side of his wife who preceded him to the grave several years ago.

KITE-PURDY STOCK SALE HUGE SUCCESS

The Kite-Purdy stock sale held last Saturday was reported to be a huge success. All stock brought fair prices that were in line with present day demands. Weather conditions were not so favorable, yet sales were good and quite a a crowd was in attendance.

Lute Bradford, well-known auctioneer had charge of the sale. Mr. Bradford has had twenty-five years experience in the field of auctioneering and is said to be one of the best in this section. He has been in the livestock business as both dealer and buyer and is well posted on livestock prices. During the sale of Kite and Purdy he had three calls to conduct livestock sales.

When one is planning a sale, it is well to consider a good auctioneer, one who has had experience and who will add many dollars to the articles you have to sell.

It has been said by many that Mr. Bradford has always been able to obtain higher prices for articles offered at auction than any man throughout this section. Choose your auctioneer as you would a place for investing your earnings. —adv.

ELECTRIC RATES TO BE REDUCED

IN BURLINGTON AND BOONE COUNTY—SAVING TO RESIDENTS WILL BE 16 PER CENT, AND COMMERCIAL 24%.

Customers of Community Public Service Company in Burlington and Boone County will realize substantial savings in their electric bills, as the result of a reduction in residential and commercial lighting rates, which is being put into effect with the current billing period.

The reduction is the second voluntary cut that has been made by the company in the areas affected in the past two years, a previous reduction having been made in February, 1935. The two reductions combined have cut the cost of electricity to the average residential customers approximately one-third, with commercial customers realizing savings that average somewhat larger in most cases. The present reduction averages 16 per cent to residential users and 24 per cent to commercial lighting customers, according to Russell Hall, district manager of the company.

The new residential rate for Boone County is: 15 KWH at 10c, next 25 KWH at 6c, next 60 KWH at 4c, next 75 KWH at 3c and all additional at 2½c, with a minimum of $1.50 per month. The new commercial lighting rate for Boone County is: 15 KWH at 10c, next 85 KWH at 8c, next 150 KWH at 5c and all additional at 3c, with a minimum of $1.50 per month.

All customers who have been using less than the amount allowed under the minimum will save an even 50c. Other customers will save varying amounts depending upon their consumptions. Below are a few examples:

RESIDENTIAL SERVICE

Monthly Use	Old Rate	New Rate	Saving
20 KWH	$2.04	$1.80	$ .24
30 KWH	2.94	2.40	.54
40 KWH	3.66	3.00	.66
50 KWH	4.26	3.40	.86
75 KWH	5.24	4.40	.84
00 KWH	6.11	5.40	.71

COMMERCIAL LIGHTING SERVICE

20 KWH	2.10	1.80	.30
85 KWH	3.60	2.70	.90
50 KWH	5.10	3.60	1.50
75 KWH	7.60	5.10	2.50
00 KWH	10.10	6.60	3.50
00 KWH	19.10	11.60	7.50

"The reduction in electric rates in Burlington and Boone County is in line with my company's policy of providing electricity at the lowest cost commensurate with good service,' 'stated Mr. Hall, in announcing the new schedules. "This latest revision in rates is a continuation of a downward trend that had made electricity one of the smallest items in the average family's budget."

MEMBER KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED JANUARY, 1860

Editorial of the Week

OUR STATESMEN

The eyes of the Nation, since its earliest history have always looked toward Kentucky to furnish prominent and capable statesmen. Not one time has our great State failed to produce, and have as public figures, men of whom we can proudly boast, and who have capably represented our interest in national affairs.

It will be recalled that those persons who have risen to fame and prominence have done so by slow diligent means. That is, they have as a rule started at the bottom of the ladder, taking the climb round by round, going very slowly and making sure on each step that his foot was well placed.

That same carefulness and prudence that marked the path of those preceding him, starting from that same small and insignificant place in public life, marks the rise to national prominence of the Hon. Alben W. Barkley. No doubt all of them have had the highest ambitions, but few of them have been fortunate enough to get sufficiently close to the high office to be considered presidential timber. But Senator Alben W. Barkley, whose first place in politics was that of the role of County Attorney, now stands in the position to aspire to that high office of President of the United States.

Senator Barkley was raised a farm boy and poor, but with that essential quality of leadership, and endowned with a sense of justice and conscientiousness necessary for the success of any public figure. And, after completing his high school he let not his financial status stand in his way of completing his education. He secured his legal education at Cumberland Law School in Tennessee. After completing his work there he left the farm folks of Graves County to set up his law office in Paducah.

After practicing for a short while he won his first race for a public office, that of County Attorney. Upon the death of the County Judge, that same attribute that has each time pushed him upward, gave him the position as County Judge. After successfully serving in this office he ran for congress and served in that capacity for 16 years. While in Congress he became a candidate for Governor of our State. The Hon. Campbell Cantrill was his opponent and it was during this race that Senator Barkley acquired the nick name of "The Iron Man of Politics." Under conditions that were anything but favorable, he stumped 92 counties, a feat that no man to that time has accomplished and that few have since.

Outside of Senator M. M. Logan, who just this time secured his second term as U. S. Senator, he is the only man to ever succeed himself in the Senate. His record as a Senator is unexcelled and it is thought by many that it would be political suicide for one in the State to attempt to take from him that high office which he has so capably filled.

In political circles—not only in Kentucky but all over the nation, he is considered as one of the strongest contendents for the nomination as President in '40. Kentucky is very proud indeed of Senator Barkley.

Boone County was forunate in having him as her guest speaker last Thursday. He said upon accepting, "I am always glad to go to Burlington."

HIS DUE SHARE

It's a far cry from the day when the average farmer raised his produce, sold it for whatever he could and knew nothing about organization.

Today the up-to-the-minute producer belongs to an agricultural selling cooperative. His cooperative management, elected by the members, helps him to better producing methods. It studies markets, existing and potential. It makes its voice heard in legislation. It bargains with distributors—not in an attempt to overly boost prices, but to see to it that the farmer gets his due share of the eventual consumer price, for what he has to sell. It keeps its members informed on all manner of issues that affect agricultural welfare.

The result is that today's little farmer is in a sounder economic position than yesterday's farmer, big or little.

Peachie Jenkins, Magoffin county 4-H club member, has an 800-pound tobacco crop produced on one-half acre.

"The Bomb in the Garden"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Famous Headline Hunter

WOULD you like to hear the story of how the Black-Handers got Pete Barry? All right, then, I'll tell it to you. First, though, meet up with Pete himself. He lives in Pittsburgh, Pa. And if you have a package you want delivered somewhere, don't try to get Pete to deliver it for you. Packages make Pete sort of nervous.

Packages have made Pete nervous since May 25, 1933. That was in the days when a crime wave was going through Pittsburgh, and every newspaper was full of stories about gang murders. Dillinger was still at large, and—what was more to the point—a whispered rumor was floating through Pittsburgh's Italian section that the Mafia had been revived there—that numerous solid citizens of the locality had received Black Hand letters—letters full of threats about bombings.

A bomb had been placed near the Presbyterian church of North Side Pittsburgh and had exploded with considerable damage to the church. And a whole lot of bombs had been put in non-union bakeries, much to the detriment of several tons of non-union sponge cake and non-union apple pies.

It Was a Fine Day for Work in the Garden.

That was the status quo in Pittsburgh when Pete Barry started out to do a little work in his garden. It was a beautiful day for chopping weeds, so Pete shouldered his hoe and went at it. He was working way up in the corner of his garden, clearing the underbrush away from around his favorite onion, when he looked up and saw a seedy (no pun intended) looking young man leaning over the garden fence a few feet away from him.

The young fellow was fidgeting nervously. When Pete looked up, he called to him, and as Pete dropped his hoe and moved toward the lad, the lad looked apprehensively around him as if he thought someone was sneaking up on him from behind.

As Pete reached the fence, he noticed something in the stranger's arms—a brown package, tightly tied with a piece of heavy twine. The stranger lifted this package, dropped it in Pete's own arms, and then, to Pete's complete astonishment, turned and galloped away.

Pete Knew About the Bakery Bombings.

Pete couldn't quite get the idea. Did he look like an express company, and if so, which one? He yelled after the disappearing stranger, but the lad kept galloping along as fast as his feet would carry him.

Pete looked at the package. On the paper wrapper was written the address of a small bakery in McKees Rocks, Pa., along with a request that he please deliver the package to that address. And then Pete thought of the bombings—especially the bakery bombings.

There wasn't much doubt in Pete's mind by then that he had been elected to plant a bomb. He raised the package to his nose and sniffed it, and his high school knowledge of chemistry came to his aid. The familiar odor of potassium nitrate assailed his nostrils. He shook the package and it gave forth a ticking sound. Then Pete was dead certain it was a bomb.

About that time Pete's knees began to knock together. A clammy sweat broke out all over him. What if that machine exploded in his hands? Why, he'd be scattered all over the landscape. A bomb of that weight and size would contain enough explosive to blow him into tiny bits, so small that they'd have to gather him up with tweezers.

No Wonder the Young Man Felt Blue.

And on the other hand, even if he weren't killed, he would still be mixed up in that Black Hand business. If the police found him with it, they might think he was the bird that made it. And if he went to the police—if he identified the man who gave it to him, he might let himself in for some sort of gang reprisal. Says Pete: "Deep gloom of the bluest blue settled over me."

The joy of that beautiful spring day had suddenly left Pete's soul. "My first impulse," he says, "was to drop the bomb and run. But common sense told me not to leave it near home, where children might be injured. I decided to carry it to some place away from the surrounding buildings, where it could do no harm if it went off. The first ten feet I carried it seemed like a mile. With every step the bomb ticked. I lived a lifetime in the ten minutes it took me to reach a sufficiently open space. Then I set the bomb down and went back to call the chief of police of McKees Rocks."

Pete told the McKees Rocks chief of police all about that package, including to whom it was addressed. He went to the bakery first to investigate, and a little while later showed up at Pete's home.

Now, Police Chief Ed Rieder is noted for his bravery in McKees Rocks. Without any hesitation he picked up that package and started unwrapping it. Pete, watching him from a distance, saw him take off the paper and dump out on the ground—a bunch of old clothing.

Smart Scheme of the Baker's Son.

The chief explained what had happened then. The baker's son had hooked $5 out of his father's pocket and run away. He changed his clothes after he left, and, instead of throwing away a lot of perfectly good although soiled haberdashery, he had decided to use Pete as a messenger. The ticking sound that came from the inside of the package was made by the metal tabs on a pair of garters. "And as for the potassium nitrate smell," says Pete, "that was provided by—A PAIR OF DIRTY SOCKS!"

LOOK NOW—DON'T WAIT

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure—and one thorough inspection of your property may prevent a disastrous fire.

The cold season will soon envelop much of the United States. Furnaces and other heating devices will be taxed to their utmost. More lights will be used and will be in operation for more hours of the day. Fireplaces will be in service.

To enter the winter season without checking such equipment is to give a hostage to fortune. Many a heating plant has developed an inconspicuous flaw—and fire has resulted. Chimneys are always a potential source of trouble, as are flues and fireplaces. An ancient electric cord may have "worked all right last year" yet be in condition to cause a serious fire today.

If you were wise, you took advantage of Fire Prevention Week, which was observed early in October. You listened to talks, read pamphlets and learned of the more common hazards, how to search for them, and how to eliminate them. Apply that knowledge now.

If you aren't sure that you can properly inspect your property any insurance agent will be glad to help. So will fire marshals and fire departments. And there is a wealth of printed material which is obtainable for nothing.

In communities where it is possible, have the inspections made by fireman or a member of the fire marshal's department. He'll know what to look for.

So—don't wait until the snow is on the ground and the temperature is below zero to wonder whether you are safe from fire. Find out now—and if repairs are necessary, have them done immediately by qualified experts.

THE KIND OF PIG THE FARMER WANTS

Pigs may be just pigs but there is a kind that fattens best and sells best. In a talk during the College of Agriculture radio program from 12 to 12:15 Oct. 26, Grady Sellards will discuss "The Hog That is Profitabl." He will have interesting things to say about making more money from hogs.

The College of Agriculture's noon hour radio program over WHAS is attracting wide attention in Kentucky and adjoining states. Other talks the week of Oct. 26 include soil improvement, sheep raising, dairying, 4-H club work, community meetings, county planning, and the care of the orchard. Each Friday, L. C. Brewer answers farmers' questions.

The homemakers' booth at the Simpson county agricultural fair showed by means of food exhibits and an electrical sign the means of attaining growth, energy, good teeth, etc. There was also a display of a well-prepared school lunch, and a properly ararnged tray for the convalescent.

More than 300 acres of rye were seeded in Knox county for a winter cover crop.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 8

THE CHRISTIAN WARFARE

LESSON TEXT — Acts 19:8-12, 18-20; Ephesians 6:13-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Eph. 6:10.

JUNIOR TOPIC—In a Schoolhouse in Ephesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel Facing the Forces of Evil.

War, war! The whole world is war-conscious in our day. Nations are watching one another with suspicion, and in the meantime arming themselves for conflict. Hatred and suspicion are rife, and as long as sin rules the hearts of men we long in vain for peace, which cannot come until that day when the Prince of Peace himself shall reign.

Yet every Christian hopes and works for the peaceful solution of the nations' problems. Right thinking men do not want war between the peoples of the earth. But there is one warfare that we do seek to foster and promote. We encourage it, and as Christians make a holy resolve to battle to the end. That is the warfare against Satan and his hosts. As long as he rules in the hearts of men, and sin and wickedness are here, we say, "Fight on, my soul."

Christian life and service are presented in Scripture as a fight, and we do well to learn the methods and the weapons of this great spiritual conflict, not stressing a belligerent note of strife against one another, and particularly not between the divisions of God's army in the earth, but standing shoulder to shoulder in the battle against the Evil One.

I. The Lord's Warrior (Acts 19:8-12).

Paul, who is now on his third missionary journey, comes again to Ephesus, the leading city of Asia Minor, and the center of the worship of the heathen goddess, Diana. He tarries there for about three years.

Like a good tactician he began his campaign at a strategic point, the synagogue. He brought forward his God-given weapons, "reasoning and persuading." Some he won, others disbelieved — the sad fact which even this greatest of all preachers had to meet.

God attested his work by miracles. The soldier of the Lord does not go into battle alone. Nor does he fight in his own power. God gave him

II. A Mighty Conquest (vv. 18-20).

When a man's profession of faith in Christ carries with it an open forsaking of his confessed misdeeds—a true change of life as well as a declaration of belief—there has been real dealing with God.

Notice, that they burned the bad books found in their homes, even though they were valued at thousands of dollars. Christian, how many books or magazines are there in your home now that minister only to the lowest in your nature? Oh, yes, they may be "literature," they may be in beautiful bindings; you may even read them "in the original," and regard the reading as cultural. But if they are bad books, are you ready to follow the Ephesians in destroying them?

Finally we have from Paul's letter to the Ephesians the glorious presentation of the Christian's

III. God-Given Weapons (Eph. 6:13-20).

This is a familiar, but none the less rich and instructive, passage. We have space to note only that there are (1) five weapons of defense; namely, the girdle of truth, the breastplate of righteousness, the shoes of peace, the shield of faith, and the helmet of salvation, and (2) one mighty weapon of offense, the sword of the Spirit—the Word of God. A glorious and impenetrable armor and equipment for battle!

But it will do us not the slightest good unless we obey Paul's admonition and put it on.

Christian, are you wearing and using "the whole armor of God"?

More than 60 of these offices have been opened since late summer of 1934. Additional operating offices are planned for the remainder of this year and further expansion will follow where necessary during 1937.

This expansion program has been undertaken to keep pace with the great public acceptance of the Ford V-8. Throughout the country Ford Dealers have come to look upon Universal Credit Company as an outstanding sales adjunct and many outstanding dealers have stated that UCC low cost, flexible plans for the Ford buyers will play an even more important part in future sales than in the past.

The outlook for Ford sales for the remainder of this year and for 1937 is assured with the highest type of sales leadership indicated on every hand. Universal Credit is proud to play a part in bringing the great Ford products to constantly increasing thousands of the buying public by making possible the purchase of Lincoln, Lincoln-Zephyr, and Ford V-8 cars trucks, out of income, at new low costs in the industry.

During the comparatively brief period that has elapsed since the Universal Credit Company was established, that institution has financed the purchase of Ford transportation by the motor-buying public of America in the amount of more than $2,000,000,000 serving a total of more than 3,000,000 customers of Ford Dealers.

Every since Universal Credit Company commenced operations, over eight years ago, financing costs on Ford products have been materially reduced. It is estimated that time payment buyers of Ford cars and trucks have thus been saved in excess of $75,000,000 through the lower financing costs made available by the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Company. These lower credit costs have been and continue to be constructive contributions toward national economic recovery.

When asked regarding the outlook for 1937, Mr. Ernest Kanzler, president of the Universal Credit Company, recently said:

"I consider our expansion program the best expression of our confidence in recovery and in an expanding business future. We are going ahead with ourn expansio plans without hesitation. We have increased our offices to over 100 located in all sections of the United States to meet the growing demands of the public for Ford cars and for our credit services.

"These are, more than ever, days of building goodwill through efficient service and courtesy in the credit industry. Our company has always served the Ford Dealer and Ford time buyer with these factors uppermost in our mind. Thruout all our growth," said Mr. Kanzler ,"we have always kept before us our original statement of purpose made several years ago when we were first organized, in which we said: 'In the performance of our many duties, we can remember always that beyond our contribution to the advancement of organized industry, UCC is at the same time contributing substantially to the happiness and contentment of society.

"'By extending credit to every deserving person in the nation, we are enabling him to purchase Ford products at the lowest possible cost and are thereby bringing greater health and happiness to a large group of American people, heads of families as well as their children.

"'In the process of transition from the crowded city to the healthy country districts, UCC is aiding the American family to establish itself with economic advantages in more desirable locations and thus helping to raise the standard of American living conditions.

"'Because we are making a moral and social contribution, and because we have such a fundamental mission and purpose, we are confident that the compan yis on the road to further achiement and success.

"'We are indeed fortunate that such worth while purposes are being accomplished and are bound inseparably with our daily tasks. With these thoughts in mind, inseparably with our daily tasks. With these thoughts in mind, individual success cannot help but follow the inspired and painstaking efforts of every person in Universal Credti Company.'"

Universal Credit Company serves Ford Dealers exclusively and UCC Plans are available through C. W. Myers Motor Co., Florence, the local authorized Ford Dealer in this community.

Savings under the new rate are realized from a 50c reduction in the monthly minimum billing and reductions in energy charges on the various steps of the rate. Here are a few examples, showing the charges under the old and new rate schedule for various consumptions:

RESIDENTIAL SERVICE

KWH Used Per Month	Cost Under Old Rate	Cost Under New Rate	Monthly Saving	Annual Saving

150	14.60	9.10	5.50	66.00

The new rates are subject to approval of the Public Service Commission. The savings will show on the electric service statements mailed out on November 30.

The current reduction, together with the reduction made in February, 1935, has cut the cost of residential electricity to the average customers approximately one-third, while saving to commercial lighting customers have been even larger in most cases. The current reduction averages 16 per cent to domestic customers and 24 per cent to commercial lighting customers. It is a continuation of a downward trend that has made electric service one of the smallest items on the average household budget.

GOOD TIME NOW TO SET TREES, SHRUBS

In landscape suggestions to Utopia club members, Prof. N. R. Elliott of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture notes that fall is one of the best times to make plantings in Kentucky.

Evergreens may be set any time no, he says, and other trees, shrubs vines, biennial and perennial flowering plants as soon as the leaves fall.

In digging plants, leave as many about them. In the case of evergreens, there should be a ball of earth around the roots and care taken that this ball is not dried out by exposure to sun and wind.

Prune the top slightly, removing possibly 10 or 12 inches from each branch, except the top or main lateral. Do not prune severely.

Dig the holes 10 to 12 inches larger than required to accommodate the roots, and place the plant 2 inches deeper than where it was removed. Spread the roots in natural position and cover with good soil. Tamp the soil around the roots and thoroughly soak with water. Finish filling the hole, but do not tamp. Leave the soil slightly lower around the steam of the plant to catch the water. Never mound up around the plant.

Trunks of plants should be wrapped with paper or burlap and tied with string. Leave until the paper rots away.

Evergreens require frequent waterings during the winter when the temperature is above freezing, and all new plants should be well watered the first season.

PRISON SITES TO BE INSPECTED

Today at a conference at Frankfort, Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, Chairman of the Department of Welfare, appointed a Committee on Locations and Sites for the construction of the proposed medium security institution for the custody and training of two thousand or more short termed prisoners.

There is to be built on the site selected a modern, fire-proof institution that will be a honor and credit to the state.

It is proposed to make this a model training school in morals, elementary education and industrial training. This will not be in a true sense a punitive institution but one of correction and instruction in order that these yonug men may be returned to society as good citizens.

The building cost of this institution will be financed by the Federal Public Works Administration from grant funds allocated for project Ky. 1269-D by the United States government under the jurisdiction of State Director George H. Sager, Jr., of Louisville, with funds appropriated by the General Assembly for the Department of Welfare of the State of Kentucky under Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis and by direction of Governor A. B. Chandler.

This committee proposes to make an immediate investigation of all sites that have been offered and called to itts attention. This investigation will be headed by Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, Chairman of the Department of Welfare; Dr. W. A. Frost, representing the Advisory Board of the Welfare Department; Dean James H. Graham, University of Kentucky; Mr. H. L. Bonham, Assistant to the State Director, Public Works Administration; Dr. J. M. Waters, Director, Division of Corrections Welfare Department; Mr. B. T. Brewer, Secretary of the Welfare Commission; Mr. Dorsey Brown Advisor to the Welfare Department and Commissioner Elmus Beale, Inspector of Plants and Structures of the Department.

The big holiday bird is to be put on exhibition, both alive and in dressed form, at a turkey show to be held at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington Nov. 18-20. On Nov. 19 turkey raisers from all parts of the state will meet to consider ways and means of further developing their industry, which now adds more than two million dollars a year to the incomes of Kentucky farmers.

Turkeys will be on display the evening of Nov. 18, Nov. 19, and until noon Nov. 20. Wade H. Rice of the University of Maryland will be the judge. The show is being sponsored by the Turkey Club, an organization of students in the College of Agriculture. Entries will close Nov. 15.

Speakers at the meeting Nov. 19 include H. L. Sharder of the United States Department of Agriculture, S. J. Marsden of the National Agricultural Research Center Beltville, Md., Dr. J. Holmes Martin and Prof. D. G. Card of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, Jas. B. Cooper, of Donerail, Ky., and Prof. Wade H. Rice.

A demonstration in dry picking and dressing turkeys will be one of the features of the meeting, which will be open to all persons interested in poultry raising.

THOUSAND 4-H CALVES ON FEED FOR ANNUAL SHOW AT LOUISVILLE

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 21—A total of 1,011 calves are being finished by 4-H club boys and girls in 39 counties for the 15th annual fat cattle show to be held in Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville Nov. 11-13. This is 300 more calves than ever were fattened for any previous show, according to M. S. Garside of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

A total of $3,854, appropriated by the State of Kentucky, will be divided among the 4-H club winners. Rings include carloads, less than carloads. five heads, individual calves, economic production, record books, calves raised by owners, and calves finished by Utopia club members.

Owners of the best Hereford, Shorthorn and Angus calves will each receive a trip to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago, as wil lthe boy or girl writing the best composition on the subject, "The Marketing of Livestock." The essay writing class is new this year.

Mr. Garside pointed out that 150 calves on feed were raised by their owners, the largest number ever entered in this class. The College of Agriculture encourages 4-H club members to own cows and raise calves, instead of buying them.

Counties in which 50 or more calves are on feed include Garrard, Pulaski, Hart, Harrison, Henderson and Wayne.

Breathitt county homemakers have been canning every available foodstuff.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT RESETTLEMENT

This is question four of a series of questions and answers about the Resettlement Administration which are being published each week in The Recorder.

Is the rehabilitation program which is carried on by the Resettlement Administration an expensive form of relief?

Answer:

The experience of the Resettlement Administration tends strongly to prove that loans to destitute and low income farm families are a much less expensive form of relief than direct grants. The average cost of grants per family over an eight month period is about $150. This is the amount it takes to furnish a family its bare subsistence needs. The average loan is about $350. Of this seventy percent is expected to be repaid. Thus the net loss per family under the loan program is approximately $105 as compared with nearly fifty percent more under direct relief.

The family gets not only money for subsistence but also for the purchase of needed farm supplies and equipment, and a farm and home plan which will enable the family to use its resources in the most economical manner. These loans afford an opportunity for permanent rehabilitation and removal from the relief rolls. A large percent will be repaid. It is enabling thousands of families to maintain themselves as producers and self-supporting citizens contributing to the upkeep to their local governments instead of being a constant drain on them.

DEMONSTRATION WORK FOR MORE COUNTIES

The organization of homemakers' associations in several western Kentucky counties is reported by Miss Zelma Monroe, assistant state agent in home demonstration work.

An organization meeting was recently held in Caldwell county, where an appropriation for home demonstration work was made July 1. Miss Nancy B. Scrugham, who has done preliminary work in the county since February, is the home demonstration agent. There are 10 local homemakers' clubs in the county with a total membership of 230 women. They are studying "Feeding the Family from the Farm." Officers of the county association are Miss Grace Adamson, president; Mrs. Press J. Blackburn, vice-president, and Mrs. Malcolm Dunn, secretary-treasurer.

Trigg county homemakers held their organization meeting October 1. Miss Eleanor Whittinghill is home demonstration agent. She was assistant agent in Christian county last year, and did preliminary work in Trigg county from January to July, when an appropriation was made. Ten homemakers' clubs in Caldwell county have 206 members. Mrs. J. B. Alexander is president and Mrs. Anna P. Wade is vice-president.

Homemakers' organization meetings are scheduled in Logan county October 28; Todd county, October 29, and Hart county, October 30. On October 26 Ohio county homemakers will hold their first annual meeting since returning to home demonstration work, and Ballard county women will meet early in November.

E. C. Fulton of Letcher county seems to have solved the problem of how to get a good corn yield despite the drouth. e had already been applying about 2½ tons of limestone every three years, and he used a crimson clover cover crop. Result: 75 bushels of corn per acre.

PLAN ONE OF BEST CATTLE SHOWS IN HISTORY OF STATE

Lexington, Ky. Nov. 3—Plans are being made in the 4-H club department of the College of Agriculture for one of the best cattle shows in the history of Kentucky, to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville Nov. 11-13.

More than 1,000 head of calves are being finished by 4-H club members, and Future Farmers and adult feeders probably will contribute as many more cattle.

Despitte adverse feeding conditions in parts of the state, M. S. Garside, in charge of the 4-H club baby beef project, says more and better 4-H calves will be exhibited than at any previous show. Approximately 300 more 4-H calves are on feed than in any former year.

Four-H club exhibitors will receive nearly $4,000 in cash prizes, three trips to the International Live Stock Exposition, cups, medals and other awards. Several thousand dollars also will go to Future Farmers and adult feeders.

The annual Kentucky fat cattle show has become one of the most important events of its kind in America, more 4-H club calves being exhibited there than probably in any other show. The State Legislature makes an annual appropriation for prizes. National breed associations and business and industrial organizations contribute to the success of the show.

Six farmer-owned lime crushing outfits have been in constant operation in Pulaski county, with a 20 to 30-ton daily output. Two commercially operated quarries are also selling a large tonnage daily, and even at that the demand is too big to fill.

A fine stand of beardless wheat has beeen obtained by Allan Reid of Daviess county.

Producing butterfat at a feed cost of only 12 cents a pound, the mixed purebred and grade Jersey herd of R. C. Hays, Washington county, averaged 34 pounds of butterfat from 698 pounds of milk. The low herd in the county had to pay 21 cents per pound of fat produced.

MARKET CONTROL

The high spots of the market outlook for October recently announced by the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the College is as follows.

1. Prospects are favorable for a continuation of industrial production at a rate equal to that of recent months.

2. Prices of flue cured tobacco, sold prior to October first, averaged 21.6 cents per pound compared with 19.3 cents for last year.

3. The 1936 Burley crop is estimated at 217,000,000 pounds which is well below annual disappearance. The present total supply is about nine percent less than that of a year ago.

4. Beef cattle—The better grades are about to experience a price raise—the lower grades and thin cattle are not in demand and stocker and feeder cattle are only in fair demand.

5. Hogs—The heavy slaughter of packing sows predicates a small pig crop this fall and next spring and a scarcity of hogs in 1937.

6 Dairy—Lower prices for manufactured dairy products and higher prices for whole milk were factors of the past month.

7. Winter prospects for feed improved the past month.

PULVERIZED LIMESTONE

USED IN LARGE QUANTITIES BY W. H. RUCKER TO IMPROVE GRASS AND LEGUME CROPS.

W. H. Rucker, of near Constance had approximately 400 tons of agricultural limestone pulverized on his three farms the past week. This is equal to eight carloads and is the largest amount of agricultural limestone ever pulverized in Boone County for one man at one time.

Mr. Rucker has used limestone to improve the grass and legume crops grown on his farm for the last fifteen years. He appreciates the great value of limestone in soil improvement. The limestone was crushed in the Boone County Soil Improvement Association program under contract with R. W. Auton at a cost of seventy cents per ton.

The Soil Improvement Association is strictly an educational and cooperative association to promote the use of limestone, phosphate and other soil improvement practices. It has no connection with the Agricultural Conservation program other than a general cooperation nature. The contract with Mr. Auton will continue until all farmers in the county interested have had their stone pulverized. It is not necessary that any contract be signed. The farmer simply piles his rock, notifies the County Agent's office and his stone will be pulverized when the pulverizer is nearest his place. The cost is sevent cents per ton with everything except stone and piling of stone furnished by the pulverizer operator.

Farmers desiring stone pulverized and have not done so should notify the County Agent's office at Burlington immediately.

HERE'S ONE WAY TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE

The home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture notes that when reasonable care is exercised, good coffee is the rule rather than the exception even when an ordinary coffeepot is used. The following recipe is suggested as one of several good ones:

To make boiled coffee, use a level tablespoonful of coffee to the cup; add half of a teaspoonful of egg white. Put over a slow fire and take 15 minutes to bring to the boiling point, but do not allow to boil. As it is taken off the fire put in half of a cup of cold water. The coffee can be poured almost immediately.

The coffeepott should then be emptied, and thoroughly cleaned and aired to be ready for use next time.

THROUGH SOUTHEASTERN KENTUCKY, OVER THE BORDER INTO TENNESSEE AND VIRGINIA

By Mazella Flick

We left Burlington at 6 a. m. Wednesday, September 16, packed comfortably into Mr. Arvin's new truck and with our colored driver, Dave Sanders. We were rather proud of our outfit, a real party of Kentuckians, out to see "our own State First."

Our bunch included, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. M. A. Yelton, Mrs. Tom Hensley, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Pepper Smith, Mrs. Hubert Brady, Mrs. James Kelly, Mrs. Grover Jarrell, Mrs. Leonard Kite, Mrs. Gulley, Mr. and Mrs. Lee McNeely and son, Mrs. W. S. Huey and Mazella Flick.

We took our blankets, pillows and other necessary things for camping, some of us hoping to get a thrill out of our first night sleeping in camp. However, Mr. Arvin decided to stop at some convenient tourist camp each night out.

Traveling down the Dixie Highway, through Florence, John Uri Lloyd's famous "Stringtown on the Pike," on through Walton, a thriving business town of Boone County, into Grant County, through Williamstown, another one of the interesting small towns one sees along the State highway.

As we drew near Georgetown, in Scott county, we noticed quite a change in the pasture land, grazing seemed much better. There were many herds of sleek cattle to be seen in the bluegrass pastures, many of these enclosed by the stone fences of Civil War days. Many of these stones were probably laid by slaves, before freedom came, when our fair States were bathed in that bloody strife between the North and South.

In Georgetown is located one of our Baptist Colelges, for the training of many of Kentucky's talented boys and girls.

Coming into Fayette County, we are now in the center of Kentucky's famous bluegrass district. The land is rolling and one can see miles of bluegrass pasture land. Here are also located many of Kentucky's famous race horse stables, where noted winners are taken care of and trained for the track. I wonder if there can live a truce Kentuckian whose heart does not thrill at the sight of a beautiful horse?

Lexington is a beautiful city with a perfect setting. It has often been called "The Belle of Kentucky." We did not pass the State College buildings, but here, many of Kentucky's sons and daughters receive their higher education and training for life. Lexington is also famous for its many-large tobacco warehouses, having the largest tobacco market in the world. Millions of pounds are sold over the market, attracting buyers from all over the world. We did not stop here, but hurried on, Mr. Arvin hoping to reach Dix Dam for our noon lunch. On our way over to the Dam we followed the Highway for many miles around the base of high cliffs of solid limestone, passing through Boone's Tunnel. We crossed the Kentucky River here, as we wound around the base of the cliffs on the eastern sdie. The bluffs above the river were high and rugged and of many tints and colors. The scenery was wonderful. Surely the Master Sculptor alone could create such grandeur with only the chisel of nature.

Arriving at the dam at noon, we were quite happy to get out of the truck and stretch our tired limbs. Our appetities were also ready for sandwiches, fruit, or whatever we happened to have in our lunch boxes. Some of our party had failed to bring a lunch box, hoping to find a refreshment stand on the grounds, but for some reason, the room was closed, and they, refusing to eat cold lunch, proved themselves good sports by lunching on fresh air and beautiful scenery.

Dix Dam is a wonderful tribute to the engineer's skill, with its great reservoir held by the strong concrete and rock wall and the the flood waters. We stood on the wall, looking far below, where the large power plant is located. We could get a splendid view of the great dinamos that get their power from the water control above the wall. Some of our party followed a winding path, used by workmen, down the steep bank in order to get a closer view of th e power plant.

Leaving the dam, we drove on toward Nicholasville, in Jessamine County. The country is rather hilly, and the pastures were looking very brown and dry and crops were not so good. But one thing that was especially good to see, the modern school buildings and churches.

We came to Danville, in Boyle County, late in the afternoon, another College town, clean and very attractive. Some of our Boone County boys attended college here.

Going on into Lincoln County, we passed through Stanford. Here we first caught sight of the coal mines. Being late in the afternoon, the miners were coming out of the shafts on their way home. Their lanters fasttened to the front of their caps, their grimy faces and hands, told only too well their sordid task. On the upper surface of the ground, the coal dust was burning, causing a choking smoke and giving forth a strong sulphur odor.

We came into Mt. Vernon in Rockcastle County, just before dark. Here we stopped to inquire about a tourist camp for the night. Driving on for a few miles, we arrived at a very attractive camp near Livingston, Pine Lodge Camp. Here were many modern cottages, clean and quite comfortable. We ate our supper and stayed Wednesday night.

We were up at five the next morning, not waiting for breakfast, but were in the truck and on our way toward London, reaching there at about 6 o'clock. We stopped for breakfast, while Mrs. Hensley went over to the Hotel to speak to her son, Robert, who happened to be stopping there.

Leaving Laurel we next entered Whitley County passed through Williamsburg. We could now see mountains on all sides, and far up the sides, could be seen the little mountain cabins, and the blue smoke coming out of the low built chimneys, at all hours of day made one wonder if the moonshine still was not now to be found in operation. I thought of the story told by the prohibition agent, who was sent into the mountains to hunt out the moonshine stills. He came to a remote mountain path, a small boy was standing beside the road. "Say, sonny, if you'll tell me where there this path leads I'll give you $5 when I come back." The little mountain lad replied, "Mr, you'd better give me that $5 right now, cuz if you go up that path, you ain't ever comin' back"—a bit of mountain shrewdness.

We reached Corbin about 9 a. m. Thursday. Here Mr. Arvin stopped at a filling station, then started on for Cumberland Falls, located 20 miles west of Corbin in Cumberland Falls State Park, and can easily be reached over a State maintained road recently finished. The road up the mountain is quite steep and winding, yet, one gets a wonderful view on the way up to the summit. The morning was quite dark and there was a heavy mist hanging over the peaks, so the viey was not quite so clear as if the sun had been shining. Looking down the mountain side, we could see a large camp, where quite a large number of the CCC boys were working on the road through the park. They also serve as guides for tourists.

Cumberland Falls is sometimes called "Kentucky's Niagara." The falls are about eighty feet in height and about 125 feet wide. The great volume of water that yours over the falls at all times, creates a roar and mist of a Niagara. One really gets a thrill in standing back under the great ledge of rocks over which the water pours, by walking carefully down a short grade and over a ledge of rocks, hugging the wall of rocks closely, you can walk directly under the falls. Standing here, with water pouring over the ledge far out in front, the mist comes back over you and the roar of the water's sound is like a constant roar of deep thunder.

The moonbow seen from the falls during full moon on clear nights, is a natural phenomenon, occurring in only two places in the world, Victoria Falls in Southern Africa and Cumberland Falls in Kentucky.

Some of us done some mountain climbing. There were many trails leading up and over the mountains: These trails were numbered so that one could easily find their way back tot the falls. We left the falls late in the afternoon going through Williamsburg in Whitley County over to Jellico, Tenn. The land was very rough, yet the mountains were very beautiful. There were many pretty homes, modern bungalows, and the little mountain cabins, with barefoot children playing in the yards.

We reached Lafollette, Tenn., 20 miles from Knoxville, about dark staying at "Claiborn's Tourist Court." This camp was quite modern with brick cabins, white stucco finish on the old Spanish adobe style, private bath, garage and steam heat. We happened not to need the heat at this time.

This little southern town was very beautiful and everyone seemed to bid you welcome. No one appeared to be in a hurry, and really it was worth coming all the way to Tennessee, just to hear them say "Howdy" and You all come back again" with that ture Southtern drawn.

Friday morning we started for Norris Dam, which up to the time of the TVA was called the Core Creek Dam. It is situated near Lafollette and Coal Creek on the Clinch River in Tenniessee. The name was changed to Norris Dam in honor of United States Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, who labored so many years to secure the necessary legislation for this development.

The dimensions of Norris Dam are: height 250 feet from foundation to roadway, thickness 210 feet at the base and length 1800 feet at the crest. The elevation of roadway on the crest is 1060 feet above sea level. The lake formed by impounding the waters at Norris Dam covers eighty square miles, with a shore line of 800 miles. The estimated cost of the dam is $34,000,000. This dam was dedicated by President Roosevelt several years ago.

Leaving Norris Dam, Mr. Arvin turned east toward Cumberland Gap, passing through this little city, where three states meet, Tennessee, Virgina and Kentucky. We reached Pinnacle Mountain. Here the road winds around and up the mountain side to a filling station at the Gap. Mr. Arvin stopped to find out how many of our party wished go to the top of Pinnacle Mountain. Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Hensley, Mrs. M. C. Neeley and Mrs. Brady remained while the rest of our party, numbering 13 started in the truck to the top of the mountain. Dave proved to be a splendid driver even though at times we did try to move over to the upper side of the truck, near the side that we might hang the longest before toppling over the cliff, 2900 feet below. On reaching the summit, we left the truck, feeling a little dizzy and our ears had a little peculiar noise in them. The view from here was wonderful, the scene below was like a great map spread before our eyes. Here, one is looking in five States, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia. There were exclamations of delight from different ones, but missing one of our party we looked around to see Mrs. Pepper Smith, climbing over a high ledge of rocks. She said that she had crawled out on a rock to get a better view of the scene below. We spent a few hours here and then started down, just a little more cautious than when coming up the mountain. On reaching the Station the rest of our party joined us and we started through Cumberland Gap. I noticed in front of the truck, Mrs. Tom Hensley was making wild gestures and an exciting speech. Some one said, "she's telling Mrs. Brady that we are going through the Gap right now." She was unable to see the Gap that Daniel Boone had blazed over the Cumberland Mountains, and through the gap into the wilderness of Kentucky from Tennessee. Here is also the setting of John Fox, Jr.'s splendid book, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

Entering Middlesboro in Bell County on to Pineville, one of the several beautiful mountain towns we passed through. We next came to Barbourville in Knox County, on to Corbin, where we stopped for the night at "White Castle Lodge." Saturday morning we came thru Mt. Vernon. Here we changed our route, going over to Berea, in Madison County, through Richmond, both of which are College towns, where many of Boone County's boys and girls have received their education.

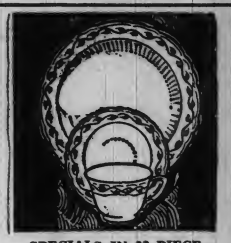
We came through Winchester in Clark County, Paris and Cynthiana both of which are large tobacco markets where quite a few Boone County farmers sell their tobacco crops each year.

Through Falmouth and Butler in Pendleton County, over to Walton, back in Boone County. Shall we say, the very best county of all? Back to Burlington just after dark Saturday evening—tired—yes, but very happy. Mrs. Garrison proposed three cheers for Mr. Arvin and they were gladly given.

But, there is a little town that nestles in a certain little valley, with beautiful hills surrounding it on three sides, and over looking the beautiful Ohio River, where the sun drops behind the Indiana hills to the West, this little town is called Belleview, and is called "home," by three of Mr. Arvin's party.

DIVIDING A HERD

This story of dividing a herd of cows is not new, but it may interest those who have not heard it. Anyway, it is a neat problem in trick mathematics.



A farmer died possessed of a herd of 17 cows, of which he willed his wife one-half, his son one-third, and his daughter one-ninth. The executor of the will was stumped, but called a mathematical shark to his aid, with this happy result:

A cow was borrowed from a neighbor, making 18. The widow was given 9, which was one-half; the son got six, which was his one-third; then the daughter received 2, or one-ninth. This totaled 17, the number to be divided, which the borrowed cow was left. She was returned to her owner, and everybody was satisfied.

FOLLOW DELAWARE'S EXAMPLE

Delaware is a small state—but it has big and worthwhile ideas.

One of these ideas is its annual motor vehicle inspection campaign conducted under complete state control. Delaware pioneered this idea.

During two recent weeks 24,000 cars were examined and approved. Thousand of other cars were found defective and orders to correct mechanical hazards were issued. Defective foot brakes proved the most serious cause for rejection, with bad lights second.

In addition, during last year alone the state removed 580 antiquated vehicles and sent them to a well deserved rest on the junkpile.

It is of great interest that, according to Delaware's Secretary of State, there has been an almost complete "right about face" in the public attitude toward these inspection campaigns. At first, drivers were antagonistic—now the great bulk of them appreciate the value and necessity of inspections and are eager to cooperate.

Every state should adopt the Delaware plan—and keep it up year in and year out. Some states have carried on sporadic, badly organized inspection campaigns, with inadequate facilities and little good has resulted. Other states have conducted campaigns in which drivers could have their cars inspected or not, as they chose. Such campaigns are a waste of time—the drivers with defective machines stay away from the inspection stations.

The mechanically dangerous car is directly responsible for hundreds of deaths and thousands of injuries annually. Its elimination is essential if we are to reduce the ghastly automobile accident toll.

The Light Meter Tells Why!

This is the scientific new Light Meter. It measures light as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature.

BOTH of these men have normal eyesight. The seeing task is the same. The difference is the amount of light falling upon the papers. The Light Meter shows that the man at the left is straining his eyes under less than five footcandles of light . . . while the man at the right enjoys comfortable reading with better than 30 footcandles.

Now, thanks to the world's largest research laboratories, the lighting in your home can be measured as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature! Held under your reading lamp, the scientific new Light Meter tells instantly how much light you are getting and how much light you need for seeing without eyestrain.

We'll be glad to make a Light Meter check-up of the lighting in your home without cost or obligation to you. Just phone for an appointment today.

FOOT CARE SHOULD BEGIN IN CHILDHOOD

By N. Tulch, Foot Comfort Specialist at Peoples' Foot Comfort Covington, Ky.

It is safe to assume that the great majority of foot defectiveness were born with strong normal feet, as only a very small personage of children are born with deformed feet. On the contrary, a baby's feet are almost always perfect. We are forced to conclude, therefore, that most feet defects are the direct result of misuse, and the neglect of proper care that should have began by the parents in the child's infancy. Experts agree that if the feet of all school children were given proper attention the lame and the half, the shuffling walk, desrepitude caused by flat feet would disappear, especially, they agree, would this result if together with receiving foot treatment the child were instructed as to how to prevent foot trouble. This means primarily hat children should be advised carefully about their shoes, for a large percentage of foot ills are due to wearing shoes that do not fit. The sensitive bones of the feet are cramped and misshaped inside the shoes, and ultimately as the resistance of the muscles wear down under the constant strain, the arches give way. Then the strain is conveyed to legs, hips, and back, frequently resulting in general nervous disorders.

Your nerves form a human telephone system. Your body contains over 600 nerves all connected to your spinal cord or brain.

Constant constriction causes nerves irritation, degeneration and painful reflexes, that is why cramped nerves in your feet cause pains in your legs and back.

Parents, scold children for slouchy, slumping, when their shoes are to blame. People suffer mental upset, nervousness, aches and pains when proper shoes (shaped to fit and support those fifty-two bones in your feet) would benefit the entire body and preserve your general health.

Fortunes are spent in patent medicines and appliances when the shoe alone is the answer.

Why suffer longer? Why take chances with your health, comfort, peace of mind.

Go where schooled men will fit you wish scientifically correct shoes for your type of feet. The writer cannot urge too strongly to remember, that you cannot have bad feet and enjoy good health.

REPORT FACTORS IN FARMING SUCCESS IN CENTRAL BLUEGRASS

Following a study of records of 50 Central Kentucky farms for 1935, the farm economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture lists the following practices in general as making for success:

Higher crop yields.

More dairy cattle on the smaller farms.

Thirteen of the 50 farms contained less than 125 acres. On these small farms best results came from relatively large acreages of tobacco grown on good land and giving high yields, and also from good yields, of corn and wheat, combined with profitable dairying and poultry raising. There was no cropper labor.

Fifteen of the 50 farms contained 125 to 224 acres. On the more profitable farms of this size less attention was given to corn and more emphasis placed on tobacco, wheat, hay and bluegrass seed. Sheep and beef cattle assumed more importance than on small farms, and there were fewer dairy cows and hogs. The same factors figured in profits on farms of 225 to 324 acres.

On large farms of 325 acres or more, higher profits were made where a smaller percentage of tillage land was in corn and a larger percentage in tobacco and hay. High yields in corn, wheat, tobacco and bluegrass seed were important in making these large farms profitable.

HI-Y BOYS AID RESIDENTS IN CLEARING AWAY SNOW

The boys of the local high school came to the aid of many residents of this town early Wednesday morning by helping to remove the heavy snow that fell in such a short time. Trees, shrubbery and all sidewalks were covered with approximately six inches of a very heavy and clinging snow.

The Hi-Y boys came to the rescue of many trees that were breaking under the extreme weight, and relieved them by shaking the snow from the branches. Although the downfall of snow is still continuing, and for the benefit of the trees you desire to save, it is a good idea to keep them free from the snow by frequently shaking same.

The citizens of this town wish to express their appreciation to this group of boys for their kindness and help, and assure them that their deed met with the approval of everyone.

RECORD SNOW FALLS IN BOONE COUNTY WED.

Never before in the lives of our oldest residents can they remember a snowfall such as we have experienced, to fall on or before November 4th, in Boone County.

Reports vary from ten to four-has caused considerable trouble for has caused cnsiderable trouble for both the Telephone Company and the Community Public Service Co. They were busy all day Wednesday, and it was not until late Wednesday afternoon that we had electric in this town. Other towns reported similar experiences, some having both electric power and telephone service out of commission at the same time.

During such weather as this, persons should be careful not to park cars or walk on sidewalks over which electric wires are used. Under the extreme weight, they may break at any moment, causing destruction of both life and property.

VOLUME 61 — BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1936 — NUMBER 27

POULTRY PAYS 81c PER HOUR

TO GRANT MADDOX OF NEAR FLORENCE FOR THE POULTRY YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1936.

Grant Maddox, of near Florence received a net labor income of 81 cents per hour for 2825 hours on an average of 728 laying hens for the poultry year ending September 30th. This is one of the best managed commercial demonstration poultry flocks in Kentucky, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The average hen in the flock laid 163½ eggs, consumed $2.34 worth of feed and paid $3.12 above feed cost.

The above demonstration was not an average. It is unusual in that a 100 per cent clean chick brooding program was followed combined with a farm and custom hatchery and careful scientific management. Close culling was followed throughout the year. One thousand ninety-five laying pullets were put in the house on October 1st, 1935. Only 320 of these birds remained in the flock of October 1st, 1936.

The commercial poultry flock cannot be set up as a model for the farm flock, acocrding to the County Agent. They are probably more financial failure in commercial poultry raising in the hands of the average man than any other line of farm business. However, the farm flock owner can learn some very important lessons from the commercial flock owner.

Among these are:

1. Start with clean, healthy B. W. D. free chicks and raise them on clean ground.
2. Have well developed, early hatched pullets for fall and winter eggs.
3. Raise stock of known high egg producing strains.
4. Full feed balanced rations in good houses.
5. Cull closely. Maddox culled approximately 70 per cent of his birds as soon as individual birds quit laying.

HUNTERS ARRESTED BY GAME WARDENS

With the arrest of three persons charged with hunting without state licenses and with hunting out of season, northern Kentucky game wardens said Tuesday these action are only the beginning of a drive throughout the winter.

Fred Fields, Clarence Fields and James Hyatt, all of the Decoursey region of Kenton county were fined $15 and costs when arraigned before Magistrate William J. Ranshaw in Covington Saturday.

E. M. Johnson, Walton, former supervisor of game wardens for 15 Kentucky counties, assisted S. D. McCauley, Cynthiana; Lennie Busby and Stanley Shelton, both of Grant county in making the arrests.

Mr. Johnson and Mr. Shelton said these first arrests are only a warning and that more drastic action will follow during the hunting season which opens Nov. 24.

They will go everywhere, carrying a message of health, hope and happiness.

ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

BY BULLITTSVILLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH WHEN IT PASSED ITS FIFTY-SEVENTH YEAR SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 8.

The Bullittsville Christian Church celebrated its 57th birthday Sunday, November 8. A number of distinguished visitors were present, and, thus, the program of the day was very interesting and inspiration.

Sunday School was held as usual at 10:00 a. m. It was followed by the morning service with B. C. Bobblit, who is the new secretary and director of religious education for the Disciples of Christ in Kentucky, serving in the pulpit. Job. 36:2 "Suffer me a little, and I will shew thee that I have yet to speak on God's behalf," might be called the text for his impressive sermon. After the service everyone was invited to the church basement, where the tables were heaped with good things to eat.

The first speaker in the afternoon was Miss Emma Jane Ennis, who has been one of our Missionaries to India for 27 years. Interesting to note is the fact that Miss Ennis was formerly of the Detroit Church of which Edgar DeWitt Jones is now pastor. Miss Ennis has charge of a girls' school in the City of the Lost Poor. She gave a brief picture of the work there. It is the purpose of this school to send out young Indians, who are fully equipped in education and whose lives are consecrated to Christ. These young people need to develop great strength of character and to be firm in their stand for right, since the social environment into which they go presents a multitude of more serious problems than our young people are facing today.

Next came a few words by Mrs. L. Madge Smith, who is circulation manager for the "World Call," the missionary magazine. She told how one might take an airplane trip arond the world and thus keep track of all of the missionary work going on over all the world. Thru "World Call" one may visit the coke regions of Pennsylvania, Jarvis College, the old women's homes China, Japan, India and many more.

Mrs. June Stanley, a state missionary worker, was next on the program. First, she stressed the point that the real purpose of an anniversary celebration is not to live in the past, but to plan work in the future. After this bit of warning, she paid tribute to some of the outstanding women in missionary work in Kentucky, and especially in Boone County. The first president of the Women's Christian Missionary Society in Kentucky was Mrs. Keene, whose husband was Bullittsville's first pastor. Mrs. Nannie Rucker has the honor of beginning the women's missionary work in Boone County. Mrs. Stanley stated that Kentucky held second place among the Women's Christian Missionary Societies of the United States in membership, subscriptions, and

HUNTING SEASON OPENS NOV. 24TH

LANDOWENRS URGED TO POST FARMS BY DEPARTMENT OF GAME CONSERVATION. TRAPPERS MUST HAVE LICENSE.

Tuesday, November 24th, marks the opening of the hunting season for quail and rabbit, and it is expected that many hunters will be in the fields that date.

According to all reports there are plenty of quail and rabbits in this county and that wild game of all species are plentiful. Caution should be used by all hunters, for there are many who suffer from gunshot wounds each year due to careless on the part of some individual.

The following information has been given out by the Jas. Brown, director of the Department of Conservation, of Game and Fish Commission:

Open season on squirrels Aug. 1, Nov. 30, daily lime 12; doves, Sept. 1, Nov. 15, daily limit 15; Quail, Nov. 24, Jan. 9, daily limit 12, possession limit 24, season 75; Rabbit, Nov. 24 to Jan. 9, no limit; Ducks, Nov. 26 to Dec. 25; Geese, Nov. 26 to Dec. 25; Coon, Mink, Fox Otter, Skunk, and Oppossum, Nov. 15, to Dec. 31.

Licenses does not convey the right to hunt or fish without the lawner's consent and land owners permission does not convey the right to hunt without license.

Resident fishing license are $1 ;non-resident, $2.50; non-resident fishing license, for 7 days $1.00; resident hunting license $1; non-resident hunting license $10.50

Resident landowners, tenants and members of their family may hunt or fish on their land or land they have leased with license. Women and minors may fish without license.

Several queries have been made as to whether trappers are compelled to have license. The law states that trappers are required to have their hunting license.

The Game and Fish Commission are urging all farmers to post their farms. This request is being made in order that local sportsmen will be able to preserve the game in their own localities.

When the hunting season opens, think of the farmer and his property when you are hunting—he will appreciate it.

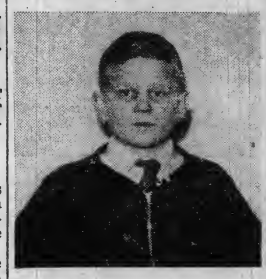
INTERESTING LEDGER FOUND



Mrs. Mattie Shinkle, who lives at Idlewild, Boone County, has in her possession an old ledger for the year 1850. Does anyone who might read this, know who owned a store at Idlewild at that time?

Many Gaines' and Berkshire's and such old family names are among those whose accounts are listed.

It is interesting to read the accounts and see how different from today was the buying or trading then, as many accounts were balanced by products from the farm, which the storekeeper would take in trade—beeswax for instance. Kerosene is not seen anywhere on its pags,—it's candles. Linsey-woolkey was a popular fabric as it is recorded where quite a bit of it was purchased.

She also has another very old book, it is the twenty-four copies of a semi-monthly farm magazine, "The Ohio Cultivator" which is in book form. It is very interesting as it has items written by farmers of that day, advertisements and livestock and produce market prices. These magazines were published in 1845. She has, too, some very old costumes.

John Mark Heinback, above, was judged to have the best record book for 4-H Clubs in Boone County. His story of "How I Grew My Crop" will be found on page eight.

MEAT CANNING DEMONSTRATION

TO BE HELD IN BOONE COUNTY NOVEMBER 30 — UNIVERSITY SPECIALIST TO BE HERE FOR DEMONSTRATION.

Canning of beef, pork and chickens will be demonstrated by a specialist from the University of Kentucky to Homemakers of this county, Monday, November 30th.

Meat canning has become more popular the last few years. Homemakers have found that a meat surplus during the butchering period can be preserved and put on the emergency shelf for future use. Canning of meat will be very important this year because meats sold on the retail market are higher.

The demonstration will be open to anyone interested, according to Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

WILL REFINANCE BIG STATE DEBT

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 10—If the present rate of subscriptions on the part of holders of 5 per cent interest-bearing state warrants for the new 3 per cent paper continues the entire floating debt of more than $15,000,000 will be refinanced with but little cash outlay.

State Treasurer John E. Buckingham already has called $3,225,000 worth of the old warrants to be redeemed under an alternate plan of cash for the present warrant. Ninety-five per cent of the number have asked for the new warrants.

Not only that but many other citizens have written the treasurer asking that they be allowed to get hold of a state warrant. This is in direct contrast to the actions of citizens two and three years ago when warrants were spurned, even though tax-free.

If the present rate of subscriptions to the new warrants continues the entire batch of 5 per cent warrants, aggregating $15,000,000, will be out of existence within a year, and the state's floating indebtedness which already is on the downgrade, carrying interest at 3 per cent.

Mr. Buckingham holds a whiphand over those who would kick at the prospect of losing 2 per cent from the statutory rate of interest. If they do not desire to accept a 3 per cent warrant he may redeem their present 5 per cent warrant with cash, and cut off all interest collections from the present holder.

One of the best revivals in the history of the local Baptist church close Sunday night with nineteen additions.

According to some of those in attendance at the services, Rev. Miller, in their estimation is one of the best speakers in the pulpit today. His sermons were inspirational and enjoyed by all present.

Rev. DeHart filled his place as song leader, most creditably and was given much credit for the success of the meeting.

The following were received as candidates for baptism during the revival meeting: Charles Benson, William Jarrell, Harry Cress, Orville Sebree, Robert Utz, Betty Padget, Mary Jane Pettit, Ida Pearl Gulley, Norris Gaines, Billy Bert Gaines, Harold Gaines, Calvin Courtney Kelly, Mrs. Courtney Kelly, Nelson Poston, E. M. Poston, Frank Maurer, Buck Cress and Helen Cress. Mrs. Murray was received under the watch-care of the church awaiting her letter from Belleview.

The time of the baptismal service will be announced next Sunday.

Rev. James stated that he was very much pleased with the results of the revival. He said: "Let us, under the leadership of God's spirit, continue the revival."

BEAGLE TRIALS HELD AT UNION

FROM WEDNESDAY UNTIL SUNDAY—OLD SHAY EZRA WINS OVER TWENTY-SIX ENTRIES IN CLASSIC EVENT.

Old Shay Ezra, owned by Haines & Hathaway, McKee's Rock, Pa., defeated 26 other 15-inch all-age dog entries to win the classic event of the seventh annual field trials of the Ohio Valley Beagle Club, run Sunday at Union, Ky.

A total of 109 beagles entered in the six classes participated in the trials, held from Wednesday thru Sunday. Dogs from all sections of the east and middlewest were entered.

Except in the two derby classes, few Greater Cincinnati dogs placed. Individual handling honors were won by Dale Sutton, nationally known beagler, New Haven, Ky. Mr. Sutton handled the winners of both 13-inch all-age classes, and the 15-inch all-age classes, and the 15-inch all-age bitch class, and placed second in the 15-inch all-age class.

The running of the trials was spotty during the first two days because of a heavy snow fall. Rabbits were unusually numerous on the grounds this year, but when the snow melted drives were fast and hard.

L. A. Thompson is improving from a recent illness.

Editorial of the Week

AN EXPRESS MANDATE OF CONFIDENCE

Little is said regarding last Tuesday's election except maybe, "I never thought his majority would be that large," or "wasn't that a great victory." It was indeed, a great victory, and one for which President Roosevelt is deeply grateful, but along with that gratification that came to the President for those millions who expressed by popular mandate their willingness that he continue, there was a shadow of gloom cast over him as he sat in his family circle receiving the returns on last Tuesday evening.

Even thought it is, as expressed by the St. Paul Pioneer Press, "That one exception, which alone can be more satisfying to the Statesman than popular acclaim, is to recevie the vindication of time and experience," yet he realized at the same time so acutely, the feeling expressed by an editorial writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. "The superlative tribute which the people of the United States have accorded the President imposes upon him responsibilities so clossal as to stagger the imagination."

It is conceded that President Roosevelt has had an uphill fight since the beginning and most successful was he in shoving aside all impediments. Each time he did so, he gained the acclaim of thousands who were formerly against him. To Mr. Roosevelt there now comes the opportunity of making for himself one of the few permanent places in history. From now on it is a case of to have and to hold—but to hold doesn't mean to be static. It means consolidation of gains, and other gains to come.

Today he is sitting on top of the world. And when you sit there you can't sit any higher. The only direction in which you can go is down. The strain of holding will not be the severest test of the tensile strength of Mr. Roosevelts' greatness during the next four years.

The hatred that has been so violent will soon be gone with the winds of blustery campaign now dead. But the job will remain. He will need all of the help he can get. He should not increase the resistance but rather do all in his power to dominish it. He has been endorsed by his people. Backed by that endorsement he will not find it difficult to convince even many of those who were bitterest in their hate, that his objectives in this democracy of ours are "in the interest of the welfare of the United States of America."

We feel that there will be a replacement of the worriedness of the depression days by a feeling of confidence and hope in the reconstruction now about to commence.

CONSOLIDATED RURAL SCHOOLS

It is gratifying to consider the improved schools that are now available to rural pupils all over this country. This is due, largely, to consolidated schools, which take the place of several smaller schools.

In the United States today there are more than 15,000 consolidated schools and additional schools, which take the place of several smaller schools.

In the United States today there are more than 15,000 consolidated schools and additional consolidations are proceeding at the rate of three a day for the entire year.

The work has far to go, however, when one considers that there are still approximately 160,000 one-teacher schools. This number is decreasing at the rate of 5,000 a year, it is estimated.

We do not decry the one-teacher school. It has performed its task in a splendid manner and we know of no more heoric figure in the social life of any community than the brave little woman, who undertakes the management of a one-teacher school, usually without much compensation, either in the way of cash or appreciation.

However, thousands of them can be eliminated through consolidated grammar schools, which will give to all students in a given district a better, more efficient school as far as the physical plant goes. With more more teachers of equal ability, it should also afford better training.

Just as a number of weak schools are consolidated into better graded school, so do we find consolidated high school. This usually embraces a number of districts which while maintaining in each district a graded school, sustains at a central point an improved high school. Some of them, miles from railroads, would surprise those who have not looked into this development.

The people of Boone County should keep alive to this method of increasing the physical capacity of our own school system. The consolidation plan has brought to rural students, wherever put into effect, greater possibilities, and there is no insurmountable objection to the realization of the hope that the day will come when many thousands of rural students will be able to attend a high school that will rate equally with those in the larger county seats.

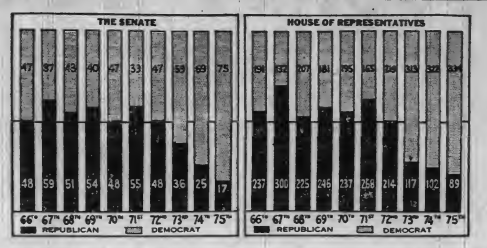
THE HUNTING SEASON

November 24th, just twelve days from today, the hunting season will open. Many hunters from all sections will flock to Boone and other rural counties during the first few days of the season.

Hunters should consider the farmers property and take every precaution to do no damage while in their quest for game.

In past years land owners of this county have been very courteous to outsiders who have asked permission to hunt, and we feel that the hunters should be just as thoughtful of the farmers property.

There have been accidents, with hunters shooting, sometimes killing stock belonging to farmers. In some instances the hunter was man enough to pay the damage, while others have skipped out, leaving the farmer the loss—many times the loss being great.



Many landowners have posted their property in this paper—some with the intentions of keeping all hunters from their property, while other have posted their land, only to keep out the hunters from distant sections. In either case it is best for those wishing to enter a man's farm to ask his permission, whether it be posted or not.

Trappers will be required to abide strictly to the law this year. The law provides that all trappers must obtain a hunting license and must place their traps a certain distance underground. This law is for the protection of the farmer's sheep and cattle.

Resident licenses will be sold by the County Clerk at 1.00 each, and it is advisable to obtain your license before hunting, as game wardens are very strict in this section.

It will behoove every hunter to be sure what he is shooting at before he pulls the trigger—many times it has been a turkey or chicken.

Party Line-Ups in 10 Congresses

This chart shows how Republicans and Democrats will share seats in both houses of seventy-fifth congress, as compared with nine preceding congresses.

Election Sets a New Record With 43,000,000 Votes Cast

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, elected to a second term by a greater plurality than any candidate has ever enjoyed in the past, finds himself now with perhaps more power than has ever before been trusted to any man in the world. He polled some 25,500,000 popular votes, to set a new all-time record. Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his Republican opponent, was a bit shy of 16,000,000, while William Lemke, the Union party candidate, polled about three-fourths of a million.

These results were based upon 107,309 districts reported out of the 122,722 in the United States. It was estimated that the total vote, with all districts reported, would approximate 43,000,000 also a new all-time record.

The American people, providing the incumbent Democratic candidate with 523 votes in the electoral college to 8 for Governor Landon, also voiced their approval of the New Deal by materially increasing the Democratic majority in both houses of congress.

The senate in the Seventy-fifth congress will find the Democrats with 75 of the 96 seats, outnumbering the opposition more than 4 to 1. The house of representatives, where the Republicans had hoped to recover as much as 125 seats, will see the Democrats even stronger than before, holding 334 seats against 89 for the G. O. P.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE BY STATES

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt swept to re-election on the crest of the largest wave of votes, both popular and electoral, ever cast for a Presidential candidate, it was apparent with 105,251 districts reported out of a total of 122,772 in the United States. The table below shows the number of districts reporting in each state, the popular vote, the electoral vote and the winner's plurality in each state. Pluralities are estimated, since in most cases complete returns will not be available for some time:

Lesson for November 15

THE HEROISM OF CHRISTIAN FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34; Romans 9:1-5.

PRIMARY TOPIC—On the Castle Steps.

JUNIOR TOPIC—On the Castle Steps.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Risking All for Christ.

We now come to the close of the third missonary journey of Paul. As he came to Jerusalem for the last time in his eventful life he was warned by a prophet, Agabus at Caesarea, that if he went up to Jerusalen he would be bound and given over to the Gentiles.

Heroism of the highest and noblest type has characterized the followers of Christ in all times. Paul was not one to be deterred from what he believed to be God's will by the probability that he would suffer. Like all who follow the Lord Jesus Christ in truth he was

I. Fearless, in Practice as Well as Theory (Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34).

Many there are who sing, "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord, I'll be what you want me to be," or smoothly repeat consecration vows, who are frightened away at the slightest difficulty, and who feel that they must have been mistaken about the Lord's will for their life at the first indication that his guidance would interfere with their comfort or convenience. No such cowardice or vacillation was found in Paul.

In the first place, he did not intend to have a holy purpose weakened by disheartening talk. How many young men and women have left a place of sacred meeting with God aglow with the purpose of serving Him in the foreign mission field, and then permitted an uninterested friend or relative or employer to talk them out of it.

In the second place, we find Paul carrying through his purpose. When he came to Jerusalem he was counseled to enter the temple to take a Nazarite vow, and thus to satisfy his enemies. Some have commended Paul for thus pacifying those who withstood him, others strongly condemn him for yielding. His purpose was good, but his act led to unfortunate results. An infuriated Jewish mob saw him in the temple and wrongfully accused him of defiling the temple by bringing a Greek into this holy place.

A riot ensues, and Paul would have been killed had not the Roman captain and his band rescued him. Was Paul afraid? He immediately turned his arrest into an unsurpassed opportunity to give a testimony and to make a defense of his ministry (See Acts 21:40-22:22). He admonished others to "be instant in season and out of season" (II Tim. 4:2); he practiced what he preached. He constantly urged faith in God, steadfastness in the midst of trials; he gave full proof of these things in his own ministry.

In all this he did not seek his own glory, or any honor for his own name. The Christian hero knows nothing of heroism for publicity's sake; he does not serve with an eye on the "grandstand." Paul was actuated by a deep and a genuine

II. Concern for the Salvation of His People (Rom 9:1-5).

The Christian worker who knows nothing of "great sorrow and unceasing pain" in his heart over the plight of the unsaved does not follow in the Pauline succession, nor does he know the heart of the Man of Sorrows.

Paul surely did not wish himself separated from Christ, but was so deeply moved that he said he "could wish" it—if it were not wrong—in order to save his brethren.

Do we need a revival of compassion in our churches, and in our own hearts, a yearning over the multitudes about us who are as sheep without a shepherd?

A Golden Link

A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age, and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall with a softened heart, the fond devotion, or the gentle chidings, of the best friend that God ever gives us.

Love of Our Work

It is only those who do not know how to work that do not love it. To those who do it is better than play—it is religion.

Life

Life is not made up of great sacrifices of duties, but of little things of which smiles and kindness and small obligations given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

Prejudices

Prejudices may be intense, but their lives are limited—to discover when they are dead and to bury them, is an important matter, and no unseemly tears should be shed at their funerals.

The best way for China to preserve her independence is to fight for it.

The nations of the world must learn to cooperate or obey the dictators.

KENTUCKY STATION TO EXHIBIT STOCK AT INTERNATIONAL

Long a winner of high prizes at the International Live Stock Exposition, the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station is again fitting a flock of sheep and herd of steers for the big Chicago show.

The flock being rounded out under the masterful eye of that great shepherd Harold Barber, contains 27 Southdowns, Hampshires, Cheviots and grades. All are wethers, with the exception of one Cheviot ewe lamb.

The steers being fitted by John Fraser, herdsman, include four Angus, 1 Hereford and one Shorthorn. One of the Angus steers was grand champion in the fat cattle show at the Kentucky State Fair. He is a year old and weighs 900 pounds.

MORE TURKEYS BUT IMPROVED DEMAND

A record breaking crop of 18 to 20 million turkeys is expected to move to market during the next few months, but consumers will be more able to buy and pay for them than they have been in recent years, according to reports received at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

The 1936 crop of turkeys is variously estimated from two and one-half to five million birds more than that of last year when about 15,000,000 turkeys were raised in the United States. Turkeys are being fed high-priced feed this year, however, and may weigh less per bird than usual, which would lessen the influence of larger numbers. The largest crop of turkeys raised in the United States previously were in 1932 and 1933 when nearly 19,000,000 turkeys went to market.

Prices to growers in these years of depression averaged between 11 and 12 cents per pound, live weight. Improvement in business conditions and consumer buying power is expected to permit this year's crop of turkeys to sell well above the level of 1932 and 1933, but prices may be lower than those of a year ago when an average of a little over 20 cents per pound was received.

LESPEDEZA SEED PRODUCTION OFF

While late harvest of Korean lespedeza seed in Kentucky makes definite announcement about production impossible at this time, the College of Agriculture at Lexington believes it may not be more than half as much produced in recent years. Kentucky produced 23,600,000 pounds of seed last year, and about 22,500,00 pounds in each of 1933 and 1934. Reports from the United States Department of Agriculture say that growers are being offered $8 to $12 per 100 lbs. of clean seed. This compares to $2.90 at this time last year, $5.75 in 1932 and $4.15 in 1933.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT RESETTLEMENT

This is question five of a series of questions and answers about the Resettlement Administration which are being published in the Recorder.

Is the purchase of unproductive land of any immediate value to the people of the United States?

Answer:

The people who are living on the land are unable to get a satisfactory living from it. The total average gross income for the families on land being purchased by the Resettlement Administration is less than $400 a year. Naturally if these people are helped to move they will be able to obtain a higher standard of living immediately.

It is not only these people who will immediately benefit. The taxpayers in their vicinity will also benefit. On over half of the land which the Resettlement Administration is buying, taxes have been delinquent for two years or more. Continuation of this condition means a constant drain on the public finances. Tax collections are poor, permitting in turn only the most meager services in schools and roads. At the same time relief rolls are large, necessitating the expenditure of large sums to help the distressed families. In one township in these poor-land areas, out of more than seventy families all but one were on relief. In one project area the cost of upkeep of the roads exceeds the value of the land they serve. In another area the road costs amounted to $27,000 whereas the yearly tax receipts from the area were only $1,820.

Even a casual study of instances such as these indicates clearly that money can be saved for the taxpayers far in excess of the purchase price of such land, when families are moved and roads and schools closed.

Next week's question: "Is the Resettlement Administration paying too high a price for the land it is purchasing?"

Our idea of pleasure is to worry over excess cash reserves.

Preserve Old Liberty Hall! Is Cry In State Campaign

This is the beautiful drawing-room fireplace in Liberty Hall, historic mansion of Frankfort, Ky., which is to be purchased and made a public shrine with funds now being raised in a campaign conducted by patriotic leaders. The portrait is by Jouett, famous Kentucky painter, of John Brown, who built the house 140 years ago. The brass fender and the mantel were transported from Virginia on mules.

Unless sufficient funds are raised by December 1, Liberty Hall, historic and beautiful old homestead at Frankfort, Kentucky, may be lost forever as a possible public shrine.

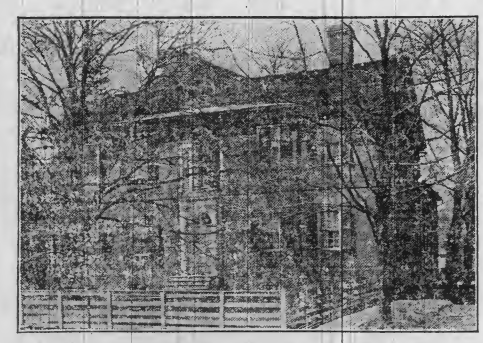
The Liberty Hall Association, organized by leaders of the state with the support of patriotic societies, is seeking to raise $50,000 to buy the house and preserve it for posterity in the same way that My Old Kentucky Home has been preserved.

Faced with the necessity of selling the house, John M. Scott, owner and great-great-grandson of John Brown, the builder, has given an option to the association on the house until December 1. Though he is anxious that it be converted into a shrine, an open auction is the only alternative to its purchase by public subscription, he said.

A Revolutionary War soldier who served under George Washington and who married the daughter of Lafayette's chaplain, John Brown came to Kentucky in 1782, served in the creation of the state and was Kentucky's first United States Senator.

Famous Old Liberty Hall To Be Kentucky Shrine

Here is a view of Liberty Hall, the beautiful and historic Brown mansion at Frankfort, Ky., which is to be preserved as a public shrine. Funds for its purchase are being raised by the Liberty Hall Association in a campaign ending December 1.



Liberty Hall, the beautiful and historic Frankfort mansion built in 1796 by John Brown, Kentucky's first United States senator, is to be preserved as a public shrine, according to plans announced by the Liberty Hall Association as they opened a campaign to raise funds during November for its purchase and maintenance.

Designed by Thomas Jefferson and long famous as a fine example of Georgian architecture, the house, with its furnishings, will provide Kentucky with a memorial comparing favorably with My Old Kentucky Home and Virginia's mansion-shrines.

Among the treasures to be included in the sale are family portraits, one of them by Gilbert Stuart, America's foremost colonial painter, and a splendid collection of early American furniture, most of it dating from 1833 or earlier.

Such nationally famous men as Lafayette, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, General James Wilkinson, Aaron Burr, Jackson, Zachary Taylor and Theodore Roosevelt visited Liberty Hall, and the nation as well as the state will benefit by its preservation.

Historic Liberty Hall Needs Little Alteration For Shrine

This historic and beautiful Frankfort, Ky., mansion, Liberty Hall, stands practically as it did when built 140 years ago and will need little alteration when it becomes a public shrine. Unless the Liberty Hall Association, supported by patriotic societies, raises sufficient funds in a campaign before December 1, the hall may pass into private hands.

MOUNTAIN WORKERS MEET AT QUICKSAND

Noted religious and social workers and educators will address the fourth regional conference of mountain workers at the Agricultural Experiment Substation at Quicksand in Breathitt county Nov. 18-19. The Kentucky Rural Church Council is cooperating in the program.

Among the speakers are Rev. Walter V. Cropper, president of the church council; President W. J. Hutchins of Berea College; Dr. E. V. Tadlock, Winchester; Edwin E. White, Pleasant Hill, Tenn.; Rev. Samuel Vander Meer, Mooris Fork, Ky.; E. E. Gabbard, of Witherspoon College; Bland Morrow of the Frontier Nursing Service, and Dr. W. D. Nicholls and James Feltner of the University of Kentucky. Students in Berea College will give a demonstration in home improvement.

Rev. B. P. Deaton, Wooton, Ky., is chairman of the local committee and Miss Helen H. Dingham, Berea College, is executive secretary of the Southern Mountain Workers.

"GENUINE" GHOST IN OLD TRADITION AT LIBERTY HALL

House Intended As State Shrine Once Haunted By "Gray Lady"

Liberty Hall, the 140-year-old Frankfort mansion which is to be made a public shrine with funds now being raised, has among its treasures a "genuine" ghost—"The Gray Lady." Or at least it did have a ghost at one time.

So far as anyone knows, the ghost has been laid. Not for twelve years has it been seen. But no fewer than six persons declared it authentic, and the story of the apparition forms a part of the traditions surrounding the beautiful old house.

"The family never believed in the supernatural, but we never doubted that 'something' had been seen," says John M. Scott, owner of the house and great-great-grandson of John Brown, the builder.

"My first experience with the 'ghost' was as a boy of about 12. Coming home from school in the East, my sister was given the bedroom above what was known as the Blue Room. The first night, after she had retired, we heard her scream. We all rushed to her room.

"She wasn't frightened. Rather, she was amused. 'I was lying here awake,' she said, 'when a woman in a gray veil came into the room and leaned over my bed. I put my hand out and it passed through her. She disappeared.'

"On the two following nights my sister again saw the apparition, with the result that she moved out of the room. As I have said, none of us believed it was a ghost. We thought there was some natural explanation—but we didn't know the explanation.

"The story was that Mrs. Varick, an aunt of John Brown, had died in the room and that her spirit had appeared at intervals. As I have said, none of us ever believed in ghosts. Some day there doubtless will be an explanation for the apparition."

The Liberty Hall Association has until December 1 to raise funds for the purchase of the house and its establishment as a public shrine. Its preservation will give Kentucky a public possession comparable in interest and beauty to My Old Kentucky Home.

CHANCE TO ACQUIRE HISTORIC OLD HOUSE

The entrance to beautiful old Liberty Hall in Frankfort, declared to be the finest classic doorway in Kentucky. Funds are being raised by the Liberty Hall Association for purchase of the mansion and its conversion into a public shrine.

That Liberty Hall, the historic and beautiful Frankfort home of the descendants of Senator John Brown, might be converted into a public mansion-shrine, has long been an ambition of its present owner, John M. Scott, last of a distinguished Kentucky family.

The recent formation of the Liberty Hall Association for that purpose provided an opportunity for the realization of this ambition. Having no heirs, and anxious to protect the home and its valuable old furnishings for future generations, Mr. Scott has given an option on the property to the association, and the success of the present campaign will preserve one of the finest colonial mansions in Kentucky.

Designed by Thomas Jefferson and built in 1796, when the population of Frankfort numbered scarcely 300, the house has long been famous as one of the finest examples of Georgian architecture in the Mississippi Valley.

County Basketball Activities

With the starting whistle at Florence Friday night, November 13, will begin a new chapter in Boone County Athletic history. The first conference game is to be played there with the Hebron Cardinals as visitors to the Knights of Florence high school.

Both teams are anxious to see the first toss-up in the center circle, for then and there begins the contention for the fine trophy offered by the Boone County Recorder as an award to the team that comes through the season with the best record. Interest is already centering on the percentage rating which will be kept and carried in these columns each week. Ardent rooters of the various teams are anxious for the starting whistle in each school.

Hamilton and Hebron Have Played

Though the first conference game will not be played until Nov. 20, the Hamilton Farmers have had some chance to test their skill against the Hubbard Ramblers, a local team of former school players. In this game, played, October 30, the school team were easy victors by the score of 19 to 12. For the school, Williamson garnered the most points, while Ryan was collecting all twelve for his team.

Hebron has had a chance to feel out the leather in games with Cold Springs, which was played at Hebron Friday night, Nov. 6. Both the regulars and reserves were able to chalk up victories in their initial contests for the Boone County school. While the Hebron reserves were barely on the winning side of virtue of a single point the score being 11 to 10, the regulars found the going rather easy, to win by a count of 16 to 7. Local observers believe the home team could have scored more had it been necessary, but in the face of this many scoring opportunities were lost due to poorly timed and erratic passwork on the part of the boys. The teams from both schools seemed well balanced, but in need of practice to smooth up the floor work and finer points of the game.

CHILLED SALADS TASTY

What tastes better than a fresh well-chilled vegetable salad? Frequently an old dish may be made to seem new and appetizing by adding a few olives, a little onion or chive, a dash of spice, a bit of cheese or a new garnish. Suggestions as to preparation, variations with mayonnaise, arrangement and serving, as well as 27 recipes are given by Miss Florence Imlay in a revised edition of Circular No. 234, "Salads." The circular will be sent free upon request to the Kentucky College of Agriculture at Lexington, or it may be obtained from county home demonstration agents.

Milk is the starting point in planning the child's daily diet because it is valuable for growth. The proteins of milk are very efficient, and both whole milk and skimmilk supply calcium and phosphorus. Every child should have at least a pint of milk daily.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

Persons who desire to increase their weight often find a rest before meals helpful. Fatigue decreases the appetite and interfers with digestion. Food tastes better and one can eat more if he freshens up and relaxes before going to the table.

In purchasing ewes, it is good practice to dip them, if they are invested with ticks or lice. One or two dippings will be required, depending on the kind of dip. Carefully follow directions on the container.

Farmers who plan to improve their poultry, select breeding pens while the hens are laying in the fall. These hens are kept separate until spring, and then mated with males of high production blood.

Walls for a warm pig house may be made by tramping straw between strips of woven wire fencing or bales of straw may be used to build up the sides. Corrugated iron can be used for a roof, and a door made of lumber.

Personally, we never get mad with a man who insists upon his bills, especially when he owes us.

NEW FREIGHT RATES

J. J. Pelley, President of the Association of American Railroads, has announced that proposals for adjustment of the freight rate structure, to take effect upon the expiration on December 31, 1936, of the emergency rates now in effect, have been practically completed by special committees representing the railroads.

These proposals will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the various state commissions. They represent an effort on the part of the railroads, after a close study of the freight rate structure, to work out equitable adjustments through increases and reductions, that will partially offset the drop in revenues which will take place when the present rates expire. The roads do not contemplate that the emergency increases now in effect will be carried into the permanent freight rate tariffs.

As part of the general adjustment, the railroads are planning an important step toward simplicity in rates and tariffs, by making practically uniform for the entire country the classification of all articles now moving on first, second and third class rates in less than carload lots. This is to be accomplished in most instances by making the ratings in all territories the same as the lowest classification now in effect in any territory. The railroads feel that this marks the most important single step ever taken to promote simpler and more unified freight rate structures for the nation.

The railroads will ask that the proposed readjustments be made effective January 1, 1937, so that the lines may avoid the serious losses which would result if the emergency rates expired and a new schedule was not ready.

It would seem that the rails are making every effort to be fair to the shipper—and at the same time to assure the lines sufficient revenue to keep our greatest single industry going ahead. And that is vital to the public interest.

Good looks are not judged by perfection of face and figure, says one authority, but by good health, good physical care and careful dressing. Good health, she considers, is the foundation of beauty and charm.

THE NATIONAL HUMAN BARBECUE

In the last 12 months, approximately 10,000 persons have been burned to death. One-third of them were children.

Two-thirds of all the victims perished in residence and apartment fires.

Read that over again. If anything can awaken the American people to the gravity of the fire problem, that brief statement should. If you have a strong stomach, think of those 10,000 roasted bodies. And then realize that at least eighty per cent of fires, big and little fires alike, could easily have been prevented.

It is a human frailty to read such a statement as this, reflect for a moment on the horror of it, and then forget it with the mentally-made observation that "Well, my home is safe." Perhaps your home is. But there's better than an even chance it contains hazards that you don't know about.

An up-to-date house is not necessarily a safe house, from the standpoint of fire—many a $50,000 mansion has gone up in flames. Expensive furniture will burn as easily as cheap furniture—and the finest interior fabrics and woodwork will burn as easily as a piece of cotton cloth and a pine board.

Whether you live in a four-room bungalow or a fifty-room country palace, inspect your property regularly, or have it inspected by someone who understands fire hazards and their prevention. Get the necessary information from your fire department or a similar institution. Once hazards are found, do away with them and make sure they don't reappear.

Help reduce the national human barbecue!

CHEVROLET PRICES ARE ANNOUNCED

New York, Nov. 6—Prices for the new Chevrolet passenger cars for 1937 were announced here today by W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, upon his arrival for the National Automobile Show.

It was revealed that for 1937 Chevrolet would have a completely new line of cars, incorporating one wheelbase and with identically the same appearance. Heretofore, there have been two distinctly different lines of cars with two lengths of wheelbase and quite a wide variance of specifications.

Prices of the Master Deluxe models remain approximately the same as those of the 1936 cars. The popular coach and town sedan models have been reduced $5, while the four-door sedan and the sport sedan prices remain unchanged. The coupe and sport coupe are the only models to be increased in price and these only $5 over the 1936 levels.

Prices of the Master Deluxe Chevrolet now cover features formerly offered as optional at extra cost, including knee-action, safety plate glass all around, fenders in color matching the body, and larger tires. The individual model prices are as follows:

Coach, $595; sedan, $660; town sedan, with trunk, $620; sport sedan, with trunk, $685; business coupe, $585; sport coupe, with rumble seat, $615.

The list prices of the Master Chevrolet, which also include the added equipment except knee-action, are uniformly $60 under the Master Deluxe prices.

Body models in the Master Deluxe and Master lines are the same except that the Master cabriolet with rumble seat takes the place of a sport coupe in the Deluxe line. The Master wheelbase is 31-4 inches longer than that of the 1936 models and this model also includes as standard equipment syncro-mesh transmission, larger tires, safety plate glass and fenders in color to match the body.

Both models are completely new in engine, chassis and bodies, and are identical in design with the exception of knee-action and special features of equipment and interior trim supplied only in the Deluxe models.

SUGGESTS VARIETY IN THANKSGIVING DINNER

While Kentucky's traditional Thanksgiving dinner is famous scarcely to be improved upon, Miss Laura Deephouse of the University of Kentucky home economics department suggests that squash with buttered asparagus, brocolli with Hollandaise sauce, and pumpkin cake may be welcome.

Select a large hubbard squash, remove the seeds and steam until tender. Remove from skin, season well with salt, butter and a little cream. Place in a buttered mold and just before serving reheat. Place on a chop plate and surround with asparagus tips over which have been poured browned butter.

The brocolli should be washed, and dried leaves removed. Cook in an uncovered pan in boiling salted water 25 to 30 minutes. Drain carefully, as it breaks easily, and dress with Hollandaise sauce. Make the sauce by creaming one-fourth cup butter with yolks of 2 eggs, adding eggs one at a time and beating well. Season with 1 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, a grain or two of cayenne. All slowly one-half cup boiling water, stirring constantly. Simmer over hot water until thick. Remove from fire, and add two tablespoons lemon juice. If the sauce begins to curdle, beat with a rotary beater and it will become smooth again.

1 cup light brown sugar.
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup fat.
Yolks of two eggs
¾ cup sifted pumpkin
½ cup sour milk
2 tablespoons caramel (may be omitted)
¼ teaspoon soda
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
Two-thirds cup chopped floured walnuts or raisins.

Cream the sugar and fat, add other ingredients in the order given. Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven. When cool cut in half; spread between and cover all over with a frosting made of 3 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 and ½ cups of granulated sugar, ½ cup boiling water. Cook the sugar, water and cream of tartar until sirup spins a thread three to five inches long. Pour on stiffly beaten whites and when cool add one teaspoon of vanilla.

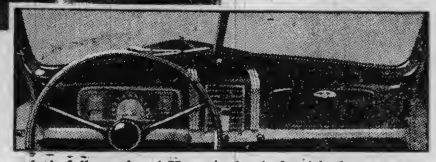
Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars



Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proved Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Unisteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-silent, all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

Luggage capacity in Chevrolet's new trunk models has been greatly increased, as has interior luggage space in other models.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Syncro-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

ADVISES LOOSENING SOIL ABOUT TREES

Loosening the soil in a circle at least two feet in diameter about newly-set trees and shrubs to permit the reception of water from fall and winter rains and snows, is suggested by Prof. N. R. Elliott, landscape expert of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Always a good practice, a dry summer that left the ground hard makes this operation more necessary this fall. Unless the soil is loosened around plants many of them freeze dry during the winter.

In addition to loosening the soil, Prof. Elliott says liberal applications of water should be made to evergreens at intervals of 10 to 15 days, regardless of rains. This is necessary to build up a water reserve around the roots of evergreens, as they retain their foliage and give off moisture all winter.

Never waste time on a blind partisan, and most of them are blind.

Room in the Florida House in Which "Ma" Barker Was Killed.

"MA" BARKER

THE G-men killed a woman—a mother — in their famous siege of the Karpis-Barker gang's hideout on Lake Weir, Florida — but what a woman!

As a mother, she had taught her four boys how to rob, kidnap and murder.

She had given them private lessons in the fine art of loading and firing a Thompson submachine gun.

She had plotted crimes for them, obtained paroles for them, chided them when they bungled a job, patted them on the back when they carried out her carefully planned outrages.

Screaming with rage, she had turned a machine gun on agents of the federal bureau of investigation who called on her to surrender at Lake Weir—and she died with that gun, still smoking, in her hands.

Such was the "untimely end" of Kate Barker, known to the underworld of the entire western "crime corridor" few years back as "Ma."

"Ma" Barker died with her bank-robbing, kidnaping son, Fred, in a palatial eight-room frame house rented by the Karpis-Barker gang near Oklawaha, Fla.

From the agent who led the raid on that house and from data in the files of the F. B. I., this writer has obtained a first-hand official account of the spectacular end of Kate and Fred Barker, and of the incidents which led to discovery by the G-men of the Florida fortress.

The trail leading to the Barkers began when experts in the technical laboratory of the F. B. I. identified fingerprints, found on gasoline cans in the Bremer kidnaping, as those of Arthur ("Doc") Barker, paroled murderer and son of Kate.

"Doc" Barker had a sweetheart in Chicago whose name was learned by the F. B. I. agents investigating associates of the gang. For six weeks agents shadowed her.

Finally, the long vigilance was rewarded. "Doc" Barker arrived at the girl's apartment one day, but the agents waited in the hope that other members of the gang also would appear. For four days thereafter, the agents trailed Barker and the girl on pleasure jaunts and shopping tours about Chicago — and on several occasions they were seen to enter another apartment, not far away from the girl's.

Agents were "planted" to watch the second apartment, on Pine Grove avenue. They saw two men and two women come and go from this apartment at various times — but the men were not known to the G-men.

On January 8, after "Doc" Barker had been seen in his girl's apartment and the other quartet had been "checked in" at the Pine Grove avenue place, it was decided to raid both apartments simultaneously, or nearly so.

Just before the hour for the raids, Barker and the girl emerged from the latter's apartment, and waiting agents, with drawn guns, closed in on them. "Doc" Barker started to run, slipped on some ice, fell to the ground and was seized before he could arise. The girl was taken without a struggle. It was not necessary to fire a shot.

The couple was taken to the F. B. I. office quietly, and the agents hurried to aid their fellow officers at the Pine Grove avenue flat.

The inspector in charge went into the lobby and called over the house telephone to the apartment upstairs in which it was believed members of the gang were living. A woman answered. He asked for "Mr. Bolton," meaning Byron Bolton, known to be a member of the Karpis-Barker mob. The woman asked who was calling, and the inspector thereupon identified himself as a federal agent and demanded that everyone in the apartment come down the steps with uplifted hands.

There was a frightened outcry as the phone was hung up.

A moment later, the door of the apartment was opened and two women came down the stairs, with hands raised high above their heads. They were followed by Byron Bolton, likewise evidencing submission.

The trio was asked why the other man did not come down. The inspector warned that resistance would mean gunfire and that the apartment building was completely surrounded by armed agents.

One of the women, frightened by this warning, shouted a plea to "Daddy" to surrender. "Daddy," was Russell Gibson, alias "Slim" Gray.

Gibson meanwhile put on a bullet-proof vest, picked up a Browning automatic rifle, turned the lights out in the kitchen and stepped onto the back porch. Agents saw him and called on him to surrender.

Instead, Gibson opened fire with the rifle in an effort to clear the way and started to run down the back steps. An agent stationed at the rear returned the fire, and Gibson fell the remainder of the way down the steps—fatally wounded.

In the apartment were found three Browning automatic rifles, two .351 automatic rifles, four automatic pistols, a sawed-off shotgun, steel vests and a large quantity of ammunition.

Most important of all, however, was a torn letter found in the apartment. The salvaged portion of the letter was not signed and had no address, but it referred to the pleasant life the writer was leading in Florida. It mentioned a lake with a houseboat on it and an alligator in it. The alligator, it said, was named "Old Joe."

With no more clues to follow than these, F. B. I. agents began a search for a lake in Florida with a houseboat and an alligator known as "Old Joe."

Believe it or not, the third lake visited by the agents answered the description given in the letter, completely.

Houses fronting on this lake were investigated discreetly and one was found that had aroused suspicions of neighbors because of "strange goings-on." The occupants were described as a stout old woman of disreputable appearance, her son and daughter-in-law—"Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn" — and two other couples. The other couples, it was learned, had departed in an automobile that morning. The description of the old woman and her son fitted "Ma" and Fred Barker.

More agents were rushed to Oklawaha by plane and automobile and plans were made to raid the house the next morning at dawn.

At 7 a. m., it was light enough to see the figure of a man sleeping on a cot at the front door. The inspector in charge of the raid stepped forward toward the front porch and shouted a demand that the occupants come out of the house, hands raised.

The agents heard "Ma" Barker's raucous voice yell:

"All right—go ahead!"

The inspector shouted: "O. K., come on. Fred first. You'll come out first, Fred, if you have the nerve!"

Immediately, "Ma" Barker was seen to step to a window and open fire with a machine gun on the inspector, who jumped behind a shed.

Fred simultaneously began firing a powerful automatic rifle at an agent who had taken refuge behind a small tree.

"Ma" and Fred began to concentrate their fire on the agent behind the tree near the shed. Seeing that the agent — a trusted companion — would soon be killed by the rifle bullets, which were easily capable of penetrating the tree, the inspector deliberately dashed from behind the shed to draw the fire away from the agent.

Running and dodging across the lawn for a few feet, the inspector threw himself headlong toward the front porch of the house and rolled over and over as bullets from "Ma's" machine gun threw dirt in his eyes and whistled around his ears. By getting close to the house, he was able to get out of range of fire, as the Barkers would have had to expose themselves in the window in order to aim at him.

Before long, the firing from within the house ceased, and, after several hails had gone unanswered, the agents entered the bullet-riddled house.

"Ma" Barker lay on the floor, still caressing her machine gun, which she had reloaded with a 100-shot drum. The drum had been partly used up.

In the house, the agents found another machine gun, three rifles, three automatic pistols, a number of bullet-proof vests and a large quantity of ammunition.

The two couples who had departed not long before the G-men arrived, it developed later, were Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell and their women.

A few days later, they shot their way out of a police trap at Atlantic City—only to be hunted down and captured eventually — without gunfire — by J. Edgar Hoover and his men in sensational raids at New Orleans and Toledo.

offerings last year.. "Planting little colonies of Heaven in strategic places around the world" is the purpose of missionary societies.

Last, but probably to the people of Bullittsville the most interesting part of the program, was a "Glimpse of Bullittsville's Past," by Edgar Riley, who is now business and promotoinal director of Kentucky Female Orphan School at Midway, Ky. Mr. Riley made some very interesting comments as he passed from period to period, and person to person in the Church's history. The Bullittsville Church was organized in 1879 with William S. Keene as pastor. Quoting from the church minutes we find the following: "On 17th of November 1879 a meeting was begun by Elder W. S. Keene, of Lexington, Ky., at the Baptist Church in Francisville, Boone Co., Ky. After it had continued 5 days the Baptist needed their house for their own use when the meeting was moved to the Grange Hall at Bullittsville situated on the Covington and Petersburg turnpike 13 miles from Covington.

"On the 27th day of November being Thanksgiving Day, a meeting was called at 11 a. m. to organize a church of Christ at that place. After services and preaching by Bro. Keene the meeting was organized by calling Bro. J. C. Jenkins, of Petersburg to the chair and Bro. James A. Davis, of Hebbron to the Secretary's table. After discussing the matter fully, the church was organized with 19 members. An effort to raise funds to build a meeting house was then made and in a few moments the sum of $1205 was secured. A building committee of four members was then appointed. Said committee was composed of Bro. John Stephens, F. L. Gordon, J. A. Davis and John R. Smith with instructions to erect a suitable house as soon as possible. This committee was afterwards augmented by adding Bro. James Riley to it.

"The meeting was continued by Bro. Keene until December 12th, and resulted in 43 more additions to theoriginal 19 members."

The following names are listed as the charter members: John Stephens, F. L. Gordon, Mrs. Sallie Gordon, Mrs. Medeline Stephens, Mrs. Isabelle Davis, J. A. Davis, Mrs. E. V. Davis, Mrs. Mary Manning, Delia Williams, Mrs. Anna Cave, Mrs. Lizzie Acra, Mrs. Lizzie Gaines, Mrs. Mary Quick, Mrs. W. P. Oldham, Mrs. Alice Graddy, Mr. N. D. Stephenson, Mr. Alonzo Gaines, Sr., Mrs. Nannie Day, Marla Dye.

However, one finds many familiar names in the list of additions during this first meeting in 1879. Among these are the names of Mr. Keeler Stephens, who joined November 29 and Mr. George Gordon who came in December 5. These two men are the oldest members living, and Mr. Stephens was among the distinguished persons present at the anniversary Sunday.

The church building was dedicated August 15, 1880 with more than 2500 persons present. Many interesting debates and meetings have been held at Bullittsville and in looking over the names of ministers who have served this church one finds the name of Edgar D. Jones, who is now considered one of the ten outstanding preachers of all denominations in the United States.

September 19, 1910 the church building was struck by lightning and burned, but on December 11, of that year a new building was dedicated.

Years have passed and Bullittsville has had its 57th birthday with its present pastor, Noble Lucas, in charge of this celebration. This church is now looking on toward its work in the future, but is glad to pause long enough to pay tribute to its great leaders of the past.

MILLIONS SUFFER

BY N. Tulch, Foot Comfort Specialist at Peoples Foot Shop, Covington

It has been proven that you cannot be well with unhappy feet! Those headaches, those backaches, those leg pains are caused by the shoes you are wearing. Why not demand the same progress in shoe construction as in trains, planes and other transportation. You walk miles each day, stand hours, and yet wear shoes that will surely lead to ill health and awkward posture.

Parents scold children for slouching and slumping, when their shoes are to blame. People suffer mental upset, nervousness, aches and pains when proper shoes (shaped to fit and support those 52 bones in your feet) would benefit the entire body and preserve your general health.

Fortunes are spent on patent medicines and appliances when a correct shoe alone is the answer. Why suffer longer? Why take chances with your health? Comfort—and peace of mind? Visit the store that has men schooled in foot anatomy and foot melanics to insure getting proper type shoe for your particular feet.

4-H CLUB BOY TELLS HOW HE GREW HIS CROP

John Mark Heinback's record book was judged to be the most complete of any 4-H club member in Boone County: His story of "How I Grew My Crop," follows:

"Last year my garden spot was fertilized so I did not use fertilizer this year. My garden was plowed about the middle of April. Two horses were used in plowing the ground.

"April 17th I began planting my seeds. I planted 1 small row of carrots, which did pretty well. I broke clods in a space about two feet wide and six feet long in which I planted lettuce. I planted one row of beets and 1 row of parsnips. I set out about two pounds of onions. Wilson Leek got one hundred tomato plants down at Mr. Harry Bayer's farm. That evening we put about 1 pint of water to each plant and then we piled a lot of good dirt up around each plant. The 20th day of April it rained and the weeds began to grow. Wilson Leek and I went at pulling them up.

"This year was a very bad year for a crop, but everything turned out very well. The first time we cultivated it, we weeded the onions and carrots, lettuce and parsnips. Then we took our hoes and loosened the dirt around them. We then hoed the tomatoes. The rest of the cultivation was about the same as the first time. We are still using the tomatoes.

"Where my onions, carrots, beets and parsnips were, we planted kale and turnips, which are not doing very well. I dug my onions in the last week of August which didn't turn out very well. My other things turned out very well."

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

America has fast become a country of special observance weeks for this or that. So many special weeks do we have that most of us are prone to just causually say when we hear of another special week that it's just six more days to work. But some of the special observance wekes are of a nature to command the attention of every thinking citizen.

This week is American Education Week in America. Every year one week in November is set aside as a time for us to take stock of our great investment in the business of educating the children of today. The people of Boone County have just as much to think of here as do those of any other community.

As in most communities, the business side of education in Boone County compares only with the largest of Boone County enterprises. Figures available will show that this is true the nation over. Usually progresive business is of special interest to all concerned even though it be controlled by private individuals. So it is with education. The chief difference between private business and the business of schools is that the latter has a direct relation to all the people. Logically all the people are more or less interested.

Any observer can uphold the statement that the period of physical growth of a child is the same regardless of what may be given to him in a mental or cultural way. Such being the case, it becomes an evident fact that the opportunity of giving the child proper training comes at about the same time regardless of prosperity or depression. So vital is this truth that it needs to be firmly fixed in the minds of all of the people. First things should come first if we are to continue as the great nation we are now. Certainly a boy or girl, a human being, yes, a life, is of first importance to any mother or father.

In honor of the schools and interested citizens, many things will be written or spoken this week about the returns we are getting from this great business. Hundreds of special programs will be presented to thousands of people. No better type of program can be had than those pertaining to peace. It so happens that Armistice Day comes during Educational Week this year. Certainly no greater work is being done in our schools than the teaching of the principles of peace.

The one individual contribution that each of us can make to American Education Week is to study what our schools are doing and then set about to help them make better the good, and offer possible constructive criticism of the poor which will help school authorities to improve the opportunities we have today to make citizens who will carry on tomorrow.

BURGLAR ALARMS NOW THIEF PROOF

An interesting development in rural electrification is an electrical burglar alarm which is installed in the poultry house in such a way that no door or window can be opened from the outside without setting off the alarm and warning the farmer of the presence of unwelcome visitors.

Several years ago, chicken thieves became so common that burglar alarm experts were consulted and given the task of designing an effective alarm that would eliminate the trouble. The first burglar alarms were a success until thieves made a study of them and learned how to enter the chicken house without setting off the alarm. However, due to later perfections of alarm systems, it is now practically impossible for anyone to enter a properly protected house without the owner's knowledge.

The alarm bell and alarm operating equipment are located in a room of the residence, usually the owner's bedroom. Only the wires which connect the doors and windows of the poultry house can be reached by the thief unless he enters the farm house.

The parts, exclusive of the wiring, for the various alarm systems, range in cost from $8 to $18, depending upon the quality of the materials and protection desired.

The division of agricultural engineering of the Kentucky College of Agriculture has prepared several plans of burlar alarm systems which include a list of parts and their operation. This information may be had upon request.

Somebody wants to know how we think up these paragraphs? Questions like this make life easy—filling up space, even when unanswered.

SEES ALL---KNOWS ALL

I am glad to meet you, sport fans of Boone County—You say who introduced me to you? Oh, pardon my intrusion, but I just moved into your midst and am making myself at home as all good rooters for better athletics ought to do. I am coming to the point of this right away.

You see, I have been expecting to move into Boone County for a long time, but, you know how it is when the Depression is just getting over, a fellow just has to have time to get the required capital to buy a bus ticket, 'specially when its almost dangerous to thumb a ride. That suggests this idea to me—why not have enough Americanism taught in our country to at least teach people with shining cars to let a poor fellow have a ride when he wants to go to a place where a new Athletic Conference has been organized, especially when that Conference must have him if it hopes to prosper the least bit. But you say you do not want to hear of my financial troubles? O. K. Read what comes following this, for I know you are conscious that I got into Boone County and I am going to see that I get to stay.

I heard some rumors the other day, but I don't put any faith in rumors. It would be downright foolish for educated lovers of athletics to believe such a thing as the rumors suggest. You want to know them? That's what I just got through telling you—I don't believe in rumors. Do you think I want things like rumors printed over my name? Well I am saying once and for the last time that things you see that I write or that you hear me say are the truth and nothing but the truth. Now every last one of you readers will have to say you like me for tell you only the truth. You know that old saying about truth being crushed to earth and how it will rise again. That's the way my truth is going to do, only it won't ever be crushed to earth. It is just going to rise. Now anybody can see the truth in a statement like that. Everybody loves a truthful person, and so everybody take notice of the following:

I said I was coming to my point of this litle matter. Did you know that the Boone County Athletic Conference Basketball competition gets under way Friday night at Florence. The only thing I know for certain is that Hebron feels like there wasn't enough Knights around King Arthur's round table to stop them. With this in mind I wonder what the reaction in the conference hall of the Florence Knights is. A little later I hope to be invited into this sacred chamber, but as yet I know nothing but what I heard on the gym floor from the fellow who ought to know how his Knights can defend themselves, and he says, "Don't ask me to say." Oh, you want to know the "truth" about this game. Why that's my point—The Knights will need more armor than they have to win. Pardon, Florence rooters, but it's the TRUTH.

MORE U. S. FLOUR IS SOLD TO CUBANS

The 103,372 bags of wheat flour imported into Cuba from the United States in September established a six year record, with the exception of 109,031 bags and 107,985 bags entered in March, 1936, and March, 1935, respectively, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department. The movement, it is pointed out, would have been heavier had it not been for the delay in clarifying matters pertaining to the 3 cent per pound consumption tax.

Every week, it seems, the excavators discover other prehistoric cities but nobody seems to know what put them where they are.

BOONE COUNTY MAN STABBED

FOLLOWING ACCIDENT—BLUEFIELD, W. VA., MAN BEING HELD CHARGED WITH CUTTING TO KILL.

Quick work on the part of Covington police in investigating the stabbing early Friday of Robert C. Brakefield, 35 years old, Walton, druggist, resulted in the arrest of a young woman registered as Madeline Cuarry, 17, burlesque dancer, Bluefield, W. Va., and a man registered as Elmo Lawson, 30, laborer also of Bluefield.

Brakefield was reported in fair conditions at St. Elizabeth hospital Covington, Friday. He has knife wounds in the back, left side, and right arm. Lawson faces a charge of cutting with intent to kill. The girl is alleged to have had a stolen automobile. Lawson is held under $5,000 bond, the girl under $1,000 bond.

Brakefield was stabbed following an automobile collision at Fourth Street and Scott Boulevard, Covington. The man driving the car which collided with Brakefield's, and who did the cutting fled. His woman companion also left the scene, abandoning the car.

Miss Curray was arrested later by detectives Leroy Hall and Albert Seiter and Patrolman Robert Spanton and John Dickerson when she was in a taxicab at Seventh and Washington Streets.

Police, tracing the license number of the automobile, found that it belonged to Ivan McKinley, 633 Burns Street, Cincinnati. McKinley, found in bed at his home, said his machine had been stolen from a parking lot.

While police were at the McKinley home, Lawson entered. He was questioned. Police said he told them he had just arrived from Bluefield. He denied the stabbing.

Lawson was returned to Covington, where he was identified by Mrs. Fay Conner, Walton, sister-in-law of Brakefield. Mrs. Connor swore to a warrant for his arrest, charging him with cutting with intent to kill.

Miss Curray denied knowing that the automobile had been stolen. Police, however, placed the charge against her.

HOMEMAKERS INVITED TO CANNING DEMONSTRATION

Mrs. Gladys Milenberg Ayars will give a meat canning demonstration for Homemakers of Boone County at the Courthouse, Monday, November 30 at 1 p. m. (slow time.) The demonstration is open to the public according to Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent. Many women are planning to can beef and pork during the butchering season of the next few months. Chickens may be canned and used uring the winter months instead of putting them on the whole market.

Mrs. Ayars has had practical experience in canning and in Extension work. She was associated with the State Extension office of Missouri as Assistant State Home Demonstration Agent. Since her marriage, four years ago, she has canned thirty to thirty-five chickens each fall and she cans quantities of beef and pork every winter.

"SNOOPER" NOT HERE!

Apparently there has been some mistake as to just who the "Snooper" really is. This new column, pertaining to basketball activities in the county schools, was just started alst week and is evidently attracting the attention of those who are loyal to their teams, and hate to see a prediction made that is not in their favor. This is a fine spirit, and the writer is sincere in saying that the school that displays a fighting spirit such as this, will make a showing for themselves in this basketball season.

The "Snooper," however, is not located at this office, and does not receive mail that is addressed to him in care of this paper. We will gladly publish any comments on any articles that may appear in our columns, but don't mention one address on your letters if you wish them delivered to the proper persons. The letter this week was, however delivered to the proper person, but if you wish to communicate with the writer of the article "Sees, All, Knows All" please address your communication to Snooper, Burlington, Ky.

Follow our sports column each week for a complete outline of the basketball activties throughout the county.

COL. CODY DIES AT 72

AT ST. ELIZABETH HOSPITAL AFTER SHORT ILLNESS FROM HEART ATTACK—WAS FAMOUS FOR HIS JULEPS.

One of northern Kentucky's most colorful figures, Col. Thomas Richard Cody, famed genial host and prince of good fellows, died of a heart attack at St. Elizabeth hospital shortly before 6 a. m. Tuesday.

Two weeks ago, the man who was born the night of March 15, 1865, the night of President Lincoln's assassination, suffered a heart attack in the office of Dr. A. J. Schwertman, Covington physician.

It was the mint julep, the barbecue, and the burgoo and his peculiar style of telling age-old stories that brought Col. Cody national fame. A native of Covington, he operated a restaurant at Third and Scott streets for a number of years. His prominence as a caterer and host began there, and rose higher on his spacious Erlanger estate where he moved in 1913.

In a Kentucky homestead of large rooms and high ceiling, surrounded by towering stately trees, Col Cody was host. To his door of welcome came congressmen, senators, men of high rank in the army and navy, celebrities of state and screen, political notables, and barons of business and industry. Among them was Jimmy Walker, then mayor of New York city and Jack Dempsey, former world champion heavyweight boxer. Many other notables included a visit to the Cody Farm among those on their midwestern itineraries.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Anna Cody, a daughter, Mrs. Wyatt Westbay, Covington; a son, William F. Cody, of Texas, and two grandchildren, Thomas and William Westbay, of Covington.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending the arrival of his son. Donnelly Brothers, Covington, have charge of the funeral. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. —Ky Post.

EMPLOYERS RECEIVE SECURITY BLANKS

The first step toward enactment of the Federal Social Security Act, began in Northern Kentucky Monday as mail carrier distributed nearly 2000 blank forms to employers in Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties.

ELSMERE MAN SHOT FATALLY

SATURAY NIGHT — ARTHUR GADD HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER—SHOTTING SAID TO BE ACCIDENT.

A forty-two-year-old Elsmere, bricklayer and carpenter was shot fatally Saturday night in front of a cafe on the Dixie Highway, at Lytle Avenue, Elsmere. Although the shooting was said to have been accidental, another Elsmere resident was held on a murder charge.

Harry Giltner, Maple Avenue, Elsmere, shot in the abdomen, was dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Covington. Dr. James P. Riffe conducted an investigation Saturday night.

Held on a charge of murder was Arthur Gadd, 28, 707 Orchard St., Elsmere, an employee of the Union Light, Heat and Power Company. George Newton, 37, Center Street, Florence, was held as a material witness.

Gadd told Deputy Sheriff Edward Taylor that when he left home late Saturday he took his revolver with him, intending to sell it. Going to the cafe, owned by Dan Wilkens, at Dixie Highway and Lytle Ave., he met Giltner and Newton.

He said that they had had several drinks in the cafe. Giltner's wife, Mrs. Flora Giltner, telephoned, asking her husband to come home to supper.

After some time elapsed, Gadd said, Mrs. Giltner appeared at the cafe. After pleading with Giltner, she went to another corner of the cafe to talk wih friends. Meanwhile, the three men went outside, Giltner apparently intending to wait for his wife there.

The conversation finally drifted to Gadd's gun. After he told of his intentions of selling it, Giltner asked to see it. Then, as he was pulling the gun from his pocket, Gadd said, it was discharged accidentally.

Mrs. Giltner told Dputy Taylor that she and her friends heard a shot. She said the men had not been arguing. When she went to the door to investigate, she found her husband.

Edward Taylor, deputy sheriff said Monday, after an investigation that the shooting, apparently was accidental.

LOGAN BACKS LAND PROJECT

SENATOR FOR PURCHASE OF 100,000 ACRES FOR REFORESTATION AND GAME PRESERVES —WOULD INCLUDE BOONE.

Acquistition of more han 100,000 acres of land in Northern Kentucky by the Federal Government in a resettlement project that would result in reforestation of and establishment of game preserves on sub-marginal land is to be sought by Senator M. M. Logan as soon as Congress reconvenes, according to word from Washington.

The resettlement project would involve Boone, Kenton, Campbell and Pendleton Counties, as well as Northern Kentucky counties to the east along the Ohio River, such as Lewis, and Fleming and Nicholas, to the south of Lewis and Mason.

As envisioned by Senator Logan, the resettlement project will call for the purchase of 100,000 acres of sub-marginal land, much of it, perhaps, along the banks of Kinninick Creek, famous Lewis County fishing stream. This land would be taken out of cultivation and given over to reforestation and establishment of game preserves.

Then good farming land, 15,000 to 25,000 acres of it, on which former residents of the sub-marginal land would be resettled, would be acquire in Boone, Kenton, Campbell and other Northern Kentucky counties.

The resettlement plan, similar to that being worked out in a few other parts of Kentucky and the United States, was taken under consideration by resettlement officials last summer at the request of Senator Logan, but was dropped at that time because funds which might have been available for it were used to provide drouth relief for farmers.

Mrs. Edna Taylor and daughter, Helen, and Mrs. Adam Juett and son, Kenneth, were guests Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Combs and son.

FORTY-ONE BOONE COUNTY FARMERS USE TVA PHOSPHATE

Twenty tons of T. V. A. phosphate were delivered to Boone County, February 3, 1936 for distribution to soil improvement cooperators. The twenty tons were divided among fourty-one farmers making four demonstrations in each of the ten communities in the county, according to David Colville assistant county agent.

Four hundred pounds of phosphate was the smallest amount received by any farmer and 2000 pounds was the largest amount, while 25 cooperators received 1000 pounds.

The 20 tons were applied on a total of 234 acres of pastures, clovers and alfalfa. Of this 234 acres there were 93 acres of pasture mixture (22½ acres were new seedings)), 60½ acres of alfalfa, 46 acres of mixed hay, 24½ acres of lespedeza and 10 acres of red clover.

Because of the severe drouth in Boone County this year it is impossible to distinguish the check plots from the plots where both lime and phosphate were used. Upon close observation, it was found that lespedeza was benefitted most by the application of lime and phosphate. It was found, on an average between 13 and 15 lespedeza plants to a square foot of untreated soil and from 16 to 18 plants on one square foot of soil treated with both lime and phosphate.

The phosphate has not received a fair test this year because of the drouth and also because many of the cooperators applied their phosphate in the early fall. In either case the phosphate has not had sufficient time to demonstrate just what it will do under favorable condition in Boone County.

Our cooperators are planning to keep a close watch on their demonstration plots in the future to determine the effects of phosphate and lime.

POLITICAL FIGHT EXPECTED DEC. 5

AS KENTUCKY ATTEMPTS TO CHOOSE PRECINCT COMMITTEEMEN AND NEW COUNTY CHAIRMEN.

Another scene in the fight for dominance of Kentucky's Democratic political affairs is to occur in each of the 120 counties of the state Saturday, December 5th, when precinct committeemen and new county chairmen will be chosen.

The group having the county chairman and the precinct committeemen, which constitute the County Executive Committee, are given an advantage patronage.

Also, the state administration, with its wide control over jobs even in counties probably will do its best to obtain the upper hand in most of the counties. Four years ago the Laffoon administration obtained control of most of the county committees in like manner.

It all goes in politics, and our only hope is that the best man wins.

PROF. NORRIS IS FOUR-H SPEAKER

AT LEADERS' CONFERENCE IN BURLINGTON LAST SATURDAY—SAYS BOYS AND GIRLS ARE PRICELESS POSSESSIONS.

Prof. D. H. Norris, County Superintendent of schools, addressed Boone County 4-H leaders in their conference at Burlington last Saturday. He advised leaders that our boys and girls are our most priceless possessions. The goals of the 4-H Club are working toward the end of greater happiness and contentment on the farm, are developing boys and girls to become leaders in farm and home development in their communities and are teaching them to solve the problems that are before them.

Prof. Norris, who has served as chairman of the Boone County 4-H Council for the past four years stated that he was proud to be connected with such an important nation-wide movement as 4-H club work that envolves more than a million rural boys and girls. Big business interests have shown their appreciation and interest in rural improvement through the splendid cooperation rendered thru the 4-H Club fairs and other special events.

Four-H Club work will advance because of the importance of its project work. Members spend much time on project work that is worthwhile. Whenever a boy or girl spends time on worthwhile work her or she is growing in good citizenship.

Four-H leaders giving reports on work in their communities included Mrs. Vernon Pope and H. E. White, of Burlington 4-H Club; Mrs. E. E. Newman of Grant 4-H Club; Mrs. Sibbie Reimer, Mrs. Etta Walton and John E. Crigler, of Hebron 4-H Club; Mrs. Eunie Pettit, of Florence 4-H Club and Mrs. B. C. Stephens. Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent outlined the county 4-H program carried out during 1936. She stated 172 girls had conducted 185 projects during the year. H. R. Forkner, County agent, stated that 135 boys and 33 girls had conducted 200 farm projects in 1936. The total of Boone County project work conducted in 1936 is valued at $13,652.00.

E. E. Fish and Miss Anita Burnam, 4-H Club specialist from the College of Agriculture addressed 4-H leaders in the afternoon session. Mr. Fish stressed the importance of recreation in addition to the regular business meeting. Both specialist forecast increased enrollment for 1937 and stressed the importance or reaching larger number of rural boys and girls.

MEMBER KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED JANUARY, 1860

Editorial of the Week

THE SUBSCRIBER'S VALUE

It seems that many of our subscribers think that we will send them our paper, regardless of whether they pay for same or not. We have never made it a rule to discontinue anyone's paper at the time of expiration, and this rule is carried out by practically every country newspaper in this State. We feel that we know our people too well to deliberately chop their name from our lists without even giving them a chance to raise the subscription price.

This week we have taken several names from our list. This was not done, however, until after the subscriber had first been notified that he or she was in arrears. Upon waiting a reasonable period without receiving a reply from the subscriber, we removed their name—thinking they did not care for the paper any longer.

We regret to lose one single name from our mailing list, but we are unable to send out papers each week to those who are many years in arrears, and who have made no effort to pay up. We must receiver our 11.50 each year, in order to pay postage, paper bills, and other miscellaneous expenditures attached to publishing a weekly paper.

We value our subscribers very highly, and regret to lose any of them—but at the same time we feel that our paper is worth the $1.50 you pay. We have made every effort to give you a better paper, and have recently increased the size of our pages from six to seven columns, adding one inch to the length of each column.

Most of our subscribers have been very prompt in paying up—some paying several years in advance. We don't ask anyone to pay over one year in advance—through this method we are able to keep the wheels turning in our office, and at the same time you are helping to build up a better home paper.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE PRESIDENT

"The nation has spoken. Every American will accept the verdict, and work for the common cause for the good of the country. That is the spirit of democracy."

So ran the telegram dispatched by Governor Landon to President Roosevelt when it became apparent that the voters had rallied in unprecedented numbers in support of the Administration. And that telegram represents something more than good sportsmanship—it marks an attitude that should be held by all of the people in every walk of life.

The Democratic victory was not a party victory. No mere party victory could be so overwhelming or so completely break down sectional lines of partisan sympathy.

The victory was a very different thing—it was a personal victory for Mr. Roosevelt. No man in a century has so captivated the imagination and emotions of the people, and none has received so great an expression of public confidence.

A Republican newspaper said the morning following the election that "the President today is the most popular figure our national life has known since Washington." It is impossible to gainsay that. The most popular of presidents, and those whose administrations stand out mountainously in our history—Jefferson, Lincoln, Cleveland—were never so popular as Mr. Roosevelt. The past records have all been shattered.

The time for partisanship has passed. And the time for cooperation has come. This does not mean that the President should be followed blindly in every course—that would be unjust to Mr. Roosevelt himself as well as to the country. It does mean that all should work together in the common cause, as Governor Landon said, deliberating differences and adjusting varying points of view to the end that the great ideal of democratic government be served to the ultimate of all our capabilities.

Congratulations to the President! Few men in the world's history have been so signally honored by a great people—an honor which carries with it the gravest responsibilities. Every good citizen will hope sincerely that Mr. Roosevelt's second term as Chief Executive of the foremost nation on earth will be successful, and that his will be a high place in the history of our time.

FEWER MONOPOLIES

It is only of very recent years that you often heard it said, that few, if any, individuals or smaller businesses had a chance, since all big businesses have monopolized. That unless you were among those fortunate few, then you were to take what was left, and in most instances that was nothing.

It is often thought that where these conditions did exist that they only toficed and affected such industries as oil, public service and manufacturing. Little did we realize with just those mentioned industries, that these monopolistic powers were so great and so far-reaching, that it is comparable to the branches and roots of a great elm extending out into the bed of growing shrubbery. They were simply sapping the strength from smaller business, causing them in many instances to collapse or to surrender their much cherished business to the larger firm at a sacrifice price.

Because of this smothering and consolidation of the smaller businesses, it helped to bring about one of the most hazardous unemployment periods ever to face our nation. These companies operating to a point of perfection could do the same work and even more with about half of the number employed. Then after a while, due to this unemployment, those industries operating so efficiently who had formerly cut out the smaller one could no longer find a market for their product.

But, after conditions had gotten to a place where it seemed that something must be done, there came a change, and a very evident one. Through the efforts of those who in an intelligent way understood what had been taking place, a great transformation was brought about. Legislation that was later held to be unconstitutional was the thing to start the great wave rolling. Since that time it has gathered weight and momentum and there is beginning to be a time again for a smaller business man with initiative and ability.

And maybe you say, "well, what has all of this to do with us as residents of a rural community, we have no monopolies close to us, nor do we have any smaller one to bring about this effect?" It has everything to do with us. It is comparable to a row of tin soldiers, some small and others large, all standing within reach of each other. If you move one and he falls, as a result, they will all fall. So it is with all business, if the big are affected, whether they be of like kind or not, so will the small be affected.

Hello Everybody!

"Scream in the Night"

By FLOYD GIBBONS,
Famous Headline Hunter

A SCREAM in the night! Many a good old-fashioned fiction thriller has started off in this fashion. And here's a TRUE thriller that begins in the same way.

Mrs. Sue Grigoire of Worcester wins the rating of Distinguished Adventurer with the story of what came after that scream—the tale of the strange train of circumstances that followed in the wake of that cry in the dark she heard on a cold February night in 1936, in the Blackstone river valley and on the brink of Blackstone falls.

It was late in the evening, and Mrs. Grigoire was out walking. She was strolling through the College Hill campus when she heard it—a high, hysterical, cackling scream—almost a laugh. It was followed by a sob. The sound seemed to come from the direction of the falls.

Weird Sight on a Rock at the Falls.

Mrs. Grigoire froze in her tracks. As she hesitated, the weird cry was repeated again. Without stopping to think twice, she turned and ran down the road in the direction from which it came.

At the foot of the hill she met a strange sight. On a large rock that jutted out over the falls stood a figure clad in a white garment. As she came nearer she saw that it was a woman, holding a small bundle in her arms—a bundle which she kept tossing in the air and catching again, laughing each time she did it.

FOR A MOMENT, MRS. GRIGOIRE PAUSED. WHAT WAS THE WOMAN TRYING TO DO? WHAT WAS THAT BUNDLE SHE HELD IN HER ARMS? IN A MOMENT CAME THE FRIGHTFUL, TERRIFYING ANSWER. FROM THE BUNDLE CAME A SOUND—THE THIN, PITIFUL WAIL OF A BABY!

For a minute, Sue Grigoire was stunned. Then there flooded into her mind the memory of stories she had read in newspapers—stories of mothers who had killed their children, then committed suicide themselves.

MRS. GRIGOIRE WAS FRIGHTENED—BUT FRIGHTENED AS SHE WAS, SHE FOUND HER VOICE AND CRIED, "WHAT ARE YOU DOING THERE?"

What Had Become of the Baby?

The woman turned and began to scream abuse at her. Suddenly she lifted her arms and began walking toward her. For an instant, Sue Grigoire stood paralyzed with terror. Her eyes were riveted on the woman's outstretched arms.

THOSE ARMS WERE EMPTY! WHAT HAD HAPPENED TO THE BABY!

The woman came on, screaming and mouthing profanity. "Go away," she screamed. "I'll kill you!" Her eyes were bulging from their sockets. Her mouth was wide open and her tongue hung out like the tongue of a mad dog. Mrs. Grigoire knew then that the woman was insane.

"I wanted to run," she says, "but my feet refused to move. I tried to call for help, but no sound came from my throat. The mad woman grasped me by the arm and began spitting in my face. Suddenly she stopped and started dragging me toward the falls."

Too weak from fright to make even so much as a move in her own defense, Sue Grigoire walked down to the falls. The woman led her out onto the jutting rock, and Sue's heart leaped. THERE, ON THE ROCK, LAY THE BABY.

The woman pointed to it. "See," she said, "that's my baby. They took it away from me, but I stole it back. Now my baby and I are going to fall in the water. It's nice and cold!"

Sue's Quick Wit Saved the Infant.

The mad woman bent down and picked up the baby. She lifted it high over her head and made a motion as if to throw it in the water. Then Sue Grigoire found her voice again.

"WAIT," SHE SCREAMED. "LET ME THROW IT!"

To her surprise, the mad woman handed her the baby. Then, like a flash, Mrs. Grigoire turned and was running up the hill toward the college.

Ahead of her she could see the lights of the dormitory. Behind her came the insane woman screaming to her to stop. With the baby clutched tightly in her arms, she raced up the hill. If she could only make it to that dormitory before the mad woman caught up with her!

Chased by a Shrieking Maniac.

"The hill," she says, "was steep, and my strength was giving out. But I knew that I could never stop until I got that poor child into safe hands. Behind me, the insane woman was shriking, 'My baby! My baby!' over and over again. But it seemed, as I ran, that her cries were getting weaker—that I was getting away from her. At last, after what seemed an eternity, I reached the dormitory and ran inside."

She was ready to drop from fatigue when, at last, she was safe inside. She called for help. A priest came running down the hall. He had barely reached her side when the mad woman came tearing into the building. But by that time, other people were popping out of doorways and running down the hall. They caught the woman and held her while others called the police.

The police knew all about the woman. She had been released temporarily from an insane asylum and was living with her daughter. Earlier in the evening she had stolen her daughter's baby, and the cops had been searching for her ever since.

And Mrs. Grigoire thinks it was God who sent her up College hill that night.

INFORMATION ABOUT OLD-AGE BENEFITS

Cleveland, O., November 11—In order to make clear just where information regarding the Old-Age Benefits provision of the Social Security Act may be secured, Benedict Crowell, director for Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan, gave out the following statement today:

"The Social Security Board," Mr. Crowell said, "is the sole source of information regarding the old-age benefits provisions of the Act, but questions regarding the collection of taxes, who is and who is not subject to tax, should be addressed to the nearest Collector of Internal Revenue. Questions regarding the census to be made of all employees and employers should be made of your local Postmaster. This census is being made by the Post Office Department, but beyond telling you that distribution of forms will commence on November 24 employees, through their employers, will receive forms known as 'Application for Social Security Account Number," there is no information the Postmaster can give you. If within a day or so after the 24th you have not received the form, your local Postmaster will supply you upon application."

"These forms are very simple and can be filled in without trouble by any one. They are returned without cost by dropping in a mail box, by handing to a letter carrier or by any other method by which a letter can be mailed. Just address an envelope to "Postmaster , Local," put the form in the envelope and mail it.

AN AMBASSADOR IN CHAINS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 23:16-24, 30, 31; Romans 5:6-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me. Phil. 4:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—In the World's Greatest City.

JUNIOR TOPIC — An Ambassador in Chains.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC —Chained But Not Silenced.

The rescue of Paul from the Jewish mob by the Roman authorities resulted in consideration of his case on their part to determine what manner of man he was, and why his words and actions provoked such violent reactions among the Jewish subjects of Rome in Judea. When it appeared that Festus, who was procurator, was inclined to turn him over to the Jews at Jerusalem, Paul, knowing of their hatred, makes

I. An Appeal to Caesar (Acts 28:16-19).

It was an act of great significance, and largely determined the course of Paul's life and ministry until his death. It is a question upon which there is no little difference of opinion whether Paul was right in making this appeal. Perhaps Dr. G. Campbell Morgan has best gathered up the truth of the matter in saying, "His way was that of an attitude revealing for all time what the duty of the Christian man is—to be true to his Lord, to be true to his conscience, to be loyal to the powers that be, and to make his appeal to them where necessary, for protection, in order that he may continue his work in accordance with the will of his Lord." Paul made no appeal to save his own life, but he did want to continue his ministry. And this he was permitted to do, for after he had come to Rome we find him to be

II. A Prisoner Preacher (vv. 20-24, 30, 31).

He was chained, but not silenced. He was anxious that those in Rome should "see" and "speak with" him (v. 20). They knew of the Christian "sect" only by rumor as one "which everywhere is spoken against" (v. 22). He now proclaimed the truth to them, and with what results? "Some believed . . . and some disbelieved" (v. 23). Again, we see that the greatest of all preachers met just the same encouragement and discouragement that we face.

The witness and messenger is not judged by the success that crowns his efforts, but by the faithfulness with which he discharges his duty. Let us not condone our own carelessness or inefficiency by saying that even Paul was unsuccessful; but if we have been faithful and diligent, let us be encouraged even though some disbelieve.

Verse 30 indicates that Paul either had a large measure of liberty, being permitted even as a prisoner to dwell in a private house, or that he was tried and acquitted and continued to work in Rome for a period of years. Whichever may be true we cannot but admire the faithful testimony of this man upon whose body time and trials had borne heavily, but whose spirit was as young and as powerful as the message he presented. And what was his message? We find it in his epistle to the Roman church. It was

III. Justification by Faith (Rom. 5:6-11).

Christian men and women are those who were weak (v. 6), ungodly (v. 6), unrighteous sinners (v. 7, 8), and enemies of God (v. 10). But having been justified by his blood (v. 9), they are "saved" (v. 9). What a beautiful word—"saved!" Brought back to God, "reconciled to God through the death of his Son" (v. 10), we are indeed saved if we have accepted him as our Saviour.

This was Paul's message, and it is our message to a lost world.

Count Your Mercies

Be on the lookout for mercies. The more we look for them the more of them will we see. Blessings brighten when we count them. Out of the determination of the heart the eyes see. If you want to be gloomy, there's gloom enough to keep you glum; if you want to be glad, there's gleam enough to keep you glad. Say, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." Better lose count in his enumerating your blessings than lose your blessings in telling over your troubles. "Be thankful unto him and bless his name."—Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D.

A True Life

One truly Christian life will do more to prove the divine origin of Christianity than many lectures. It is of much greater importance to develop Christian character, than to exhibit Christian evidences. —J. M. Gibson.

BURLINGTON TOMCATS TAKE IT ON THE CHIN

Last Saturday night, the Alumni of Burlington high school took the long end of a 47 to 9 score from the high school quintet. The game was all the way Alumni, but the younger boys showed the fighting spirit which made the older boys what they are. The game was well attended by a very ardent group of rooters, a thing that every team likes.

In a preliminary game between two teams of reserves, the decision was not reached until the close of an overtime period. It is difficult to say that the school lost or won because both teams represented the school; so let it go by saying that the school lost and won both at the same time.

The final score was 49 to 9 in favor of the Alumni.

WALTON DEFEATS A. J. JOLLY

In a rather uneven contest, the Walton basketball five won the opening games of their season from the A. J. Jolly quintet. The Campbell county boys, though showing some strength at times, played rather inconsistent basketball.

After Cook and Harris left the game via the personal foul route, the Jolly boys were able to make the score look better by bringing the total count to 18 to 34.

Demoisey looked pretty good around the hoop, throwing the leather through enough to tally 20 markers. Team work by other mates fe dthe ball to him thus assisting the lad.

The young teams from the schools showed future material being developed. The Walton youngsters were victorious in the curtain raiser over their Up-River opponents.

HEBRON WINS FIRST CONFERENCE TILT

When the smoke of battle had cleared enough in the Florence gym Friday night the score board revealed the Hebron netmen on the top end of a 28 to 25 count. Though showing early season imperfections, both teams performed admirably throughout the game. While it is not a sure sign of unusual playing for a player to score more than his teammates, it is admitted that somebody must get the ball through the basket if points are to be counted. In this respect Burton, the lanky center of the victorious quintet, led his team with 10 points while Scott was marking up 12 for the losers.

Marked by hard playing thruout, this game showed that boys can fight to win, and still maintain high standards of fair play. Suffice it to say that the Knights have definitely made up their minds not to let this happen again at the hands of the Hebrn boys.

The Hebron Reserves were easy victors in the preliminary by 34 to 7.

HAMILTON FARMERS LOSE TO RISING SUN

Not satisfied with the picking on this side of the Ohio, the Hamilton Farmers went over in Rising Sun, Ind., Tuesday night, Nov. 10 as a matter of investigation. After holding the Hoosier boys to an overtime period, the Farmers finished behind. The score was 30 to 25 in favor of the boys "over the River." Williamson looked best for the Farmers, with 12 of the 25 points.

The game was extremely fast for an early season game thus causing it to be rough. Such rough and tumble games always result in a number of fouls being charged against players. Had the Hamilton cagers been able to cash in on the charity line, the game would have ended in their favor in regular time. But the fate of the gods would not have it so.

The more inexperienced boys who are the understudy players of the Farmers decided that Kentucky pastures are good enough after being handed the little end of a 28 to 8 score.

REAL ESTATE CHANGES HANDS

The farm of J. N. Sams, of Union was sold to Mr. Kinkle of Nicholson last weefl. This farm consisted of sixty-eight acres and was known as the Harvey Senour farm. Rel. Wayman, Jr., made the sale.

Erosion and leaching are said to account for two-fifths of the annual loss of humus from the soil, crops accounting for little more than a fourth. Nature requires 400 to 1,000 years to make an inch of topsoil which may be lost in a year on steep, cultivated land.

FARMERS ASKED TO TATTOO POULTRY AND LIVESTOCK

The National Tattooing Registering Association is working in the State of Kentucky with a system to mark poultry and livestock. The marking is done with a tattoo liquid, and the brand is registered with every sheriff's office and State Highway Patrol in this and surrounding States. This is the only company approved by the Kentucky Poultry Association and the Sheriff's Association of the State who have thoroughly investigated the National Tattooing Registering Association and found that they have positively eliminated stealing in rural sections of other states.

There are other protective services being offered the farmer through various publications, but our investigations prove that the reward system and marking without registration are ineffective. We urge the farmers to guard themselves against such offers. There are many farmers in neighboring counties who are very sorry that they have been taken in by a reward system and being left under the impression that the would later receive a marking outfit. Beware of verbal agreements.

Every farmer will be called on in the near future by a representative of the National Tattooing Registering Association. This representative will have a letter from the sheriff of the county in which you live and will be equipped with tattoo instruments, registration cards, and everything necessary to register your brand properly.

Signed: J. H. Wetherill, President of the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association; H. G. Beall Sheriff Gallatin County; W. B. Cotton, Sheriff Boone County.

Warm, dry quarters and plenty of drinking water help to reduce the feed bill for any kind of livestock. Careful feeding in clean troughs and other extra attention pay big dividends, especially when feeds are high priced.

If no milk is available, a dry mash containing animal protein is necessary for high egg production, especially in winter, when egg prices are high. Many farmers make a fifth of the mash a good grade of tankage, by weight.

HAVE GUESTS EAT TURKEY DAY HASH SUGGESTS EXPERT

As soon as Thanksgiving is over, the homemaker has a problem as to what to do with left-overs, commonly made into hash. Miss Laura Deephouse of the University of Kentucky home economics department suggests that guests be invited and that among other things broiled tomatoes and scalloped oysters, and turkey loaf be served them.

Cut tomatoes in three-fourth inch slices, saute' in butter and top with scalloped oysters. Arrange on a large tray on curly endive and garnish with stuffed olives. To make scalloped oysters, first clean them by allowing cold water to run over them and removing any particles of shell. Place a layer of coarse cracker crumbs in a buttered casserole, then a layer of oysters, until there are two or three layers. Season each layer with butter, salt and pepper. Cover with milk so that all dry crumbs are absorbed, and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. The top should be a golden brown.

3 cups cold chopped left-over turkey
½ cup fine bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk or stock
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon onion juice.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs.

Mix seasoning and crumbs with turkey. Mix thoroughly with the heated milk and butter. Place in a well-oiled mold; set in a pan of hot water and bake about 45 minutes. Turn out on a chop plate and garnish with parsley. The outer edge may be surrounded withwith glazed whole carrots and buttered peas, if desired.

Baked squash recipe: Use six medium sized pieces of winter squash, a teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of butter. Bake in a hot oven until tender, add seasoning and serve. Cheese sprinkled over the top as soon as taken from the oven gives a delightful flavor.

SEES ALL---KNOWS ALL

Sing? Well, I did. I happened to pass through the haunts of some of these warblers recently, and what usually is a cheerful, penetrating song had taken on most of the characteristics of a 'Swan song. Why, you ask? Read about last weeks Conference basketball game and you can find the answer. Of course having been on the right side, the tone of the song could not have been suggested by anything I said. Anyway, what I say is just what I "see' and "know."

Being a writer of wide experience, it would not become me to fail to pay tribute to winners; so here's to Hebron before they get their Conference record blemished. Of course it's too early to say anything definite about how the close of the season will find the boys ranking, but these Redbirds will justify anybody paying a quarter to see them play.

I would not dare to pass by this opportunity to say a word in behalf of the kind of sportsmanship that has been displayed so far this season. There's no use talking, Boone County has some real spirit in its athletics this season. Now that's not just hearsay, for anybody who has seen the boys in action will tell you the same thing, if they are not nursing some kind of sore shoulder brought about by carrying too big a chip. If you ever played any basketball, you know how easy it is to run right smack into some hard fighting opponent. Well it takes a lot of the real stuff that genuine athletes are made of to refrain from saying something or doing the unsportsmanlike thing in a case like that. These boys this year are starting out to show that they have the pluck to win and the self-control to play fair.

Now, after that flight into the upper levels of athletic ideals, let's get back to Farming. You know, a lot of us like to do the most of our farming when it's cold and while theembers crackle merrily as victors over winter's blast. The big trouble with that kind of farming usually is that the harvest is very disappointing. But do you know what I have discovered in one of the more progressive sections of Boone County? Honest, there exists an organization of Farmers that are really going to make good in spite of the old rule. How is that, you say? Drive over to the hardwood quarters of the Hamilton basketeers and watch these Farmers prove that you can make hay even though the frost is fighting against you. "Wait and see."

You say you heard the feeble mew of a Tomcat? I thought I heard the same thing. I wonder if you knew that there's a whole den of Tomcats cornered right in the path of a steam roller heading toward Burlington from Florence. These ordinarily ferocious animals are searching desperately for means of escape, but as yet they can only see a dungeon in front of them and hear the rumbling sounds of the approaching machine of the Florence Knights. Pathos and tragedy—but do you know that even the deepest dungeons has some means of escape, and you know how Tomcats are—they have a climbing way.

Has that Nightingale song changed tempo? You be the judge Friday night in the Tomcat's den in Burlington.

I heard some of you would like to tell me what you think. I'd just "love" to hear from you.

Your TRUTHFUL friend,
—THE SNOOPER.

The soil building practices are those practices where a farmer earns credit for sowing of legumes and certain specified other soil building crops, use of limestone and phosphate, turning under of green manure crop as soybean, rye lespedeza, etc., during 1936 and certain other soil building practices.

CREDIT SERVICE STUDIED BY MEMBERS NORTHERN PRODUCTION CREDIT ASS'N.

The Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association was represented at a two-day conference last week at Lexington by its President, A. Threlkeld of Grant County, W. H. Parker, vice-president, of Carroll County, directors H. W. Webb, of Grant County, C. Liston Hempfling of Boone County and C. A. Kelly of Pendleton County and Secretary-Treasurer A. T. Mills. The conference was called for the purpose of considering problems of credit service to farmers. The conference was conducted by J. W. Brown, Association supervisor for Kentucky, and was attended by directors and secretary-treasurers of eight Kentucky associations.

Representatives of the Farm Credit Administration of Louisville included Walter F. Gahm, President, and C. D. Kenesson, Secretary of the Production Corporation, Fred L. Petty, Information Agent, J. D. Hervey, Assistant to General Agent, and E. R. Raymond.

Outstanding progress in credit service to farmers was reported by all associations represented, with heavy increases over last year both in number of farmers served and in amount loaned. Report of the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association which serves Boone County shows that during the first 10 months of 1936 it closed 264 loans for a total of $113,624.000. Delinquency of repayments on Production Credit Association loans throughout the state was reported as below 1 per cent, the best repayment record shown by any one of the 12 Farm Credit Administration districts of the United States.

Production credit associations are cooperative organizations of farmers for supplying their members with needed credit for all farm operating and livestock production purposes, according to Secretary-Treasurer A. T. Mills. They lend money borrowed from the investing public by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, which discounts association members notes. Production Credit Association loans at present bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per year.

CONSIDERS THE FARM OUTLOOK OPTIMISTIC

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 17—Returning from Washington, where they assisted the department of agriculture in writing an outlook report, E. A. Johnson and Miss Ida C. Hagman, of the Kentucky College of Agriculture were optimistic regarding farm prospects for 1937.

Th anticipated 10 percent increase in the national income for 1937, as compared to 1936, following about a 13 per cent increase in 1936 over 1935, offers encouragement, Mr. Johnson said. This is the basis for the strong market situation which is expected to continue through the coming year.

We went on to say that improved demand and short supplies of most farm products will serve to hold prices up during the first half of next year. He expects an advance in livestock prices.

In the latter half of next year, prices will be readjusted in line with supplies from the new crops, but Mr. Johnson believed the desire to rebuild depleted stocks of feed supplies will tend to hold prices stead throughout the year. Livestock prices, he said, will hold to a high level longer than feed prices.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT RESETTLEMENT

Editor's Note—This ds question six of a series of questions and answers about the Resettlement Administration which are being published each week in the Recorder.

Is the Resettlement Administration paying too high a price for the land it is purchasing?

Answer:

Land which is purchased by the Resettlement Administration is carefully appraised by expert land appraisers. On the basis of the appraisal price the farmer agrees to sell his land. Land is seldom bought for Resettlement projects if the option price exceeds the appraisal price. The average cost per acre of submarginal land being purchased by the Resettlement Administration is $4.22. This is an inexpensive price to pay for land which be used for forestry, wild life preservation, grazing land, etc. The land is cheap because it is not useful. The Resettlement Administration intends to make this land more useful and therefore more valuable.

The price of land for the resettlement of farm families is consistent with the price of good land in the communities in which it is located. This must be land that will produce an income sufficient to maintain a family.

Next week's question: "Will the purchase of good land and the setting up of communities and homes on this land establish federal islands which are exempt from local taxation?"

MODERNISM

By Helen M. Burlingame

Modern? Nay ancient as sin itself;
Professing themselves to be wise
Men became fools and sought to cast God
Down from His throne in the skies.

Voices sonorous and high-sounding words
Wresting the truth of the Word;
Loudly extolling the doctrines of men,
Making them equal with God.

God, in derision, shall laugh on His throne!
Where will their wisdom then be
When to the rocks and the mountains, in shame,
From the wrath of the Lamb they shall flee?

"GRASS MEAL" FACTORY OPERATING IN NORWAY

Grass meal and fresh green hay are being produced in a factory which has just started operations near Trondjeim, Norway, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department. This is said to be the only factory of its kind in the world. The method consists in cutting the grass when it is still in the leaf stage and drying it by electrically-heated air of Pasteurizing temperature. In conjunction with the factory there is a mill for the grinding of the grass meal. This is done by beating the hay with a series of rotating hammers. Experiments have proved that while hay dried according to the old method loses approximately 20 per cent of its vitamin content, practically no loss is suffered when the method is employed. The grass meal is chiefly used for poultry and foxes, but it may also be used for the making of bread when mixed with a little flour.

Workmen at Martin's Ferry, O., called off work for a day on finding two large jugs of booze which had been buried under a slate pile for 35 years.

HUGE EXPANSION IN U. S. TUNG-OIL TREE PLANTINGS

A ninefold increase in tung-oil tree plantings in six Southern States within five years reflects the great interest in the possibilities of this new crop as an additional source of income for Southern Agriculture, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. All living grove planting at the beginning of 1935 approximated 3,632,000 trees as compared with about 351,000 trees early in 1930. Data indicates that the total grove acreage of tung trees at the beginning of 1935 was 40,166 acres. Growth of tung trees was 144 farms in 1930. The average reported on 627 farms in 1935 and size of groves in 1935 was about 64 acres. The tung-oil tree, a comparitively new introduction from foreign sources, bears a nut from which is expressed an oil used in the manufacture of paints, varnishes, and water proofing materials. Tung oil has quick drying action and imperviousness to water. U. S. importers paid approximately $10,000,00 for Chinese tung-oil last year. Commercial plantings have been made in the northern half of Florida, in southern Georgia, and in an area ot far inland from the Gulf of Mexico in the States of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas.

BOONE COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

BURLINGTON SCHOOL NOTES

The Girl Reserves of this school are going about spreading the news of the enjoyable time they spent while at Hebron Saturday. The Hebron Girl Reserves, with the cooperation of the girls from other schools put on a very nice program. Each club from all the schools made a contribution to the program which was excellent.

There was no school last Friday due to the teachers attending the Northern Kentucky Education Association, which was held at Newport.

The windows of our school are being decorated for Thanksgiving. The children get quite a lot of enjoyment out of getting to decorate the windows with the things they cut out and color. Mrs. Kirkwood in order to occupy the first graders has helped them build an Indian Wigwam in their room. Not only the first graders, but pupils of other rooms have been helping in this project.

New window curtains have been purchased for the cafeteria. This of course helps to add to the attractiveness of it. Also there has been new modern shades bought for a number of the rooms.

The school welcomes Elizabeth Holbrook back, after being confined to her home on account of illness for the past three weeks. She return with a smile for everyone.

A Pep Club was organized last Thursday. This is not only a high school club but is for anyone in the school who wants to join. The members of this club are hoping that as the time goes by that their club will increase in number. They elected as their officers for the year, the following: President, Kathryn Denniston; vice-presi- Jane Brady; treasurer, Mary Emily Burchan; song leader, Alberta Pettit.

Three were three new sets of books purchased for the library last week. The first set which was composed of ten good reading books was entitled Junior Classics. The second set which consisted of 7 was entitled "John Martin's Big Book" and the third consisting of 15 books bear the title of "Elbert Hubbards' Little Journeys."

One of the most importan events of our school is the preparation for the radio program. This program will be heard over WCKY Saturday at 11:30 slow time. It is being sponsored by the Dines Furniture Store, through the Buffalo Club.

Friday night the Florence basketball team will come here for a game with us. The game will start promptly at 7:15. Come and bring your friends.

On Wednesday of next week the Seniors will give a chapel program. It will start at 2:30 and they invite all who can to attend.

HAMILTON SCHOOL NEWS

Jane Aylor, James Binder Jones, and Barbara Huff represented Hamilton in the Armistice Day program held at Florence Wednesday, November 11.

Hamilton lost to Rising Sun in a hard fought contest last Tuesday Nov. 10. For a detailed account read the County Basketball. News in this paper also read the Snooper. Be certain to come out to the Farmers' first Conference game Friday night. New Haven will be our guest.

Our society reporter says: "Katherine Acra spent Wednesday with Dorothy Shields. Mary Calvin Atha spent Tuesday with Elva Mae Black.

Several are out of school 'whooping it up" with Whooping cough.

The P.-T. A. has charge of the Thanksgiving program which is to be presented Tuesday night, Nov. 24th.

The seventh and eighth grade room reports no newes. There's an old says "No news is good news."

Mrs. Huey's room has material to make a display table. The pupils will furnish the display which will consist of Indian Relics, etc.

The boys of the basketball squad will present a black face minstrel in the near future.

HEBRON SCHOOL NOTES

The Hebron basketball team made a very good showing last Friday night Nov. 13, at Florence. The score being 5-32, 25-28 in favor of Hebron. They will play Independence November 20th.

The Boone County Play Day given by the Hebron Girl Reserves was enjoyed by all and was a great success. The schools attending were Florence, Burlington, New Haven and Hebron. There was a large delegation from every school. Songs were sung until everyone arrived, then Miss Barbara Edwards welcomed the other schools. Games were played until time for dinner to be served. Miss Vice, advisor, from Florence School offered thanks.

After dinner each school contributed stunts which ended the program for the day.

The Hebron Glee Club sang at Florence Armistice Day and enjoyed it very much. They are now preparing for the radio appearance scheduled for Dec. 19th.

LUDLOW DEFEATS ERLANGER

Ludlow High School's Panthers remained within hailing distance of the top of the Little Six Conference today following their victory Saturday over the Erlanger High School Juggernauts, 25 to 0, at the Ludlow Ball Park.

Only in the last quarter was Erlanger able to hold the second-place Panthers. The winners scored two in the first, one in the second one in the third.

After the kick-off, Ludlow needed but two plays to score the first marker. Corbett carried the ball 25 yards and Paige took it over. The try for the premium failed.

The second touchdown went into the books five minuts late. It came on a pass, Corbett to Brophy. Corbett did all the work on the third score. He smaked the line to cross the Jordan as the end of the half neared.

Paige ended the scoring for the day when he piled through the line from the 10-yard stripe. After that marker, Coach Judge Waddell sent in his reserves who held the Erlanger stars, Johnson, fullback; Milner, quarter and Nuxoll, guard, from the teller's window.

FALMOUTH MAIL CARRIER, SHOT ACCIDENTALLY, DIES

Falmouth, Ky., Nov. 14—Clayton Wilson, 31, city mail carrier and son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wilson, was killed instantly about 12 o'clock today while getting out of a boat.

He secured a hunting license this morning and went up Licking river about a mile, returning to the foot of Main street at Falmouth. He threw his coat ashore, picked up his shotgun and then slipped and fell in the boat. The hammer of the gun struck the boat seat, causing the gun to discharge.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

In Grant county, farmers are spreading lime on pastures, old alfalfa fields and land to be plowed next year, rather than concentrating six to eight tons an acre for alfalfa or other crops. They are experimenting to find whether this will be a more economical use.

Milt Kitchen of Lawrence county is installing a hatchery to supply baby chicks of the Leghorn breed on a small scale. He will not do "custom hatching," he declares but will use only eggs produced on his farm.

BUS COMPANY GETS INJUNCTION

AGAINST TAX COLLECTIONS IN EXCESS OF $2,051.49 FOR YEAR — INJUNCTION ISSUED IN FRANKLIN COURT.

Frankfort, Ky., November 20—The Dixie Traction Company, operating busses in Kenton, Boone, and Campbell Counties, obtained a temporary injunction in Franklin Circuit Court today to restrain the State Tax Commission, sheriffs and school districts from collecting more than $2,051.49 in franchise taxes on its operations for the current year.

Kelly C. Smith, Clerk of the Court, issued the injunction in the absence of Circuit Judge William B. Ardery.

The company deposited a check for the amount of taxes it contended were due. It alleged that the State Tax Commission, the three counties where it operates, and various school districts were attempting to collect total franchise taxes of approximately $9,000.

WILL REVIEW BIG PARADE AND AWARD GIFTS AT MERCHANTS' ANNUAL EVENT

Friday Also Will Signalize Formal Opening of New Pike Street To Two-Way Traffic—Many Boone Countians Plan to Attend

He's coming again—that grand old fellow—Santa Claus, to gladden the hearts of children.

He is due to arrive in Covington on Friday, this week, at 1:30 p. m., fast time, when the Covington Merchants' Annual Santa Claus Parade will occur.

The event will be far more pretentious than in former years. The prade will include al lof Covington's school children, but Santa Claus and his 25 costumed gnomes will be the most interesting figures. Three bands will make merry with music.

All children taking part will be awarded gifts, and 50 special prizes will be given those appearing in the best costumes depicting Christmas or Christmas toys. The first 10 prizes will be different sums of money, and the last 40 will be one dollar merchandise orders from enterprising Covington merchants.

The parade will form at the Covington Public Library, Robbins street and Madison avenue, at 1:30 p. m. fast time. It will proceed over Scott street to Tenth; to Madison; North on Madison to Fifth; west Fifth to Russell; south on Russell to Pike; east on Pike to Madison and south on Madison to the Seventh street square.

Santa, attended by his gnomes, will review the parade from a platform on the south side of the square.

The following well-known men are members of the committee arranging the Santa Claus festivities: B. H. Ellerman, of Ellerman's Store; Fred Macklin, of the J. R. Coppin Co.; H. L. Woody, of the Woolworth Store; William Frank, of the Dan Cohen Shoe Co.; Joe Luhn, of Luhn & Stevie; Walter Going, business manager of the Kentucky Times-Star; Charles H. Willenborg, business manager of Kentucky Post and Forrest J. Alvin executive secretary of the Covington Chamber of Commerce.

The parade is co-incidental with the formal reopening of Pike street. The new street, with four feet added on each side, now is quite a modern thoroughfare. The additional footage permits two-way traffic.

Many Boone County residents are planning to attend the event. No doubt many will do Christmas shopping, as Northern Kentucky merchants report the Christmas rush is starting earlier this year than ever before. The wise shopper has learned that it is best to shop early while stocks are complete. Readers will find many bargains and interesting gift items in this issue of The Recorder. It will pay everyone to read the advertisemnts carefully—many contain money-saving suggestions.

ERROR MADE IN ELECTRIC RATES

ANNOUNCED IN ISSUE OF NOVEMBER 5—MIMIMUM RATE WILL BE $2.00 INSTEAD OF $1.50 AS ANNOUNCED.

In our issue of November 5th, we carried an advertisement for the Community Public Service announcing a reduction in electric service. This announcement was correct in every way with exception of the minimum billing which should have been $2.00 instead of $1.50.

R. M. Hall, local manager for this company placed an advertisement in this week's issue showing the new rate, both for domestic and commercial users.

Mr. Hall stated that practically 95 percent of their customers used more than the minimum billing of $2.00, thus affecting only 5 per cent of their customers.

BRADBURN-JAMES RE-OPENS CAFE

AND DANCE HALL AT PETERSBURG—BOTH YOUNG MEN FORMER OUTSTANDING FIGURES IN COUNTY ATHLETICS.

Ralph Bradburn and Roy James, Petersburg, recently purchased the business known as "Bill's Place" located in the heart of Petersburg. According to Mr. James the entire building will be remodeled and new equipment added before a formal announcement is made.

Of course, everyone in the County knows "Chots" Bradburn He has made quite a name for himself in his basketball ability as it was displayed while he was attending high school, and later as a baseball stare he held a regular position on the Segram team in Lawrenceburg.

Mr. James was a graduate of the Highland High School and Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio. He came to Boone County from Ft. Thomas and has likewise held a regular position on the Segram nine for several years. He received honorable mention at Holmes, Highland and Dayton for his basketball ability.

Both these young men are capable of their undertaking, and will greatly appreciate your patronage while visiting their town.

NEW CORRESPONDENTS

We are glad to welcome to our staff of correspondents, two new members that have pledged themselves to this work, and ask your cooperation in helping them secure your community news.

Mrs. E. A. Stott. in Petersburg, will gladly take all news items for your Petersburg column, and Mr. J. H. Mannin, and wife, of Hebron, will assist the local correspondent in that territory in gathering news of interest. You may either give your news items to the new or old correspondent, whichever is more convenient.

This does not mean that we are dissatisfied with the correspondents in these communites, but we are trying to help you and your friends to have a more interesting community column. It is impossible for one or two persons to gather all the news in your community—therefore the reason for adding new ones in different parts of the county.

At the present time we have a vacancy in the Bullittsville territory. We regret this very much, as we miss our Bullittsville news. If you have any suggestions as to a new correspondent, we would appreciate hearing from you.

We are devoting our time to just one section of the county at a time but will investigate your territory for improvements in the near future.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO SELL SEALS

FIFTY PERCENT OF PROCEEDS TO BE USED IN COUNTY FOR PREVENTION AND CONTROL OF TUBERCULOSIS.

The Boone County Protective Association Sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals, Boone County Schools Cooperating has been organide in this county for the purpose of selling the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. R. V. Lents, principal of the Constance School is Executive Secretary and D. H. Norris, Supt. of Boone County Schools is the Treasurer of the organization.

Boone County retains 50 per cent of the proceeds derived from sale of the seals to be used here to aid in the prevention and control of the white plague. Every school in the County is aiding in disposing of the seals.

A beautiful trophy will be given to the school that sells the most seals, based upon the enrollment of December, and an elegant electric clock will go to the school that sells the next most seals per pupil. A prize will also be given to the pupil that sells the most seals in his school district. Each school is that sells the most seals in each also giving a prize to the pupil home room.

This is a worthy cause and should have the support of the public spirited and thinking people everywhere. The Christmas Seal gives an opportunity for the old and young, the rich and poor, to help bear the great burden, and have a share in making Kentucky homes safer for Kentucky children.

When the Christmas Seal joined the crusade against tuberculosis in Kentucky, the great white plague was taking 227 out of every hundred thousand lives, and leaving thousands of. our people ill with the disease. Now after twenty-five years under the banner of this health messenger, our death rate has been reduced to 73 per hundred thousand and each year we see tuberculosis become less of a menace to the lives of our people.

The sale of the Christmas Seals will begin on Thanksgiving Day. Hundreds of the seals are being mailed to individuals and firms. If you fail to receive any seals, just drop a postal to R. V. Lents, principal of the Constance School, Ludlow, Ky., R. 2. and he will gladly send as many as you wish.

DECEMBER 7 OPENING DAY

FOR LEXINGTON TOBACCO WAREHOUSES—GOOD PRICES EXPECTED, ACCORDING TO WAREHOUSEMEN.

Lexington, Ky.—What is expected to prove the most lucrative burley tobacco crop since 1929 will go on sale here within less than two weeks, and already Lexington warehousemen are preparing to care for that portion of the 1936 crop that will come to the market here.

The Lexington market, largest in the burley belt, will begin its sales season on Monday, December 7, with other markets throughout the belt beginning their sales the following day. Buyers from many other markets will be in Lexington for the opening sales, since the prices paid in Lexington are accepted as indicative of the sales peak every season.

This year's crop generally is hardly as good as that of 1935, since it contains more green tail end and tip tobaccos, caused by the fact that so much of the crop had to be cut before it had properly matured. The smoking grades this year, however, are of a very useful type and are expected to command good prices.

The Lexington market disposed of 55 million pounds of leaf from the 1935 crop, but because of the decreased production this year, the handle here this season is not expected to be quite so large, although indications are that the market will draw from a wider territory this year than ever before.

There have been no changes in the personnel of the Lexington market this year, and here will be found 24 warehouses, with room to place 15 million pounds of tobacco on sales floors, thus insuring growers of plenty of room at all times for the proper handling of crops. Four sets of buyers, each set representing every major and minor manufacturer, dealer and exporter of burley, will operate on the market here again this winter. Lexington is the only market with this many buyers, others in the belt having only from one to three sets.

TOBACCO SALE OPENING IS SET

Carrollton, Ky. Nov. 19—Seven tobacco houses will open the season's sales Tuesday, Dec. 8, the day following the opening at Lexington. One of these houses was built the past summer by Ralph M. Barker. The Lamb-Carrollton ferry is again in operation, and will enable Indiana growers to market their crops at Carrollton, which has for many years been their custom.

LOCAL SCHOOLS IN BROADCAST

OVER WCKY RADIO STATION LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON —THREE SCHOOLS PARTICIPATE IN PROGRAM.

All radio dials in this part of the county were turned to radio station WCKY Saturday afternoon to hear our local students present a program over the air, sponsored by Dine's Furniture Store, Covington, Ky. These programs are for the schools of Northern Kentucky last week, however, being devoted to three of our local schools, Florence, Burlington and New Haven.

The program was broadcast at 11:30 C. S. T. with the Burlington school leading. Although many people were confused as to the announcer, it was a local student, Miss Mary Belle Smith, daughter of Rev. Will Smith of this community. Although we do not know the ambition of this young lady, her outlook for a radio announcer seems mighty bright and her voice was well adapted to the microphone. Burlington group opened ed their part of the program with a girls' sextet, consisting of Frances Presser and Mary Burcham, first soprano, Juanita Ryle and Dorothy Souther, second soprano, with Ruby Cotton and Margie Berkshire, alto. Others taking part for the Burlington school were: Elizabeth Holbrook, Harold Garrison, Rebecca Stephenson, Allen Burcham, Calvin Kelly, Kathryn Denniston, Glenna Lee Clifton, Pauline Norris, Florence Newman, Luella Cason and Olive Poston. Those who took part on the program ranged from the fifth thru the twelfth grades.

Then came our Florence group who gave us several selections from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Although Mr. Caton says this group did not have much rehearsal, they were certainly entertaining and deserve a lot of credit for their efforts.

The next on the program was New Haven, their program of an interview on Health, by Hazel Stephenson, fourth grade and Lorraine Pressor, fifth grade. This was followed by a declamation by Jean Ann Tanner and a Dramatic Skip by Emile Rivard, Bobbie Shields, Jean Ann Tanner and Tommie Williams. Mrs. Caldwell coached the small girls, while Miss Sleet had charge of the entire program.

We feel that our schools deserve much credit for their efforts put forth to make this program possible, and to the coaches it displayed their ability for leadership. We are proud of our schools and feel that more frequent participation in such activities would be beneficial.

Thanks to Dine's for their cooperation and help.

While enroute to the city last Saturday, John Cave, of Francesville was hit by another car, throwying Mrs. Cave from the car, breaking her collar bone.

Editorial of the Week

THE RED CROSS

It is not necessary here to review the invaluable services of the Red Cross in such major disasters as floods and tornadoes, but we might call attention to one of the Red Cross' newest functions—the establishment of emergency first aid stations on the highways. No calamaity in our history has ever taken the toll of lives which traffic accidents take each year. How many of the 36,000 lives lost annually in such accidents might have been saved by prompt first aid in a matter of conjecture, but it is safe to guess that emergency action would reduce the toll appreciably.

"The return of prosperity brings with it an added responsibility on the part of us all toward our neighbors in distress. We must give in proportion as we have received."

This message of the President is well worth our consideration, and surely there is no better way that we can give our part than through the American Red Cross.

If you are a loyal AMERICAN you should join NOW!

ELECTION TIDES

The Rise and Fall of Election Tides as Told by Percentage of of Popular Vote.

JUBILATION for the winners—consolation for the losers. Democrats find plenty of cause for jubilation in Mr. Roosevelt's impressive landslide. Republicans, struggling up to the surface through the inundating avalanche, while they can't be happy about the result, try to discover consoling considerations.

Democrats exult in the fact that President Roosevelt got more popular votes than were ever before recorded for an American President candidate. They enthusiastically point to his 10-million majority as the biggest, numerically, ever polled.

Republicans retort that nevertheless Gov. Landon got at least a million more votes than ever were polled by any losing candidate for the Presidency and that his popular is next to the biggest ever polled by any Republican nominee, loser or winner. Furthermore, say they, while Mr. Roosevelt's popular majority may be the greatest numerically in our history, it's not the biggest on proportionally. Two Republicans, Harding and Coolidge both got bigger proportional shares of the votes of the two major parties in 1920 and 1924, respectively.

The Five Landslides

Beginning with the year 1920, every election since that time has been a landslide. Yet even in these landslides, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, Roosevelt in '32 and Roosevelt again in '36 have been put into office with about six of every ten voters favoring them and the other four opposing—which has meant that the minority could seriously threaten to restore an equilibrium and jeopardise the position of the majority by winning back only one voter in every ten.

As to the minor parties, theirs is the smallest cause for consolation. Visualizing the election in smaller figures, it thus appears that of every 100 persons who had a right to vote this year ,about 37 voted for Roosevelt, 23 for Landon and 2 for minor candidates, and the other 38 or 39 stayed at home.

When all other analytical considerations are disposed of, possibly the most significant fact about the election—a fact that upset political prophets and straw vote harvesters—was the sweep of the mass appeal of this campaign, which evoked the most far-reaching popular participation of any election in our history, reaching down to strata that had been apathetic and unresponsive to campaign efforts and in active on election days in previous years.

Rufus Robinette, a Boyd county 4-H club member, raised a beef calf weighing 800 pounds at 14 months of age.

POLICE CAPTURE MAN, SACK; STORE IS OPEN

His case was continued by Acting Judge Carl H. Ebert until Nov. 25 pending further investigation by police.

Police said he will be questioned concerning other Newport store robberies.

Patrolmen Gugel and Gallucci were patroling at Ninth and Dayton streets when they saw the suspect carry a sack, they said. Seeing the officers, the suspect dropped the sack and ran into a yard where the police captured him.

DISCUSSES BUYING OF WINTER WOOLENS

When buying winter woolens, it is important to know the meaning of various terms used on labels, says Miss Verna Latzke, specialist in clothing for the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

If the word wool is used at all, there must be at least 5 percent of wool present, while part wool indicates from 5 to 25 percent of the material is woolen, with 5 percent as the minimum. More than 25 percent should be labeled with the minimum guaranteed to be present. Above 98 per cent is listed as all wool. If the blanket is not labeled, ask the sales person to give this information and include it in written form on the sales check, Miss Latzke advises.

Often material is called wool without saying whether it is virgin or reworked wool. Reworked wool may make satisfactory clothing or blankets if it is used right; that is, good grades of reworked wool combined with the right kinds of new fool fibers produce pleasing fabrics at reduced cost. If virgin wool is desired, it should be specifically requested. The weight may be taken to indicate the quality. For a cotton and wool mixture the tensile strength should be known.

In judging blankets, the feel is revealing: all wool blankets are warm, wooly and springy; cotton is heavier, very soft, dead and lifeless. Godo nap is heavier and thicker than is a poorer quality. The blanket should have a firm, even pull with the yarns not separating or coming apart.

Blankets may be sought in 12 sizes, with 90 inches the desirable length, as the strain of regularly pulling up a blanket that is too short often breaks the thread.

SALADS BIG HELP TO SCHOOL LUNCH

Salads help to add flavor, interest and color to a school lunch as well as to the home meals. If the mother plans well, she can have a variety of fresh, crisp foods to use in the lunch from day to day. Celery stalks may be used plain or stuffed with cottage or grated cream cheese. The cheese may be mixed with chopped onion, pimento or nuts.

A mixture of shredded vegetables such as cabbage, carrots, turnips and celery may be mixed with a little salad dressing and wrapped in a thick cabbage leaf and waxed paper. Chopped onion celery seed, parsley, pimento or nuts, mixed with a little mayonnaise, may be prepared for the school lunch in the same way.

Delicious salads may be made with a hard-cooked egg base. The yolks of the egg may be removed and mixed with a little chopped parsley or pimento, shredded ham or crisp bacon and enough mayonnaise to hold the mixture together.

Hard cooked egg, shredded carrot, onion and mayonnaise make a colorful salad that most children like. Chicken salad may be used in the school lunch occassionally during the winter months when the days are cool.

Canned peaches, pears or chopped prunes stuffed with cottage cheese and nuts and mayonnaise make a colorful appetizing addition to the lunch that may be used for both a salad and a dessert.

A large variety of congealed vegetables or fruit salads may be used during the colder months of the year when they will stay firm until the noor hour.—Florence Imlay, Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Six hundred and ninety-four quarts of non-acid vegetables were canned by Caldwell county homemakers last month.

Heading the company's home economics work for the Bluegrass division, Miss Irvin gives demonstrations with ranges, washers and other electrical appliances; assists in or directs cooking schools, and gives a complete home service. At the university Miss Irvin had a high scholastic standing and was a leader in the Home Economics club and other activities.

BALLS AND STRIKES . . .

170 players went to bat in the 26-inning game between Boston and Brooklyn, May 1, 1920, but only 14 hit safely for a .082 mark. Second baseman Pick, of Boston, was unable to get a hit in 11 tries and both shortstop Ward and pitcher Cadore, of Brooklyn, failed in ten attempts. First baseman, Holke handled 44 chances faultlessly, one an assist . . . Major Alfred Von Volnitz, who pitched for the Reds and White Sox, was the highest ranking ball player in the United States Army during the war. . . . Outfielder, Pat Dougherty and shortstop Fred Parent were in the Boston Red Sox line-up when Cy Young twirled his perfect game against the Athletics, May 5,1904, but were on the losing side, October 2, 1908, when Addie Joss, Cleveland, prevented a single Chicago White Sox batter from reaching base safely . . .

Infielder Jack Barry played in every World's Series from 1910 through 1916 except that of 1912. He was a member of the Athletics in 1910, 1911, 1913 and 1994 and the Red Sox in 1915 and 1916 . . . The Boston Red have been in five World Series—and won them all . . Bill Terry and Mel Ott never had a stolen base to their credit during the 1934 season . . . Although the New York Giants finished the 1906 campaign with 96 wins against 56 defeats, they were 20 full games behind the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs . . . When the Chicago Cubs buried the Giants, 19 to 0 on June 7, 1906, they handed Christy Mathewson the worst defeat of his career. Matty, winner of 22 engagements that year, was batted out of the box in the first inning, and Iron-Man Joe McGinnity followed him to the showers in the second stanza . . . Benny Kauff led the Federal League in batting in 1914 and 1915, the years it operated a major league.

Wally Pipp became the Yankee first sacker in 1915. Since then only one other man has played the initial bag for the New York Yankees—Lou Gehrig, who succeeded Pipp in 1915. . . Although he made ten hits in the 1924 World Series against Washington—including five extra base blows, for a .333 average, Frankie Frisch, then with the New York Giants, did not drive a single run across the plate . . . Sam Jones. New York Yankees, after setting the Philadelphia A's down on September 4, 1923, without a hit or run, yielded only two hits and one run in defeating the Red Sox on September 10, in his next out . . . Walter Johnson was named the most valuable player to his club in the American League in 1924, his 18th year in the circuit . . . Babe Ruth made his record-breaking 60th homer on September 30, 1927 off pitcher Tom Zachary, then with Washington. The blow came in the eighth inning . . . The Cincinnati Reds won seven straight games in 1917 and then dropped seven in a row.

In a period of thirty seasons, 1903-1932, the Boston Braves finished but four times in the first division . . . When Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfields, led the American League in batting in 1921 with .394 for 149 games, he was the first right-handed batter to accomplish this feat since 1904, when Nap LaJoie, Cleveland secand sacker, paced the league's clubbers with .381. . . . Three times Joe Jackson finished runner-up to Ty Cobb in vatting—19911, 1912 and 1913 . . . In nine World's Series, starting with 1910, the American League team was victor each year except one—1914.

THE NEW CARS

The 1937 autos, now on display at all local dealers, are advertised and are undoubtly "safer" than ever before. More all-steel bodies, more safety glass, better brakes—almost everything the engineer can devise, lacking only—safer drivers.

In our neighboring town of Cincinnati, located in Hamilton County, Ohio, the death toll for this year has already reached 155, seventeen above last year's record for a similar period.

The worst defect in this year's model, and one that cannot be overcome by the manufacturers, is the fact that carefulness, good judgment and patience cannot be built into the cars in Detroit and delivered to the drivers of the new 1937 automobiles.

Too many of us today make the mistake of placing "safety signs" on our windshields facing to the outside of the car, when they would probably do more good if they were placed on the outside of the car facing the operator of the vehicle.

Did it ever occur to you that nine out of every ten persons involved in auto accidents would argue until the last word that it was the fault of the other man? It must be the "HUMAN in us.

A 25-ton carload of superphosphate was spread on wheat and grass land by Bracken county farmers.

Charlie Dolph and Roy Ryle and family of Belleview, have just returned from a two weeks' visit in Miami, Fla. Part of their time was spent with Mr. Ryle's brother, Boone Ryle, of Hollywood, Fla., who left Boone County only a short time ago. They report times to be very good in Florida.

J. W. Hubbard, of Russell county had an acre of Kentucky No. 16 tobacco averaging 30 leaves to the stalk.

We're putting in coal too, neighbor!

Yes, sir! Winter's coming and we're getting ready for it just as you are. Putting in coal. Keeping fires going. Doing all the things that keep a home warm and friendly.

You see, we maintain a home—your "Home Sweet Home" on rails. We buy coal—thousands of tons—we build fires . . . shovel snow . . . and remove sleet and ice . . . so that your "home on rails" will be pleasant, inviting, safe, no matter what the weather.

And though sometimes you may be inclined to think of us as nothing more than a safe, comfortable means of transportation . . . we are actually a neighbor of yours—a very human sort of neighbor with a hankering to talk with you across the fence about the homely things that concern us both. That's the way with neighbors, isn't it?

GAS WELL FAILS ON GRIFFITH FARM

PREPARATIONS HAD ALREADY BEEN MADE BY LANDOWNER TO INSTALL GAS IN HOME FOR PRIVATE USE.

Many persons in the Limaburg community were curious to know just why Geo. Griffith made a trip to town with a load of gas burning equipment last week, and returned with an empty truck. Well, here is the story as it was related to the writer through a reliable source.

It seems that Mr. Griffith was among the first in the community to have a gas well drilled on his farm, and according to reports on this well, it was among one of the leading wells to be drilled up to that time. The well came in strong at about the same distance as the other wells were coming in, and after striking the main vein, the well was capped and left to be connected with the main pipe line. This line was supposed to have been installed from Limaburg to Florence by Oct. 15, but here it is almost Dec. 15th, and we have not seen any pipe as yet.

The story continues that Mr. Griffith laid away all his present heating and cooking equipment and purchased all gas equipment. He laid the gas line from the well to the house, installed the new stoves, and was all ready to set back and warm his feet by natural gas coming from his own farm, when someone shouted, "NO GAS." Yes, that was just the trouble, there was no gas rushing through the pipes when the large valve was opened.

Disguested with the whole thing, the equipment was taken out, loaded back into a truck and sent back to town to be resold.

Up to this writing no official report has been obtained as to why this well failed. Almost everyone owning a well are using the gas successfully, and have reported no trouble. We hope that this case can be cured, and the well brought back into use again, as this project will mean many dollars to Boone County residents in fuel saving as well as the sale of the product, should it ever be completely developed.

NEXT SUNDAY IS BIBLE SUNDAY

ENDORSED BY GOV. CHANDLER —CHURCHES OF NATION TO JOIN IN OBSERVANCE OF BIBLE SUNDAY.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 2—Governor Albert Benjamin Chandler urges the churches of Kentucky to observe Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday, December 6.

The churches of the nation will also unite next Sunday in the observance of Universal Bible Sunday. They will remind the people of the nation of the unrivalled place which this great book has had in the making of our nation and the nations of the world. The celebration, as formerly, is sponsored by the American Bible Society by whose uninterrupted missionary activities, now in their 120th year, more than 268,000,000 volumes of Scriptures have been distributed in more than forty countries and in 175 languages.

In endorsing Universal Bible Sunday Governor Chandler says: "It is a pleasure for me to direct the attention of my fellow Kentuckians to the day that has been set aside as 'Universal Bible Sunday,' December sixth.

"A regular attendant at Sunday school and a graduate of a small denominational college, I have from early youth been taught to love and respect the Bible.

"To accurately evaluate the worth of the Holy Scriptures to civilization would be as difficult as to measure the value of sunshine or the human emotion of Love. I believe all of us love the Bible."

Grimes, Vice-President and Karl Rouse, Director of The Boone County National Farm Loan Association attended a meeting of secretary-treasuries and directors in Lexington Tuesday of this week. CABLE LINE COMPLETED

BY CONSOLIDATED TELEPHONE COMPANY — NEW LINE AND POLES TO BE BUILT IN ALL PARTS OF COUNTY.

Last Friday work was completed on the new cable line in Burlington. Since the completion of this project by the Consolidated Telephone Co., service has been far superior to that in the past.

Goebel Stephenson, manager of the company stated that the Walton cable line had been completed some time ago. He also stated that work is under way in all parts of the county rebuilding and improving all lines. It will only be a matter of time until we can enjoy the same service rendered in counties served by much larger concerns.

Under Mr. Stephenson's leadership, the company has improved its service one hundred percent, and we believe he will continue the good work until their will be no room for improvement.

The telephone is one of the greatest assets in the home and places of business. Their slogan is very true: "Connects Boone County With the World."

Many new telephones have been installed in Boone County homes during the past few months, and with the continuance of past service, we are sure there will be many more installations.

MORE MEMBERS TO BE ENROLLED

UNTIL GOAL IS REACHED BY RED CROSS WORKERS—MAJORITY OF COUNTIES HAVE REACHED QUOTA.

The annual rollcall of the American Red Cross, in those counties which failed to make their quotas in the campaign starting on Armistice Day and ending Thanksgiving Day, will be continued by county chairmen and their workers until the quotas are reached, according to information from an authoritative source coming to this newspaper.

It is requested that persons who have not been solicited for this worthy cause—and it is probable that many must have been overlooked—leave their dollar with the local newspapers if they cannot immediately get into touch with the Red Cross chairman or worker.

The majority of Kentucky counties are believed to have reached their quotas. For the State of Kentucky the quota was 104,000 members. While this was almost double that of the previous year, it was felt that not nearly all those who were able to help, and who would want to help, the work of the Red Cross in Kentucky, had had opportunity to contribute. And so the larger quota was agreed upon.

This newspaper will be glad to receive and to pass on the proper persons the dollar of any man or woman who desires to have a part in the work of the Red Cross the coming year by becoming a member. Half of each dollar membership, as has been previously stated, remains with the local chapter for local use. The other half goes to the American Red Cross national organization.

The Red Cross organization in Kentucky expresses its appreciation of the work of those devoted men and women who volunteered their services to make the campaign and of those who have "answered" to this rollcall.

REVIVAL SERVICES NOW IN PROGRESS AT PETERSBURG

Rev. Noble Lucas, pastor of the Petersburg Christian Church is conducting a revival which was started November 30th and will continue until December 11th. Large crowds have been attending these services and all are invited to attend these services.

ELMER MILLER TO BE SEC'Y.

OF NATIONAL CONVENTION OF EVANGELISTS — REV. MILLER RECENTLY HELD SERIES OF SERVICES HERE.

The widespread interest being shown in the coming National Convention of Evangelists and Christian workers is evidenced by inquiries reaching the offices of Interdenomination Evangelistic Association. From all indications every state of the union will be represented by evangelists, pastors, singing evangelists, Bible teachers, children workers, young peoples workers and other church and ecangelistic workers.

Evangelist Elmer C. Miller, of South Bend, Ind., the executive secretary of the association, will again be the director of the convention headquarters established in the Kentucky Hotel in the next few days. Evangelist Mordecai F. Ham, of Louisville the president of the association said, that in Huston, Texas, where he is now conducting a union evangelistic campaign, many Christian workers are planning to attend the seventh annual convention of evangelists.

Several large railroads already have inquiries concerning the convention. The association has always stood for the highest type of evangelistic workers, sensational, publicity seeking workers not beinvited into fellowship of the association. Almost every protestant denomination is represented in the membership of this organization.

Previous conventions have been held in Chicago, Indianapolis, Ind., Philadelphia, aDyton, Ohio; Memphis, Tenn., the convention having met twice in Chicago in the great Moody Memorial Church. The largest halls in each city have been used in order the greatest number of presons may hear and meet these evangelistic workers.

The morning sessions of the convention will be devoted to the discussion of the problems of the church and evangelistic workers. The afternoon and evening sessions will be open to the public and will be held in the Armory. These public sessions offer an aunusual opportunity to those who take advantage of the chance to see and hear these evangelistic workers. Some of America's foremost singing evangelists have already announced their intention to attend and help in the services.

The pulpits of Louisville and nearby communities will be occupied by many of the evangelists, in this manner many who are unable to attend the meetings of the convention will also have a chance to see these evangelists about whom they have read many times. The evangelists and song directors and helpers will be available for services throughout the week of the convention.

One of the outstanding services of the convention will be the New Years eve watch night service which has always been one of the greatest services of the convention. Instead of revelry the new year will be greeted with prayer and praise service.

These evangelistic conventions have been a great lift to the churches in and near the convention city and should assist the churches of this convention city in starting a city-wide revival effort. This will help keep burning the revival fire started by the preaching missions.

TOBACCO MART BENEFITS CITED

VICE PRESIDENT OF KENTON LOOSE LEAF TOBACCO WAREHOUSES URGES CO-OPERATION.

"I feel that the merchants of Covington do not realize there is disbursed here over a period of 12 weeks more than $750,000 in cash for tobacco sales made for farmers." E. L. Becker, vice president of the Kenton Loose Leaf Warehouse, said Monday, urging that the community advertise Covington's advantages as a weed mart.

He asked that merchants join in a concerted effort to promote interest in the Covington market. Sales will begin Dec. 8.

"The houses are putting forth a certain amount of sales effort," Mr. Becker said. "It is true that we would profit by increased tonnage offered for sale, but at the same time the merchants of Covington would profit in the same proportion.

"Recently the regional manager of a chain of groceries told me that in some cities special efforts are made to offer attractive bargains to the tobacco growers. It has proved a profitable business," he said.

Mr. Becker recalled that an effort to increase the market sales was made by the Covington Chamber of Commerce, retail merchants and the warehouses in 1933.

V. P. KERNS AGAIN HEADS TRI-STATE TOBACCO WAREHOUSE

V. P. Kerns, well known Walton man will again head the Tri-State Tobacco Warehouse. Mr. Kerns has been president and manager of this house for the past several years and has made many friends in this and adjoining counties.

The Tri-State warehouse is located in Covington and has always enjoyed a large patronage from this section of the State. as well as from adjoining states. The Tri-State Warehouse is now ready to receive your tobacco.

In last week's issue we carried an advertisement for the New-Brite-Lite Warehouse and the Sixth Street Warehouse, of Carrollton. These houses are ready to receive your crop at any time. The Brite-Lite house is new and modern in every respect.

Bill Gentry, well known tobacco man, and treasurer of the Marshall-Harris Warehouse, in Carrollton was a caller at our office Monday and placed an advertisement in this issue which will be found on another page.

No doubt there will be many pounds of tobacco from Boone County sold over the breaks in Carrollton and Mr. Gentry is asking that you give their house a trial. Their opening sale will be December 8th.

According to reports received at this office all houses will open the following day after the first sale at Lexington, which will be held December 7th. Indications point to good prices for the tobacco crop this year.

McMAKIN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

AT HIS HOME TOWN OF LAGRANGE, KY. — BELKNAP SALESMAN IN THIS DISTRICT FOR MANY YEARS.

Everyone in Boone and adjacent counties were shocked to hear of the sudden of the well-known Belknap hardware salesman in this district, William I. McMakin, LaGrange, Ky. He was instantly killed in an automobile accident last Friday morning at 7 o'clock.

Although he never made his home in our midst, we feel we have lost a friend an neighbor, as Mr. McMakin was always very friendly with everyone and made new friends daily. It has always been said that this man could make more friends in one day than most people can in a year. It was his kind and tender disposition that made him outstanding. We shall greatly miss his presence in Boone County.

He is survived by one brother, G. E. McMakin, and one son, W. I. McMakin, Jr., who are also connected with the Kelknap Co.

Funeral services were conducted at the McMakin home, LaGrange, Sunday afternoon.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

We do not know of a single individual institution in America that has done as much good as the Red Cross. In every disaster in America, or abroad, in Kentucky or China or Japan, in earthquake shocks that leveled the great city of San Francisco, in famine which took millions of lives in China—wherever the evidence of human need has been, there was the Red Cross with its helping hand.

When floods came into Eastern Kentucky with a cloudburst, when tornadoes swept over Southern Kentucky, when epidemics of disease have invaded this and other states, there the hand of the American Red Cross, its doctors and nurses, its food and bedding, its tents and tarpaulins, to provide temporary shelter until homes could be restored and food supplies made certain.

In the past five years, because of such things happening in Kentucky, the Red Cross has paid out to relieve distress five times as much as Kentucky members paid to it in rollcall dues. This year the Red Cross has set a goal of 104,000 members for Kentucky. It ought to reach that goal.

RABBIT FEVER

With the opening of another hunting season, recurrent timeliness attaches to the warning against Rabbit Fever or Tularemia issued recently by F. W. Caudill, M. D., State Epidemiologist. This disease has been reportable in Kentucky since 1928. In 1935, cases reported aggregated 67, with 7 deaths.

"Rabbit Fever," said Dr. Caudill, "is an infectious disease, to which wild rabbits and other small animals are susceptible. Wild rabbits, however, are the principal animals affected in Kentucky and constitute the chife source of the disease in man. Domestic rabbits, raised in rabbitries, are not a source of danger.

"Rabbit Fever is spread from animal to animal through the bites of ticks and certain species of the fly. From rabbit to man the disease is transmitted through the handling of an infected carcass, by eating poorly cooked infectious rabbit meat or by the bite of one of the infectious insects. Usually, however, cases of the disease in man are contaminated with the skinning and cleaning of wild rabbits. The germ enters the human body through cuts or sores on the hands, which are contaminated through contact with an infected rabbit carcass. The period of incubation is, as a rule, from two to five days. It may, however, be as short as on day or as long as nine days. Since the germ is easily killed by heat, there is no danger of con tracting Rabbit Fever from eating infected meat, if such meat has been thoroughly cooked.

"The following simple rules, if carefully observed, should avail to prevent infection:

Always wear rubber gloves when dressing rabbits.

Never handle a wild rabbit which has been found dead or which has been brought in by a dog or cat.

Rabbits should always be shot on the run. Those which are sluggish or can be walked upon and caught sitting, are likely to be infected with tularemia.

If the internal organs of a rabbit are studded with small white spots, throw the carcass away. The condition may be tularemla.

Cook rabbits thoroughly, so that no red meat or red blood remains. Through cooking of the meat destroys the germs.

"The onset of the disease is sudden and accompanied by headache, chills, body pains, vomiting and fever. An inflamed painful papule or sore develops at the site of infection. This papule soon breaks down, producing a discharge and leaving a small ulcer. Rabbit Fever is commonly of this type. Sometimes, however, it assumes the form of what is usually referred to as the 'typhoid type. This type runs an irregular course much like typhoid fever. There is no apparent sore on the hands or elsewhere on the body. It generally begins with a slight rise in temperature, accompanied by a profound prostration, and is followed by a long, slow convalescence. For this reason, the disease is sometimes mistaken for typhoid fever.

"Rabbit Fever, or Tularemia, requires prompt medical treatment The family physician should be promptly called in all cases which develop symptoms suggesting Rabbit Fever. Take no chances. The only safety lies in avoiding infection. Once contracted, the disease must run its course. This usually covers two or three months. Occasionally, complete recovery does not take place for six months or a year. One attack confers immunity.

"The doctors diagnosis may be confirmed by blood tests, for which the laboratory of the State Department of Health in Louisville, or the Public Service Laboratories at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, are always available, at the request of the attending physician or the local health officer."

BULLETS OF JUSTICE

By REX COLLIER

"Pretty Boy" Floyd.

"PRETTY BOY" FLOYD

CHARLES "PRETTY BOY" FLOYD, who notched his watch ten times to keep tab on his killings, feared death in the electric chair far more than he did bullets of the G-men.

He weighed the prospects of both—and chose the latter. The result was inevitable, under the circumstances.

Federal bureau of investigation agents have been accused of shooting him in the back, in "cold blood."

There were rumors among critics of the bureau that Floyd fell on his knees and begged for mercy as ruthless agents poured lead into his body.

It has been reported Floyd repeatedly offered to surrender before G-men caught up with him, but that J. Edgar Hoover rejected the offers and ordered his men to "kill Floyd on sight."

There is no doubt there was considerable sympathy in scattered places for this notorious outlaw and killer from the Cookson hills.

Yet this was the man who cooly turned a "tommy" gun on F. B. I. agents and police in the Kansas City union station massacre, and then cut four more notches on his "lucky piece" fob and watch; and who killed, kidnaped and plundered his way to the top of the list of public enemies.

The record of Floyd's crimes provides a gory chapter in the books of the federal bureau of investigation. Finis was written to that story when a squad of F. B. I. agents and police shot Floyd fatally in an Ohio corn field on the afternoon of October 22, 1934.

The true details of that shooting and the events immediately preceding it have been unfolded to me by the F. B. I., so that the public may judge whether Floyd's death was "justified."

Hoover's men began their hunt for "Pretty Boy" after the ambushing of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, early on the morning of June 17, 1933, as they arrived in Kansas City, Mo., from Hot Springs, Ark., where they had captured Nash.

When the officers started to get into waiting automobiles in front of the station, three men opened fire with machine guns, killing Special Agent Raymond Caffrey, Chief of Police Otto Reed of McAlester, Okla., and Detectives Hermanson and Grooms of the Kansas City police. Nash was killed also, in the cross-fire.

Eyewitnesses picked a photograph of Floyd as that of one of the killers. It was learned, moreover, that Floyd and his pal, Adam Richetti, had driven into Kansas City the previous night in the car of a salesman whom they had kidnaped, after abandoning a stolen car in which they had kidnaped the Sheriff of Bolivar, Mo.

Co-operation of police in various parts of the country was enlisted in the hunt for Floyd and Richetti.

Months passed. Floyd was reported in nearly all parts of the country — often at the same time. All tips and leads, however minor, were run down by the tireless agents.

Here are the facts on Floyd's offers to surrender.

An emissary of Floyd relayed to Hoover what he claimed was a message from the fugitve, the emissary explaining he did not know where Floyd was, but that "Pretty Boy" was willing to "consider" giving himself up if the government would promise not to send him to the electric chair.

Hoover sent word back to Floyd that such a proposition was out of the question, that he and his men intended to make Floyd, sooner or later, pay the full penalty of the law for the merciless massacre at Kansas City.

Hoover ordered his men to intensify their hunt for Floyd and Richetti, but it can be said definitely that at no time were "shoot on sight" or "shoot to kill" orders issued to the G-men by Hoover.

During this time, Floyd and Richetti, with two girls who had been in shooting scrapes with them in Ohio in years past, had been hiding out in a respectable apartment house in Buffalo, N. Y. The men seldom ventured out of the apartment. Neighbors afterward said they often heard someone walking up and down the floor at night, as though pacing restlessly.

After staying in Buffalo more than a year, the pair grew increasingly restless and decided to venture back to their native Oklahoma hills. With the girls they set out from Buffalo about the middle of October, 1934, in a newly-purchased car.

Floyd was driving through a rainstorm on the outskirts of Wellsville, Ohio, early on the morning of October 20, when the car skidded into a telephone pole. Floyd and Richetti took their guns and baggage out of the car and sent the girls into Wellsville to have repairs made to the car, which was not seriously damaged.

A resident of the community several hours later saw Floyd and Richetti lying on the grass in a field not far from the scene of the accident. He thought they were tramps, and telephoned to police headquarters at Wellsville.

When the police officers appeared, in civilian clothes, Richetti was asleep on the grass and Floyd was seated near him. Floyd jumped up, leveled a pistol at the officer and ordered the latter to "stick 'em up." The police officer pretended he was a workman enroute to a nearby factory, but Floyd refused to accept the explanation and called to Richetti, who had awakened, to "let him have it."

A brief gun battle ensued, with Richetti and Floyd running down a hill. None of the bullets took effect, but Richetti, having emptied his gun, surrendered. Floyd escaped into the woods.

Still believing his captive was a tramp, the officer took Richetti to the police station, where he gave a fictitious name and identified Floyd as "Joe Warren," of Toledo.

Sheriff Long, of Steubenville, who had become familiar with Richetti's appearance through photographs supplied by the G-men, dropped in the Wellsville police station on another matter while Richetti was being questioned. He recognized him immediately and called him by name. Richetti thereupon admitted his identity. The Wellsville officer then identified Richetti's companion as Floyd.

Sheriff Long notified the Cincinnati office of the F. B. I. and the federal forces promptly swung into action. Inspector Samuel P. Cowley was in the vicinity in connection with the Stoll kidnaping investigation. Special agents proceeded to the East Liverpool airport by plane, where Sheriff Long met them. East Liverpool police were enlisted in the manhunt. Woods were searched and roads blocked.

Learning that a man answering Floyd's description had asked for lunch at a farmhouse near East Liverpool, the F. B. I. agents and East Liverpool officers proceeded to the farm. About 4 p. m. Monday, October 22, 1934, as this squad was making a systematic search of farms in that vicinity, Floyd was seen in an automobile which a farmer was starting to drive from behind a corn crib, on the farm of Mrs. Ellen Conkle. He had asked to be driven to Youngstown.

When Floyd spied the officers he ordered the farmer to back the car up behind the crib. Floyd jumped from the car as it backed up, dashed past an outbuilding, across an open field and over a ridge toward nearby woods.

The agents and police pursued him and commanded him to surrender.

Floyd's response was a gesture of defiance. He may have been thinking of that electric chair.

Instead of stopping he whipped out a .45 caliber automatic pistol—he was carrying two—and chose to fight it out.

The agents fired first.

Floyd was running to seek protection of a dense woods. With his head and shoulders turned toward the officers, he flourished his gun. The agents paused and aimed their guns. They knew that to permit him to gain the woods would give him an advantage which doubtless would result in the loss of the lives of several agents.

He fell, mortally wounded, with his pistol, fully loaded, still in his hand. The other pistol, a .45 caliber automatic, was in his belt. An extra clip was in his pocket.

Floyd was shot at 4:10 p. m. and he died in the Conkle house at 4:25 p. m. He admitted his identity just before he breathed his last. He refused to answer further questions. With his dying words he cursed his captors.

IS LIFE INSURANCE SAFE?

There has been considerable discussion recently as to whether life insurance is "safe."

In the view of experts, it certainly is, it will pay its contracts, when they fall due, exactly as specified. It will pay them in dollars.

Naturally, if the value of the dollar drops, you'll get less than you plan on. That is true of any kind of investment.

So—to thoroughly protect life insurance policyholders, as well as the owner of savings accounts and bonds, we must demand that government maintain a sound currency. The "safety" of such investments is dependent on the "safety" of the dollar.

Lesson for December 6

PAUL'S PARTING COUNSELS

LESSON TEXT—I Timothy 6:6-16; II Timothy 4:16-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. II Timothy 4:7.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul's Last Letter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Awaits the Great Adventure.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Transmitting the Gospel Heritage.

The apostle Paul was an example in many things, and not the least important of these is the manner in which he was constantly on the lookout for young men who by the call and blessing of God would take up the gospel ministry. He realized that there was much to be done and that if the Lord tarried he and his co-workers would pass on, and the work must needs be carried forward by younger men.

Not only did he seek out such young men but he "followed through," giving them encouragement, instruction, and opportunities for service. How shortsighted is the church that fails God at this point, or which, for the sake of local and present usefulness, hinders young men and women from obtaining the needed training for Christian service. The fields are white unto harvest but the laborers are still few. Let us pray them out and help them on their way.

Our lesson centers around the counsels of Paul to his young friend, Timothy. Written near the end of his life, the letters are filled with all the sweet earnestness of his great soul. They present four important truths which merit the careful attention of every Christian, and even more particularly of the Christian worker.

I. The Gain of Godliness (I Tim. 6:6-8).

In a world which knows little but the urge to gain material riches we need to emphasize the fact that it is still true that a man is not profited if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul.

The great gain of godliness is that inner fellowship with God which brings true contentment of spirit.

II. The Snare of Riches (I Tim. 6:9-11).

The pages of human history are full of the names of those who have fallen into this trap of Satan. Sad to say, not a few of them have been Christian leaders.

Notice that it is not the money itself, or the amount of it that constitutes the danger. It is the desire or the "mind to be rich," and "the love of money" that "is a root of all evil." Hence Paul's admonition comes to each one of us to "flee these things and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness." What a sermon in a dozen words!

III. The Fight of Faith (vv. 12-16).

Christianity is not only an inward grace which reflects in "godliness with contentment" and in fleeing the snare of riches, but it is a daily fighting of the good fight of faith. It is imperative that there be "a good confession" (v. 12), coupled with a keeping of God's "commandment without spot, without reproach, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The servant of Christ, in view of the coming of the One who is "the King of Kings and Lord of Lords," is to live a consistent, clean, and irreproachable life.

IV. A Divine Deliverance (II Tim. 4:16-18).

"All forsook me," says Paul. How tragic! How weak and undependable is the arm of flesh! "But the Lord stood by me." How glorious! How mighty and gracious is our God!

The follower of Christ may find himself without a human friend or supporter. Those who stood by in younger and more successful days may have disappeared. But let us remember that our trust is in God who has never failed any one of his children. "He abideth faithful, he cannot deny himself." (II Tim. 2:13).

Worship and Prayers

It is for the sake of man, not of God, that worship and prayers are required; that man may be made better — that he may be confirmed in a proper sense of his dependent state, and acquire those pious and virtuous dispositions in which his highest improvement consists.

Learning Only Good

The wish falls often on my heart, that I may learn nothing here that I cannot continue in the other world; that I may do nothing here but deeds that will bear fruit in Heaven. —Jean Paul Richter.

Window of Hope

Eternity is the divine treasure house, and hope is the window, by means of which mortals are permitted to see, as through a glass darkly, the things which God is preparing.—Mountford.

BENZOL METHOD SAVES AUSTRALIAN TOBACCO

Production of tobacco in Australia practically doubled in the 1935-36 season compared with the preceding year as a result of the benzol method of protecting tobacco seedlings from blue mould, a report to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department states. Production of tobacco in the six States of the Commonwealth, in 1935-36 amounted to 6,106,000 pounds against 3,113,315 pounds in 1934-35. The benzol method of treating blue mould, was applied on an extensive scale for the first time in the production of the 1935-36 harvest. Of the Australian production of tobacco leaf in 1935, one half was grown in Victoria. Australia is a large importer of leaf tobacco, obtaining practically all of its requirements from the United States.

What most ailing businesses need is some body to do the work of the office.

New Haven Wins Conference Tilt

The New Haven Tigers proved too strong for the Burlington Tomcats in a Conference game at New Haven Wednesday night, Nov. 25. The score was 22 to 37.

After taking an early lead the Burlington lads were forced behind, never to regain a lead. During the game, the passing was rather poorly executed by the Tomcats, thus causing them to lose several potential scoring chances. On the other hand the Tigers showed rather nice passwork for an early season game. Floor play was better by both teams than work under the basket.

Perhaps the most notable feat of the game was the scoring of six points by Porter for the losers who did not play all of the game. Porter is a seventh grade boy who measures nearly six feet. For New Haven Sturgeon and Gatewood looked best. Gatewood has only one more game since he passes the age limit after this week's game with Walton.

The Burlington-New Haven lineup follows:

For Burlington, Porter 6, f; Clore 7, f; Garrison 2, c; Robinson 0, g; Snow 4, g; Substitutes, Botts 3, f; Gulley 0, g.

For New Haven: Sturgeon 11, f; Knox 8, f; Williams 7, c; Gatewood 11, g; Barlow 0, g; substitutes Howard and Griffith.

Refree: Devan.

The Burlington Reserves were able to win by the comfortable score of 26 to 16 after trailing during the first part of the game. In this game Botts, scored 11 points, after entering the game near the half way mark.

HAIMLTON DROPS THRILLER TO ALEXANDRIA WEDNESDAY

Had the Hamilton Farmers been able to handle Parker in a more effective manner, they would be able to boast a victory over the Campbell County boys from Alexandria last Wednesday night. This lad with 16 points was able to win the game for his teammates in an overtime period by the count of 30 to 26.

The game was fast throughout with the Farmers sharing the points earned by them in a well-balanced manner. The Boone County boys have a team made up of boys who can score when in position regardless of who tries for the goal, a strong point for any team.

The Hamilton reserves lost by the one-sided score of 13 to 29 in the opener.

In a rather slow game, the Walton five were easy victors over the Kenton County boys from Beechwood. The score was 30 to 19. In the starter the Beechwood reserves nosed out Walton by the count of 21 to 18. These games were played Nov. 25th.

Conference Standing

	Won	Lost
Hebron	1	0
Hamilton	1	0
Florence	1	1
New Haven	1	1
Burlington	0	2

Hebron met the Crescent Spring teams Wednesday night of last week. The regulars won their game in a hard fought battle by a score of 23 to 17. Shinkle was best for Hebron, while Weber was best for Crescent. One of the largest crowds to attend a basketball game for many years.

The game was fast throughout and the final outcome was in doubt until the final whistle blew. Hebron took the lead on three occasions only to have Crescent to come from behind to tie the score. However, at no time did Crescent lead. Hebron will play Hamilton at Hamilton this week.

The reserves were defeated by the Crescent Springs reserves by a decisive scor of 25 to 8.

BOONE COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

BURLINGTON SCHOOL NOTES

The students of our school are all back with happy expressions on their faces, after the Thanksgiving vacation. Everyone reported a good time hunting, eating turkey and other things that go with a happy Thanksgiving.

Last Wednesday night our boys played the New Haven boys. After a hard fought game the final score was in favor of New Haven.

On Friday of last week there was a Thanksgiving program given in the auditorium. Pupils from different grades of the school took part in it. It was attended by quite a number of parents.

The faculty and students welcome Alberta Pettit back into their midst. Alberta has been out of school for about a month, and although she is far behind in her work, she comes back willing to do her part to catch up.

The school regrets to hear of Arnold Craddock breaking his leg. We are wishing him a speedy recovery and hope he can be back with us in the near future.

Starting this week the gymnasium is going to be used for the children as a play room. In the past they have been playing outside, but due to bad weather during the winter months they will be allowed to play inside.

Due to the changing of the place to play, the noon hour of the first four grades has also been changed. They will have their noon at 11:25. The grades will have the noon play period before the Junior and Senior high schools will be dismissed.

The high school is preparing for tests which will come the latter part of this week. The word "test" always bring a mental upheaval, so the atmosphere of the high school is somewhat gloomy and unsettled.

On Friday night of this week A. J. Jolly will come here. There will be two games, the first one starts promptly at 7:15. Everyone come and bring your friends and show that you are interested in the teams.

BOONE COUNTY HOG KILLING

The days are crisp, cold, and clear,
Boone County hog killing time is here;
The men all gather at break of day
There's Frank and John and Bill and Ray.

The fire burns bright, the water's hot;
There goes the first, and a perfect shot;
They scald and scrape and hang to chill,
Then block the meat with greatest skill.

The women, too, have done their part,
They've cooked and baked with a willing heart;
The table spread, the food piled high,
The men troop in with a joyous cry.

Dinner is over the lard all done,
The meat put away and the sausage run;
They bid each other a pleasant good-bye
And start for home the sun still high.

"Hold on thar folks," cried farmer Bill
"Next Thursday's when I am to kill."

—A Boone County Farmer.

Most all of you farmers in this northern district know that I am a dirt farmer. I am naturally interested in you as a tobacco producer. I have had thirty-five years of experience in handling of tobacco. I believe I can truthfully say that I am interested in helping you get the very best price for your years work. No one knows any better than I do, how much work is required to produce a crop. Stop at the Tri-State and let us grade your tobacco so it will bring the high dollar. I have been accused by one of our stockholders of being more interested in helping the Farmer than making dividends. I don't deny that. We get our business from the farmer and the only way to hold you as a customer is to give you a square deal.

COUNTY OFFICIALS ARE PRAISED BY NAT SEWELL

County Records Are 100 Per Cent Perfect—Citizens Should Be Thankful For Such Efficient Officers

In a letter received by Judge N. E. Riddell from Nat B. Sewell, Director of Post Audits much praise is given the Court for the efficient manner in which its business has been conducted during the past year. Boone County residents should be thankful that for having such men who are always looking after the interests and doing much toward bettering the county's standing.

Many residents of our county are habitual "kickers," sometimes making statements which are very harmful to our county officers. In the paragraphs which follow you will find that we have one of the most efficient body of county officers in the state.

The letter follows:
"Judge N. E. Riddell,
"Judge Boone Counyt Court,
"Burlington, Kentucky.

"My dear Judge Riddell:

"I am enclosing herewith for your permanent file, for the reference and use of yourself and other public officials, a copy of my report upon a recent examination of the records, accounts, and affairs of the public offices in Boone County for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1935 and extending to July 1, 1936. I trust that this report may be of some practical service to the county administration in carrying out the present year's program of operation.

"In our yearly examination of governmental agencies in all the counties of the State, it is very seldom that we find as little to criticise and as much to commend as is revealed through our investigation in your county. As a whole I sincerely feel that Boone County's fiscal affairs are exceptionally well managed. The public records covering the last year show not only that your county has operated strictly upon a cash basis, but has lived well within its income, and has conformed very satisfactorily to the requirements of the 1934 county Budget Act. I am pleased to see that the business of the last fiscal year definitely was closed before the beginning of the present fiscal year. One of the prime purposes of the Budget Act is to prevent the long-prevalent custom, in a great many counties of disregarding the beginning and the ending of the fiscal year, and records, accounts, and revenues correspondingly tangled. I therefore consider your accomplishment in this connection an outstanding one.

"The fact that, after all claims for the year were paid, you had cash balances at the close of the year of nearly $15,000.00, $20,000.00 and $35,000.00, respectively in the General Expenditure, the Road and Bridge, and the Road and Bridge Bond Sinking Funds clearly shows that it is not the policy of the Boone County administration to expend all revenues simply because they are available. This policy of expending only such revenues as actually are necessary to carry out efficiently the essential functions of the county government is a most commendable one that I should like very much to see enforced in every county in the Commonwealth.

"Boone County is fortunate in having a Fiscal Court of only three members and this court is to be praised for holding only such meeting as actually are necessary for the consideration and transaction of fiscal affairs that require the attention of the Court. The total cost of $186.00 for Fiscal Court meetings during the last year is one of the lowest in the State, I am gratified to see that the members of this court do not engage in any 'fudging' by making extra per diem allowances to themselves for the so-called 'committee services,' as has been done in various other counties without justification.

"As compared with other counties in the same part of the State, the Sheriff of Boone County has made a good showing in the enforcement of the Dog law and in the administration of the Live Stock Fund. His charges for administrative costs are legal and thoroughly reasonable. It is evident that he is trying conscientiously to perform his duties under the law. He deserves the full cooperation and support of other county officials and the courts in extending the enforcement of the dog law to cover the listing and the licensing of all dogs in the county. I would suggest that a special effort be made to wipe out entirely the existing deficit in the Live Stock Fund, as of October 31, 1936, of approximately $840.00, so that the new calendar year may be started on January 1 with no claims outstanding.

"While your Road and Bridge Bond Sinking Fund is in excellent condition at this time, due to the receipts from the sales tax in the last two years, I would suggest for your consideration the fact that the present Sinking Fund surplus of nearly $35,000.00 will be wiped out in the next few years because the annual requirements for maturities and interest are at least $10,000.00 per year in excess of the revenue that will be derived from your 20-cent Sinking Fund levy. I would suggest, also, as good business for the county, the purchase of outstanding undue road and bridge bonds, whenecer they can be obtained at a fair price, with the bond fund of nearly $110,000 that you have been holding a number of years. In disposing of a recent injunction proceeding from Estill County, where the same condition as to an unexpended bond fund exists as in your these funds might be used to buy up bonds, not for retirement, but as an investment. Through this procedure, a very considerable saving can be made each year, since there is very little chance of securing anything like as much interest upon bank deposits as is being paid upon the outstanding bonds.

"I want to express appreciation from this department for the excellent co-operation that we have had in our work from Boone County officials. The fine administration record that is being made by these officials is an encouragement and should be a helpful example for many other counties to follow.

"Trusting that the good work in the handling of county business that already has been accomplished will be continued and further extended, and hoping that you will not hesitate to call upon this department whenever you feel that we may be of practical service, I am

"Sincerely yours,
"(Signed) Nat B. Sewell, Director of Post Audits."

The suggestion made in the above letter that the road bonds be purchased by the Fiscal Court has been attempted as the Court made offers for the bonds and none of the holders of the bonds will sell. The Court will make offers for any of the outstanding road bonds.

NEW BOOKS IN COUNTY SCHOOLS

ARE ADDED FOR PURPOSE OF BROADEUING THE FIELD OF EDUCATION IN BOONE COUNTY.

Another step toward the advancement of education in Boone county has been taken by the Board of Education and cooperative schools, by placing at the disposal of students in our schools, books that offer education and interesting reading matter.

Books amounting to approximately $300.00 have been distributed to county schools as property of the school, and will remain there as such. The books include "Junior Classics," and "John Martin Big Books" for the pupils from grades 1 to 9. Elbert Hubbard's "Little Journeys" have been added for the upper classes.

The Board of Education paid half the cost and the schools were required to pay half for as many books as they desired. The schools who accepted this offer were, Garrison, Hamilton, New Haven, Florence, Hebron and Burlington.

A short time ago there was approximately one hundred and twenty books put into a Boone County Circulating Library for the benefit of the grade students. This, as the name implies, was used by all the various schools who desired same.

TOBACCO SALES OPEN TUESDAY

COVINGTON WAREHOUSES HAD 30,000 POUNDS ON FLOOR FOR OPENING SALE — STRIPPING DELAYED.

With approximately 30,000 lbs. of tobacco on the floors of the two Covington tobacco warehouses the opening sale was held Tuesday.

The first sale was held at the Tri-State warehouse around 10 a. m., with the Kenton Loose Leaf firm holding their sale shortly afterward.

Officials of both warehouses estimated around 15,000 pounds on each of their floors. The explained that the their first sale would ed that their first sale was light, due to the fact that dry November weather had prevented farmers from stripping their crops and placing them in readiness for market. Both floors are expected to house many times the amount on hand at the opening sale within the next several weeks.

It was reported that only 2,000,000 pounds of the leaf was on the Lexington floors for the opening sale Monday. This was said to be one-fourth of the amount of last year's first sales. Weather conditions were blamed for this fact, also. Recent rains have given the farmers a chance to complete preparation of their crops, which will be brought to the warehouses in the near future.

A predicated light crop, although not of specially good quality, was believed by warehouse officials to indicate a higher tobacco price for this year. The drouth throughout the year was blamed for the light crop.

JULY 1 SET FOR ELIMINATION

OF DOUBLE LIABILITY ON BANK STOCK—SHOULD PROVE POPULAR WITH INVESTING PUBLIC.

At the regular session of the Legislature of Kentucky last January a law was passed conforming to an act of Congress whereby the double liability now carried by bank stock is to be eliminated next July 1st, provided a bank advertises at least six months in advance of July 1st of its intention to take advantage of this law in behalf of its stockholders.

The first step require is for the Board of Directors of a bank to place an order in the minute book of its intention to take advantage of the law and then advertise this fact in a local paper six months in advance of July 1st and if not advertised six months in advance of July 1st, then the effective date of elimination of double liability will be six months from the date of advertisement in the local paper. A copy of the paper containing the notice and copy of resolution of the Board as appearing in the minute book should be sent to the State Banking Department at Frankfort and a copy sent to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

For many years an owner of bank stock was liable for an assessment of 100 per cent of the par value of his holdings should such assessment be necessary at any time for the solvency of the bank. This law now eliminates this liability and places bank stocks on the same basis with other stocks, in that no future liability may be incurred.

The removal of the double liability on bank stocks should prove popular with the investing public and cause these stocks stocks to be more desirable as well as to enhance in value.

FARMERS SEEK PRICE BOOST

FOR MILK—FARMERS CLAIM JUMP IS MANDATORY BECAUSE NECESSARY FEEDS COST FROM $38 TO $45 A TON.

An increase from 13 to 14 cents a quart was demanded when it was learned that an increase of 75 cents a 100 pounds of whole milk from ditributors was demanded Monday by dairy farmers' organizations in this territory.

Farmers claim that the jump is mandatory, because necessary feeds now cost from $39 to $45 a ton. The present basis of $2.28 a 100 pounds for whole milk, they claim, barely pays the feed bill.

Dairy farmers, through their organizations, made a demand 30 days ago for an increase of 35 cents a 100 pounds of whole milk delivered at their gate or loading point. The demand was refused. Since that time prices of feed for dairy animals have advanced, according to J. P. Osborne of the Milk Producers' Union. These advances make necessary the seventy-five cent advance, it is claimed.

The committe of producers' representatives meeting the distributors included Paul J. Betscher and Robert F. Schiering, for the Cooperative Pure Milk Association; Dr. A. O. Bonnell, for the K. I. O. Association and Barry Palmer, for the independent producrs.

"A WONDER" TO ONE BISHOP

"Why do people go to church?" asks the Right Rev. Warren I Rogers, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Ohio, and answers his own query with "it has always been a wonder to me."

Little as the reader may think of the statement it reveals a lot of sense. The clergyman concludes that when a minister complains of lack of attendance "it is usually a selfish interest that prompts his criticism."

Taking cognizance of the fact that our early settlers were great church-goers the Bishop asserts that the reason they crowded the churches was "because they had nothing else to do on Sunday."

This may sound like strange talk from a pulpit but it is at least different from what one usually hears and, quite likely, is the conclusion of a preacher who has done some thinking. He realizses that religion is a spiritual force, far ahead of men and women, and that, in our materialistic age, spiritual values are not always appreciated.

The Recorder has often urged its readers to go to church because of the belief that spiritual gains can be made under the influence of our church services. However, we do not believe that much good can come from any church attendance based upon compulsion or a species of regimentation. Let the individual, feeling the need of spiritual guidance and growth, go where he or she can find the answer to the craving for Divine succor.

Hello Everybody!

"Washday Tragedy"

By FLOYD GIBBONS,
Famous Headline Hunter

BY GOLLY, you can have an adventure with anything. You know, people had the idea for a long time that you couldn't get a thrill with anything short of a three-alarm fire or a man-eating tiger. But that isn't so. The most prosaic thing in the world can furnish you with an adventure if you get mixed up in it the right way. Or maybe I should have said the wrong way.

That innocent looking fountain pen you write with every day is liable to jump up and bite you if you don't watch it. The most commonplace household contrivance that you're using all the time is going to turn around and sock you on the nose if you're not doggone careful.

Martha Couldn't Resist Him.

She was sitting at home one fine fall day when a young man knocked at the door and told her he had come to save her a lot of work. THAT BIRD WOULD HAVE SAVED MARTHA PLENTY OF SOMETHING OR OTHER IF HE HAD NEVER COME AT ALL.

The young fellow talked to Martha for a while, and finally it became evident that he wanted to sell her—you guessed it—an electric washing machine. Martha said she didn't want one, but that didn't stop the bright young lad. He asked her just to take the machine and try it out for a few days. Martha agreed to that, and he came back after a while to deliver the contraption. He put it in the kitchen and told Martha he'd return the next morning to show her how it worked.

When the young lad had gone, Martha began looking the machine over. It was bright and shiny, and it didn't seem to be so complicated. She didn't see any reason why she shouldn't work the machine herself. You know, women get tired after a while, of waiting around for men to come and show them how to do things.

Martha got out some soiled clothing and put it in the machine. She filled the tub with water, tossed in a little soap. Then she got hold of the electric wires and attached them to the circuit.

Fine at First, but Then—

The paddles in the machine started to turn over. The soap in the tub whipped up to a white, creamy froth. Everything was going nicely, and Martha, for the first time in her life, was experiencing the sensation of seeing the clothes being washed without her having to turn even so much as a finger. Then Old Gal Adventure stepped in with a left hook to the wringer and things began to happen.

The washing machine was standing just a few feet away from the stove. It set up a certain amount of vibration, and the stove shook a bit. The oven door was jarred off its hook and started to swing open. Then Martha did the incautious thing—the thing that started all the trouble.

Yet, after all, the thing Martha did was the most natural thing in the world. She had done the same thing a hundred times before, with no ill effects. It just happened that circumstances, this time, were differe[illegible] And it just goes to show that nobody can be careful enough [illegible] Old Lady Adventure.

She Couldn't Let Loose of the Oven Door.

All Martha did was reach out to take hold of the oven door to shut it. But she had her other hand on the shiny metal rim of the washer. AND SUDDENLY, SHE STIFFENED AS AN ELECTRIC SHOCK WENT THROUGH HER BODY.

The first shock was followed by another—and another. The charges came slowly at first, then faster and faster. Martha tried to let go—found that she couldn't. The electricity so paralyzed her that she couldn't move a muscle. She had often heard that people who caught hold of an electrically charged wire or piece of metal sometimes could not tear themselves loose, and just as often, she had wondered why not. Now she was finding out for herself.

In a few minutes the shocks were coming so rapidly as to be almost continuous. Martha began to wonder how long she could stand it. It would be hours before her husband got home, and no one else was likely to come in and extricate her from her predicament.

Thought Her End Surely Had Come.

"I thought surely it was the end," she says. "My arms felt as if they were coming off. I couldn't move—I couldn't even scream. Never in my life had I been so helpless in the face of any danger. EACH SUCCEEDING SHOCK SEEMED TO BE HARDER THAN THE LAST. I DIDN'T THINK I'D BE ABLE TO STAND IT MUCH LONGER. THEN GOD OR FATE MUST HAVE COME IN TO TAKE A HAND."

Or maybe it was just Old Lady Adventure. Anyway, things began to happen. Suddenly, a fuse blew out in the box on the kitchen wall. A shower of sparks flashed brightly in the room, and Martha was knocked backward. She landed against the kitchen sink, and got a good bump on her head, but she didn't mind that. She was too thankful to be free from the clutches of that terrible contraption she had taken into her home.

The salesman came in the next day and found the cause of the trouble. Martha had hooked the blamed thing up wrong—left a loose wire dangling somewhere inside the machine. "And now," says Martha, "when somebody tells me to wait—I wait!"

IN MEMORY

Of Mary Ida Williams, born in Maryland, W. Va., May 30, 1886, died Sunday, Nov. 15 at her home Arno Ave., Ft. Thomas.

Funeral services were held at A. C. Dobbling and Son Funeral Home Ft. Thomas, by the Rev. Clarence Krebs from Southgate M. E. Church before a large crowd of sorrowing friends, who loved her.

Mrs. or "Mother" Williams as she was called by a great many of her friends who loved her, she was a good, true and faithful friend of the writer, who has known her for 31 years. She was always doing good deeds for others. She never thought of what she needed, but was always sending something to those who were in need..

She will never be forgotten by many of her friends, but how sweet to know it is not forever. It is only a peaceful sleep, simply waiting for our Father to place the missing links which will complete the chain of loved ones that will reach out through endless eternity of peace and joy.

We all extend to her children our heartfelt sympathy and sororw with them for we know what it means to look for the last time upon the face of our loved ones and then see them hidden from our sight. Bro. Krebs made it so plan to all that day that death is only a dream. Some day we will meet where partings are no more.

Mrs. Williams leaves three daughters, Mrs. John Walton, Mrs. Steve Passafume, Mrs. H. Bineford and one son, John Williams.

Lesson for December 13

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 1:4-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—Fear not; I am the first and the last:....behold, I am alive for evermore. Revelation 1:17, 18.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When John Saw Jesus Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jerusalem, the Golden.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Living Christ Among the Churches.

The first chapter of the Revelation, while it is an introduction to the entire book, is worthy of study by itself as a glorious revealing of Jesus Christ, his person and work. Some will wish to use the chapter as a preface to the study of the solemn and instructive messages to the seven churches of Asia which are found in chapters 2 and 3; but for most schools it will be better to concentrate on the messages of the chapter itself.

I. His Person.

While many of the characteristics of the Son of God are here presented, two are particularly emphasized.

1. His eternity (vv. 8, 11, 17).

In a world which understands but little of the meaning of its past, which lives in a badly befuddled present, and admittedly knows nothing of the future, it is a source of the deepest satisfaction and peace of heart to know and serve the One who "is and was and which is to come, the Almighty." He already "was in the beginning," and is to be through all eternity.

2. His glory (vv. 5, 13-16).

Jesus Christ is presented in verse 5 as "the faithful witness and first begotten of the dead," who is the ruler "over all the kings of the earth." The followers of Christ have a glorious captain and leader. The kingdoms of all the earth are his by right. Some day he will rule in fact and in person.

The infinitely beautiful description of our Lord in verses 13 to 16 is almost beyond interpretation. Have you seen him in his majesty and glory? The one who is "in the Spirit on the Lord's Day" can still see "him who is invisible" (Heb. 11:27).

II. His Work.

1. His victory (v. 18).

He died for our sins but "was raised again for our justification" (Rom. 4:25). We have not a dead, but a living Saviour. He has "the keys of death and hell." The one who follows a human leader parts with him at the grave. But he who follows Christ does not lose him when he passes over into the next world, for he is there, and he has the keys of all authority, not only in this world but also in that which is to come.

2. His love (v. 5).

How deep and rich was his love toward us. It sent him to the cross.

3. His redemption (v. 5).

He "washed us from our sins in his own blood." We read in Hebrews 9:22 that "without the shedding of blood there is no remission." The cults and creeds which deny or ignore the need of cleansing in the blood of Jesus Christ may be religious but they are not Christian.

4. His fellowship (v. 13).

The candlesticks are churches and the stars are God's messengers. They are not alone in the world; he is "in the midst." Do we recognize his presence?

5. His return (v. 7).

"Behold, he cometh with clouds." How can anyone read the New Testament and fail to see, and to teach and to preach the Lord's return?

He is coming again. What is our duty in the light of his coming?

a. To live lives of purity and Christian nobility. (Read I John 3:3, and compare vv. 1 and 2.)

b. To be diligent in sacrificial service. "Occupy till I come" (Luke 19:13) is the command of the one who "went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and to return" (Luke 19:11).

Love of Nature

The presence of the love of Nature is an invariable sign of goodness of heart and justness of moral perception, though by no means of moral practice. When it is originally absent from any mind, that mind is in many respects hard, worldly, and degraded.—Ruskin.

A Wife

There is one name which I can never utter without a reverence due to the religion which binds earth to heaven—a name cheered, beautiful, exalted and hallowed—and that is the name of wife.—Bulwer.

Pride and Humility

Pride is not the heritage of man; humility should dwell with frailty, and atone for ignorance, error, and imperfection.—Sydney Smith.

Great Duties

Ability and Opportunity

Where there exists honest ability there exists also real opportunity.—G. C. Golden.

Milk is filling, and may impair a child's appetite when drunk early in the meal. If such is the case, it should be be reversed until fell into the meal. or even until the end. Food should not be washed down with milk or other fluid.

A BRIEF SOJOURN IN THE SUNNY SOUTH

On Thursday, Nov. 19th at 4 a. m. our party, composed of Mrs. George Walton and children, Corrine and Bobby, Mrs. J. H. Walton and son Angerean left Waterloo, Ky., for a trip south. Though primarily a business trip, we anticipated much enjoyment from it and were not disappointed.

Our first stop, Georgetown, the discovery was made that our box of ham pickles, and cake was still on the kitchen table at home, but we were not in a mood to be discouraged by trifles so drove blithely on, stopping near Somerset for breakfast.

Leaving Georgetown at 6 a. m., the temperature 28 degrees, we traveled by route 27 to Atlanta, Ga., at which city we arrived at 7:15 Thursday evening, and where we decided to spend the night. Having secured a cottage at Cherokee Rose Camp, the name, by the way, being more ornamental than the accommodations, we dined at the only restaurant in sight. It was operated by a white woman who answered our questions reluctantly and served the meal with a surperior air of conferring a favor—though the food was indifferent in quality, infinitesimal in quantity and excessive in price.

Not being experienced tourists, we neglected to inquire as to heat, and etc., and found the cottage heated by a small gas stove and a gas plate, so the best we could do was to comply with the printed sign, "Turn off the gas when you restire as we are not responsible for accidents." About 4 a. m. the room became too chilly, temperature about 38, and the gas had to be relighted. The one in our party who offered to stay awake and watch, was soon snoozing cozily. However we escaped asphyxiation and notwithstanding the fact that we left cabin No. 13 on Friday morning, our only bad lunch that

Thanks to an AAA routing card day was having to change a tire, caused by picking up a nail. we skirted Atlanta, escaping the heavy traffic, and about 8 a. m. were on Route 41 bound for Macon, which we entered at 10:45 a. m., and at 4:45 p. m. on Friday we crossed into Florida, where we spent the night.

In the meantime we had made several stops and detours in our search for New Orleans "syrup." Our first inquiry for "molasses" was met by a blank stare until we amended it by "syrup." So syrup it was while in the south, but molasses is what we are having on our pancakes.

HAMILTON AND WALTON-VERONA WIN

In one of the important Conference games of the season, the Farmers from the Hamilton School were able to clinch the victory by a score of 32 to 23.

The Hebron boys were in the game al the way, fighting for the lead, but Coach Huey's lads were able to stave off every attack successfully. Williamson and Hubbard took scoring honors for Hamilton with 12 and 11 points, respectively, but we must not overlook the fact that team play by the other boys was responsible directly for most points made by these boys. For the losers, Kenyon with 9 and Shinkle with 6 led in scoring. The game was very fast for so small a floor, but with this handicap, a good clean game was played.

Vest from Walton officiated at these games. Mr. Vest is a member of the Northern Kenutcky Officials Association.

Opening their Conference season at home, the Walton-Verona Bearcats won easily from the New Haven quintet by the uneven count of 34 to 15.

The home team took the lead early in the contest, and were able to close the first half with the scoreboard showing 25 to 10 in their favor. Though the Tigers were in there all the way, they just could not get what it takes to make the score go up. Denning with 14 and Osborne lead the victors in scoring, but the guarding of Harris was just as valuable for his team.

Williams looked best for the New Haven lads wih 6 points. The floor play was not executed so well by the losers who were not able to stop the scoring of the fast team play of the Walton-Verona boys.

Notable in this game is the fact that Gatewood of New Haven was playing his last game as the age limit was reached by him before the next regular scheduled game.

Lead by Pennington and Marsh with 8 points each the Walton-Verona Reserves were victorious in the preliminary game. The final score was 26 to 11. For New Haven, Marsh looked best with 6 markers.

Good officiating was done in these games by Mattingly.

Lloyd High played host to the Florence Knights at Erlanger Friday night, but overlooked the rules of politeness when they turned the visitors away with the long score of 46 to 16. Through the score looks worse than the actual contest was, the continual looping them in by Johnson would cause any five to wonder. When it was finished and the scorers had time to total his scoring for the Erlanger boys, he had 25 points chalked up in his favor.

Scott counted 8 points for the Knights, but could not match the scoring of the lank youth with 25 for Lloyd.

The reserves of the home team were also victors by a score of 26 to 12.

The Young Tomcats from Burlington let two games go by when a couple of quintets from A. J. Jolly Memorial High School came out of California (Kentucky) to 39 to 30 and the regular game by win the first game by a score of 33 to 22.

No better games have been played by the local boys than they played Friday night. having been tied or in the lead in both games well along in the contests. The scoring of Spillman and Daniel with 12 and 10 points, respectively gave the Jolly boys the margin over the Tomcats, but Clore and Snow showed nice work when they played the floor well defensively, and counted 10 and 11 points each for their team.

It looked for a while like the "Little Tomcats" were going to through again as has been their custom this season, but when a couple of big lads were rushed back into the game for Jolly, they were defeated by a score of 30 to 39.

SEES ALL---KNOWS ALL

Now that the weather is cold enough for me to work in comfort in spite of the somewhat warming effects of some ardent fans living near some of the basketball teams that have been chosen to come out with the little end of some scores, I shall endeavor to continue from the place where I left off. You cant fall out with me, so long as I stay on the winning side. Honestly, you can't.

You know how disappointing it is to have to miss a meeting with friends. Well, I made an effort to be with you but Thanksgiving, and too much searching for truth caused me to fail to see you recently. Did someone say—Yellow Streak? If that's the way it seems to you, let me quote in substance from the dope paragraphs for the past three conference games. It went like this: Before Thanksgiving New Haven to win from Burlington and last Friday it was Hamilton from Hebron and Walton from New Haven. Now anybody can get proof for the truthfulness of this pregame dope directly from the editor of the Recorder. It was given to him when it was found to be impossible to get a regular column in before the games, and I don't stay or work around The Recorder office like some have thought.

But I have another little matter to mention. Definite investigation has proved that there are still one or two (maybe more) who persist in trying to pass as a student in order to save a dime on admission to some game. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Another important fact that I should like to know more about, is how one, J. Robert Huey can coach his boys to throw bean balls, make eyes at the girls with the visiting team, play regular basketball, and climax the whole matter by making baskets while sitting comfortably on the floor. Let some of the rest in on "complete basketball," eh, "Jimmy?"

This week we find all of the Boone County Schools meeting in Conference games. You know how six coaches feel—. The boys look terrible, at least that's what they say. Down inside somewhere though, six coaches are saying to themselves, "I can win if I can just get the boys to do what I say." from six schools are saying, "We'll do anything you say, coach, to win from that team." Now that puts me in a tight spot.

You see, it is necessary that I hold to pre-game tradition established through the years of never missing (?). So here is the way you coaches and plays will have to take it whether you think that way or not. It's tough to say it, but the crystal says Hebron, Walton and Hamilton.

THE SNOOPER.

GIFT FOR CHRISTMAS
By Helen Frazee-Bower

What can I give to men whose empty eyes
Trouble my thinking at this Christmastide?
Lord, make me humble, loving, strong and wise,
That I may give them Christ, the crucified.
Let me not choose the lesser gifts of earth,
That pass in dust and are futility
Lord, at this sacred season of Thy birth,
Lead me from giving things, to giving Thee.

What can I give to Thee, oh, God above?
(There is so little that our God could need))
And yet, in all my dreams, Thy heart of love
Is wounded still: :I see it break and bleed
With naught to staunch the flow—except I bring
Some ransomed soul, called home from wandering.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

WEATHER FORECAST

Dec. 18—Unsettled; Dec. 19 Rain or Snow; December 20, Colder.

VOLUME 61 | BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1936 | NUMBER 32

WEED REACHES HIGH LEVELS

AS PRICES CONTINUE TO RISE ON ALL MARKETS—PRICES TODAY REACH HIGHEST PEAK SINCE 1928.

Many more happy faces will be seen this Christmas than ever before since the tobacco outlook for this section is much brighter than since the 1928 boom. Growers and warehouse managers have reported quite a few crops bringing high averages, but the majority of the weed in this section of the state will not be placed on the markets until after the holidays due to the dry weather which we experienced in the early fall.

Tri-State House, Covington

V. P. Kerns, manager, reported that among the high averages of their house was a crop of Boone County tobacco belonging to R. R. Aylor and Sol Winkle. Approximately one half or 1484 pounds of their crop was sold on the early market bringing an average of $43 per hundred. The lowest basket sold for $14.25, the high basket for $52.00.

Mr. Kerns also reports that a crop belonging to Carson and Richardson, Burlington, sold for $48.00 per hundred.

Kenton House, Covington

Several reports have been received from the Kenton house, but we find that the following article expresses the extreme side of the excitement that is now taking place in the Kenton House. It follows:

The excitement over high prices received for this tobacco crop is believed to have caused the death of Simon Jacobs, farmer and tobacco grower, Peach Grove, near Butler, Tuesday in the Kenton Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse, Second Street and Scott Boulevard, Covington. He collapsed during the auction of his tobacco. He was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital, where physicians pronounced him dead. He was 63 years old. His death was said to have been caused from heart attack and sudden shock.

Lexington Markets

Kentucky's 30,000,00 or better burley tobacco crop began to move across the warehouse floors at Lexington last Monday, one day ahead of all other 21 houses in the state. The Lexington market opened with the sale of over one million pounds, and the daily sales have amounted to more than that figure on each succeeding day of the week. The high crop of the week was one of 4,122 pounds that averaged $51.79.

These figures are from last minute data, and have been received from reliable sources. At this writing these are the only reports from the various houses.

Anna H. Trisler, of Sayler Park was a business visitor at the Recorder office Tuesday afternoon. She also visited friends in our town.

NEW CHURCH TO BE OPENED

NEXT SUNDAY AT FLORENCE—R. R. ROSE WILL DELIVER THE FIRST SERMON IN THE NEW BUILDING.

The new Methodist Church at Florence, will be opened for services next Sunday, ec. 20. At the request of the official board of the church, the pastor, Rev. R. R. Rose, will deliver the first sermon in the new church edifice at 11:00 a. m., Eastern Standard Time. The Sunday School is to assemble at 10 o'clock.

A basket dinner is to be served in the dining room after the morning worship. The services will continue on through the afternoon with Dr. O. B. Crockett, Presiding Elder, and Rev. G. B. Trayner, a former pastor, as chief speakers. Other ministers are also expected to be present and to have part on the program. At 8:00 P. M., Dr. M. N. Waldrip, pastor of the First M. E. Church, South, Covington, will deliver the address. Special music through the day with John and Mary Laubisch in charge. The public is cordially invited.

The new building is to be inclosed this week and well heated with both coal and gas stoves. The interior is not, as yet, finished, but will be in a useable condition.

The building committee is composed of Rev. R. R. Rose, pastor and chairman, Karl Kiem, secretary, J. G. Renaker, treasurer, John Fossett, C. A. McKibbens, Owen Bethel, Russell Mitchell, C. A. Rose and Mortimer Moss.

GAS WELL STRONG AGAIN

We are glad to report to our readers that the report that came to this office last week regarding the gas situation on the Griffith farm has been corrected, and the well is now in operation, supply a large amount of gas.

The trouble was caused by the walls of the well crumbling and caving in, causing the opening to be entirely shut off. This trouble was easily corrected after the drillers came to the rescue, and cleared the opening. The gas is still there and it was shut off only because of the cave-in, and not because the well had failed. Mr. Griffith is using the gas in his home at the present, and reports that it is certainly an improvement over the old method of heating.

We are glad to make this good report on the gas project in Boone County. All farmers using the gas at present are well pleased with the results, and it is probably going to mean many dollars of income to hundreds of Boone County landowners within the next few years.

LARGEST RECORDER EVER PUBLISHED

We the managers, are especially proud of this issue of The Recorder as it is the largest paper ever to be published in this office since it was founded in 1875. We wish to express our appreciation to our patrons for their splendid cooperation during 1936, for it is your cooperation that makes it possible for us to give you a good county newspaper.

We are sorry for one thing, that we were unable to obtain our colored Christmas pages which we had intended to use in this issue, our last until after Chritmas. We had ordered this through a printing concern in Cincinnati, and did not receive delivery until about a week ago. Upon its arrival we discovered that it was printed on the wrong size paper, and it was too late for us to get another order. We are very sorry for this, but it just couldn't be avoided.

There will be no paper published in this office the issue of December 31st, as has been the custom of this paper for many years. Next week will be the last issue until Jan. 7. Our correspondents will not be asked to send news next week, but save it and make it a larger column for the 7th.

We want to call our readers' attention to the fact that this issue is devoted largely to Christmas advertising for the benefit of those who desire to do their Christmas shopping wisely. We know our advertisers personally, and know that for each dollar spent with them, you get quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices.

RISE IN MILK PRICE CERTAIN

DEALERS RESISTING RISE, ADMIT THEY MAY HAVE TO MEET DEMANDS OF FARMERS FOR PRICE INCREASE.

Dealers, while resisting the rise that farmers are demanding for their milk, admit they probably will have to accede to the farmers' demand for high prices. Increase sought by the producers is 75 cents per 100 pounds (approximately 46 quarts), which they insist is necessary to meet growing feed costs.

The 75 cents requested is admittedly a bargaining figure. The farmers would be willing to accept a a35-cent increase, which would bring the price they receive to approximately $3 per 100 lbs.

The dealers acknowledge farmer's need for increased revenue, due to the cost of feed, but are combatting the rise with the belief that a 14-cent quart will decrease consumption and work to the ultimate disadvantage of both the producer and distributor. The dealers also believe that they should receive half of the additional cent per quart charged the consumer because, every price increase narrows the distributor's margin of profit.

The burden of resisting the price rise rests almost wholly on 35 so-called independent distributors who handle approximately 50 per cent of the milk business in the Cincinnati area. The other 50 per cent is in the hands of the Cooperative Pure Milk Association which, while it is a distributing organization, is owned by the farmers and therefore is not in position to combat them vigorously.

JOHNSON CLORE DIES IN INDIANA

WAS FORMER RESIDENT OF BOONE COUNTY — WAS 93 YEARS OF AGE—HAD BEEN IN INDIANA FOR 50 YEARS.

Johnson Clore, 93, one of the oldest residents of the city, and for many years a prominent merchant of Crawfordsville, Ind., died at his home, 212 South Washington street, at 9:30 Tuesday night of last week.

Death, which was due to infirmities of old age, came after an illness of only two weeks. Mr. Clore had lived quietly in his home on south Washington street since his retirement from business about 25 years ago and had enjoyed remarkably good health until only recently. He had lived in the same residence for more than 50 years.

Born March 9, 1843, in Boone county, Kentucky, he was the son of Cave and Lucy Souther Clore. He went to Montgomery county in 1863 and taught school near Waveland for several years.

His marriage to Lucinda Frances Clore took place at Waveland on Feb. 22, 1872. The couple would have celebrated their sixty-fourth wedding anniversary this winter.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Clore moved to Edgar county, Illinois, where they lived on a farm for the following two years. After this, they moved to Wallace, Ind., where Mr. Clore operated a general store for seven years.

In 1881, the family moved to Crawfordsville, Ind., where Mr. Clore entered the mercantile business on south Washington street, conducting his business successfully for thirty years before his retirement.

During that time he gained a reputation as one of the city's most successful business men. He took an active part in all civic affairs.

The only survivors are the wife, Mrs. Lucinda Clore, and an only son, Lex Clore, former city engineer.

The funeral was held at the Utterback & Murphy funeral home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial was in the Maple cemetery at Waveland.

ETHEL SMITH FOUND GUILTY

BY JURY AND RECEIVES FIVE YEARS IN STATE REFORMATORY—ADDISON AND MOORE ARE PAROLED.

Ethel Smith, sister of Henry Smith, was found guilty of the crime of assisting in the rape of a twelve year old Covington girl, Ella Mae Stevens. The case was in the hands of the jury only a short time and they returned with a verdict of guilty and she was sentenced to five years in the State Reformatory. Her brother, Henry, was convicted in the last term of court and sentenced to twenty years in the reformatory.

Lena Smith, wife of Henry Smith will appear in court next week to face a similar charge. This will complete the Smith cases in Boone County Court, unless the case set for next week is delayed.

Bill Moore and Eugene Addison, charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to E. G. Stephenson, Florence, were convicted on a charge of grand larceny and received a one year sentence in the state prison. Investigation of this case was made by Mr. Bishop, Prohibition and Parole officer on the grounds that both boys were young their ages being 17 and 18 years respectively and parole was recommended for both youth. Proper procedure has already been taken for Addison and he will receive his parole immediately. Moore will be paroled, but has to await the arrival of his father.

These recommendations were presented to the court immediately following the verdict, and were accepted, thus suspending the sentence.

Several other minor cases will come to trial during this term of court, but up to this time only one major case is yet to be tried.

Farmers are advised that the sooner they can sign their final forms the sooner their checks will be received. Checks are expected in about three weeks after the forms leave the county office.

KY. BARS EARN CORN

FROM OHIO AND INDIANA—IS LAW—SHELL CORN IS PERMITTED TO BE SHIPPED INTO THE STATE.

A warning against the bringing of ear corn from Ohio and Indiana into Kentucky was issued recently by Magistrate Douglas F. Lueke, Covington. The corn is banned under the Kentucky cornborer quarantine law, Lueke said. Shelled corn is permitted to be shipped into the state.

Lueke said that his constables, patrolling the highways, would arrest anyone found transporting the corn. Conviction carries a fine of $25 to $100 and loss of the corn, he declared.

Joe Allen, Weaver, Ky. and Jasper Allen, East Bernstedt, Ky., who were arrested late Wednesday when driving trucks loaded with corn, were fined the courts costs by Lueke.

After being fined the drivers were ordered to return to Ohio with the corn.

MEMBER KENTUCKY PRESS ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED JANUARY, 1880

Editorial of the Week

ARE WE UNAPPRECIATIVE?

We are a people, more or less, inclined to be unappreciative, no matter how hard one strives to please us, and are always expecting just a little more than what we really should get.

In last week's issue of The Recorder we carried a letter written by Nat B. Sewell, Director of State Post Audits. In this article our county officials were praised highly for the perfect records kept by them throughout the fiscal year.

We have heard some of our county officials abused, called crooks, and practically everyhing except their real names. But whatever they have been called, they have surely performed their duties as public officials, according to the letter written by Mr. Sewell.

It is not often that county officials will not stick their thumb into the "public pie" if given a chance, as has been proven in other counties. However, we are very glad to say that the report of an auditor shows that there has been on such work in our county.

Our county has operated strictly upon a cash basis during the past year, conforming with the State Budget Act. After all claims were paid a cash balance at the close of the year showed $15,000.00 $20,000.00 and $35,000.00 respectively in the General Expenditure, the Road and Bridge and the Road and Bridge Bond Sinking Fund.

The county's record books are always open to the public for inspection—they will show where every cent of your tax money has been expended, the cash balance, etc. If you have any doubt as to your county officials, why not investigate the records?

Twenty centuries, and today, as a world pauses, humble and shot with a glowing spirit of happiness, your newspaper comes to you asking that it may continue in its chosen course... tireless and unfailing service to you and your community.

It is our wish that this newspaper, dedicated to the provision of news, leadership, education, and the sponsorship of moral and civic idealism, be permitted to carry into your homes, not for this one time only, but for an entire lifetime, this same spirit of unselfish service to all.

We consider Christmas an institution successfully serving an inner need, an institution based on old, well founded precepts, as well adapted to the needs of today as it was twenty centuries ago, an institution capable of fulfilling an age-old requirement ... that of joy to mankind.

It is our hope that from this day you will gain the full measure of joy. Merry Christmas! THE PUBLISHERS

SEES ALL---KNOWS ALL

'Twas a defective crystal I looked into for last week's results. But do you know something? If it were not for some of life's little disappointments, all that is good and wholesome would not appear so fine. It takes a little adversity to put us back on the right side of living.

But what is further from my purpose than moralizing? It is so easy to appear to know all the things that will help the rest of the world, and forget the very things that would do us personally the most good. Forgive me for saying it, but I guess there could be found a few little faults in all of us.

The reporter who has been writing up each week's games for the local newspapers told me that he wanted me to get a little message to the principals and coaches about publicity. Being always able to see the other fellow's troubles better than my own, I consented to help him out.

Of course it's a long time from Friday until our weekly papers come out on Wednesday, but it takes a little time to get copy assembled and then more time to set it, ready for print. What this fellow Kirkwood wants is to have the interesting facts about each game sent to him immediately after the game. That is the only way he can get proper information to the papers regarding the games. I have talked with the editors of both papers and they say they are glad to print good live sport news, but that it must be in their printing houses in time to set up a reasonable time before their papers go to press.

That's all I have to say about that, but here's something, as one Andrew H. Brown would put it. People say there's a new rope being tied on one of the wedding bells in Boone County so it can be rung loud and long for one of the fellows closely associated with athletics in a certain school. Of course I am merely hinting this, and it's not final, but you know that next to spring, Xmas has a lot of influence on a "young man's fancy."

Having been unable to find another means of getting at the results for this week, I shall resort to the same old tactics—use what the instruments of prophesy reveal to me. It is tought to appear against some teams, but really it's not that, it's that when two teams play one will win and one will lose. That's a law of nature. So I will put my vote down for the Bearcats, Farmers, and Knights, with the hope that it's too near Christmas for any one to be too hard on me if it happens another way.

I heard something about boys and their training program last week—but let's talk about that next week. By then I shall know whether it's true or not, and until then, I'll be seeing you, if I hit, and if I miss—well, try and find me.

Yours,
THE SNOOPER.

The community was sorry to hear of the death of uncle Casper Marksberry, who passed away last week at the home of his son, Willis Marksberry, near Union. He leaves two daughter, Miss Mary Marksberry and Mrs. Lula Allphin and two brothers, George and Felix of Florence. We extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

The Homemakers' Club of Petersburg met for their regular meeting Dec. 10th, 1936 at the home of Mrs. E. E. Helms.

The business meeting opened at 10:30 with 17 members and 11 visitors, Mrs. J. K. Huey in charge. Several matters of importance were discussed and 5 new members enrolled.

Miss Gillaspie was with us and gave a talk on "Farm and Home Week," and also about the Officer's Training School held at Burlington, Monday, Dec. 7.

Next monthly meeting will be Jan. 14th, 1937 with Mrs. John Klopp.

At the noon hour all gathered in the dining room around a table laden with a delicious lunch, and made beautiful by a gleaming Christmas tree surrounded by everygreen branches and glowing candles with grand old Santa Claus standing guard over all.

The lesson, "Helping Hands" was given by Mrs. L. S. Chambers in a very efficient manner and Miss Johnna May Terrill made a sample of the hand lotion from the formula given in this lesson.

The social hour was enjoyed by all, a play "Christmas at the Poor Farm," given by some of the members, after which a grand Christmas party was held and all received a gift from the tree.

Those attending this meeting were, Mesdames J. H. Huey, L. S. Chambers, L. Hitzfield, John Klopp E. A. Stott, Embry Klopp, Ray-Witham, Perry Mahan, Charles Klopp, Mahlon Durman, George M. Cook, Nellie J. Helms, Herma Mathews, Howard Ryle, J. N. Berkshire, Ruthford Klopp, Brennie Acra, Noble Lucas, E. E. P.-T. A. HOLD MEETING

On November 30, the Hamilton P.-T. A. held its monthly meeting at the Hamilton school building. There was a very interesting business meeting. The women presented a short program of music, a monologue, and a short play. The majority of the members were present and there were quite a few visitors to enjoy the evening. Our next meeting will be held on December 23 at 1:00 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

CHINESE BUY LOTS MORE U. S. LEAF TOBACCO

The position of American leaf tobacco in the Chinese market has appreciably improved during the current year as compared with 1935, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department. During the 1936 period the United States supplied 14,269,000 pounds or 91.8 per cent of the total imports against 76.5 per cent in 1935. It is estimated in some quarters, the report states, that during the next 12 months Chinese imports of raw tobacco will reach approximately 45,000,000 pounds. Of this volume, the share of the United States might be expected to total approximately 40,000,000 pounds. This estimate is based upon an estimated 5 per cent increase in China's cigarette consumption during the next 12 months.

FOUR COUNTIES STAY WET; FOUR GO DRY

Local option election held Saturday in eight Kentucky counties resulted in the wet and dry forces gaining control of an equal number, figures showed Monday.

The four counties voting wet were Henry, Trimble, Lawrence and Rowan.

Dry majorities were recorded in Knox, Marshall, Metcalfe and Barren counties. This completes a total of 20 dry counties out of the 120 in the state.

SAVE and SACK the BEANS

WHILE chopping and storing the hay, the new Letz mill with grain separator sacks the beans. Saving high priced beans soon pays for a Letz—the surest money maker for any livestock farm.

Says Letz user, Lee Chatham, Danville, Indiana, "We chopped and blew into the mow 72 acres of soybean hay. We sacked 1,000 bushels of Manchu beans, keeping some for seed, recleaning and selling the rest for $1.25 per bushel. These beans brought us in over $1000.00."

Come in and investigate this wonderful machine. For most farmers feeding beef or dairy cattle, lambs or hogs, the Letz mill saves its cost and more the first season used. Let us demonstrate one for you.

MARIAN turned slowly from where she had been surveying herself for a critical moment, and looked across the room at her twin sister.

"I'm so tired of all this Christmas fuss," she said languidly; "it is all so old-fashioned, so outdated."

"Are you expressing my feelings?" Nadine's voice was even more languid; "but how in the world are we going to make our dear family feel as we do about the matter? You know they are already in the throes of Christmas preparations." She threw out her slender hands in a gesture of infinite boredom as she finished.

"We can let them know that we won't be a part of the silly business—we can serve notice on them that we are going to work against all the noise and fuss that is made about Christmas."

Forgetting their pose of boredom and sophistication for a moment, the seventeen - year - old twins jumped excitedly around the room. "Just think of how they will be shocked!" Marian cried; "I can see mother and dad. It is all going to be so exciting—fighting the world, so to speak."

But they were taken back quite a little when they announced their big news . . . mother's voice was very serious. "If you really feel that way, I guess the rest of us will have to celebrate without you. We're going to miss you a lot, of course, but we must consider your feelings." The twins failed to see the twinkle in her eyes as she looked across the table at dad.

As if to make matters worse, Bill and Dick laughed in derision at their plan. "I bet they'll be on their knees to get in on our fun before Christmas," Bill predicted. And as if that were not enough, he suggested that now there would be nothing to buy for the twins, maybe he could have the moving picture outfit he had wanted so long. "I hope you don't change your mind, sweet sisters," he cautioned, as he proceeded to put a huge piece of pie in his mouth. "I do want that picture machine pretty bad."

"I'm Going to Do Like Everybody Else," She Said.

The twins threw scornful glances in his direction; they couldn't trust themselves to speak. There were things they had forgotten when they made their big resolve to do away with Christmas preparations. As soon as dinner was over, they hurried from the table.

The days that followed were not very happy. The twins could find no one interested in their plan to change the way of keeping Christmas. Even the most modern of their friends laughed them to scorn. No one was really interested in advancement, they decided. Here they were willing and eager to get a new crusade started, one that would save time and temper and money, and no one, not even their best friends, would lend a hand. They grew fretful, impatient, even peeved at each other.

One evening Nadine came home and found Marian in their mother's bedroom, peering into some boxes that had just been delivered. Nadine smiled to herself, and hurried from the doorway so Marian would not see her.

But next day in the toy department of Smith's store, things came to a showdown. The twins ran into each other, found themselves side by side clutching for foolish things that lay on the counter. Brown eyes challenged blue as they stood in the crowded aisle. Guilt showed plainly on both faces.

Then Nadine was speaking, quickly, incoherently: "You might as well know, Marian, I'm chucking your silly plan. I'm going to do like everybody else. I'm going to make a big fuss about Christmas. I want to push through the crowds—to buy foolish things—to hang up holly wreaths—to—to do just everything! . . . And if I'm not mistaken, you're just dying to do the same?"

"You're absolutely right," Marian answered, utterly careless of the amused glances thrown in their direction. "We've been a pair of fools, but we're going to have one grand and glorious time in the two days that are left . . : We're going to make the biggest fuss about Christmas that has ever been made before."

A beet census in Letcher county showed that 98 farmers own 994 stands. Ned Ison has 100 stands. Beekeeping has been a profitable enterprise in the county for many years, although little money was made this year.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT RESETTLEMENT

Editor's Note—This is question seven of a series of questions and answers about the Resettlement Administration which are being published each week in The Recorder.

Will the purchase of good land and the setting up of communities and homes on this land establish federal islands which are exempt from local taxation?

Answer:

Rural Resettlement projects are necessarily withdrawn from local taxation while the land involved in the project areas is being assembled and during the construction of the project. Expenditures for construction and labor which are made during this period more than compensate the community for any temporary decrease in tax receipts. The project property again becomes taxable when the families have moved into their new homesteads, and when conveyance of the project has been made by the federal government to an incorporated association of the homesteaders. The improvements brought about by the construction of Resettlement projects allow the project properties to be assessed at a higher value than that obtaining prior to the improvements. Taxes are paid in a lump sum by the corporations, the corporations in turn collecting the taxes in monthly installments from the homesteaders. The increase in the tax base will tend to balance any increase in the cost of local services.

The available evidence would indicate that the effect of resettlement communities on real estate values is very favorable. On a project in California all land surrounding the project has been acquired by real estate developers and offered for sale in one acre plots at twice the cost paid by the government for the land devoted to the project.

Land adjoining a project in Washington now commands two and one-half times the price at which the government secured its holdings.

Next week's question: "Is the R. A. moving families in large groups from one part of the country to another?"

MAKE HASTE SLOWLY

Few problems have resulted in the introduction of more bills into our state legislatures than the problem of occupational disease. And, unfortunately, few problems are more widely misunderstood.

An occupational disease, as the term implies, is an ailment contracted by a worker due to the conditions, avoidable or unavoidable, under which he works. In some kinds of factories, for instance, the air is filled with dust—and in the course of time, many workers develop lung trouble as a consequence.

Occupational disease legislation is usually designed to bring this type of injury to health within the scope of workmen's compensation insurance protection. But in many instances, bills are proposed for so-called "wide-open" occupational disease coverage—coverage that would give the workman benefits for almost anything he might contract, whether or not it was the result of his work.

Certainly no one begrudges indemnity to a workman whose health is impaired because of a genuine occupational disease—but it will not serve the interests of the worker if laws are so broadened to make the term all inclusive. Should that happen, insurance companies would find it impossible to continue writing workmen's compensation, state funds for that purpose could very easily become bankrupt, and a grave situation would follow.

This is a question which cannot be easily disposed of—and it is also a question which is always up for debate, whetner or not legislatures are in session. Authorities are working on a "model occupational disease bill' 'and will doubtless prepare one in time. And in the meantime, workmen, employers and all concerned should thoroughly realize that the utmost care be taken in proposing and passing laws affecting the matter—otherwise the whole cause of workmen's compensation will be imperiled.

BURLINGTON SCHOOL NOTES

The Burlington school will give a Christmas Pageant Monday evening, Dec. 21 at the school. A large percentage of our students will take part in this pageant. The public should keep this date open in order to be present at the school.

As this week's Recorder comes out ,it finds everyone busy fixing for Christmas. The windows in On the other hand a lot of boys all the rooms are being decorated and the teachers are busily preparing the program outline. As everyone might expect the general subject being given much attention, is Xmas. Everyone is asking the other what he wants for Xmas and in turn is telling what he would like to have.

Last Friday night the boys of this school played A. J. Jolly. The final score was 22 to 33, being in favor of A. J. Jolly.

This school welcomes two new students, Hester and Ralph Fields who have recently moved into this locality from the Crescent Springs school.

On Thursday of last week we were sorry that Mrs. Fowler could not be with us. She was confined to her home on account of illness. We were greatful to have Mrs. Tinkelberg with us, who substituted for Mrs. Fowler. Everyone seemed to like Mrs. Tinklenberg very much. Although she had to substitute during tests she came right and got along fine.

There was a new bulletin board purchased for this school which was placed in the library. The Hi-Y Boys presented it. I don't know whether they intended it for a Christmas gift or not, but just the same we appreciate it.

One day last week there was a Public Speaking club organized. This club is sponsored by Mrs. Fowler, with the aid of Mr. Kirkwood. The subjects included for study in this club are: Public Discussion, Debating, Oration and Extemperaneous Speaking. The first meeting was attended by 16 of our pupils who were interested. The Club hopes that muore will attend the next meeting. The officers are: President, Harry Cook; vice president, Kathryn Denniston; secretary, Olive Louise Poston; treas. Florence Cook.

There are quite a few out on account of sickness. We hope everyone will get well in a hurry and can be back with us.

The Hi-Y boys are sponsoring a "Clean Speech Campaign" which is a very wise idea. The top 5 inches of the blackboards are being used for their quotations which they hope everyone will read and profit by them. Their quotations consist of sayings from different famous men and also Bible references. For example: "Fire and sword are but slow engines of destruction in comparison with the babbler." By Steel. One of the Bible references are Proverbs 10:20.

The 4-H Club had a meeting Monday morning. They had as their guests, Mr. Forkner and Mrs. Vernon Pope.

The school is glad to hear that Arnold Craddock is rapidly improving from a recent injury.

With 291 acres of korean lespedeza growing on his Powell county farm, James Hall expects to thresh 15,000 pounds of seed from 100 acres, despite the drouth. Winter cover crops seeded in the county include crimson clover, wheat rye, barley and oats.

A classified advertisement in the Recorder is usually worth more than it costs.

Half of the cultivated land in Wbster county is growing a cover crop, said to be the largest acreage in the history of the county. J. D. Pinkston and J. W. Nall sold 3,500 bushels of wheat for fall seeding.

The Ballard county lespedeza seed crop is estimated at 200,000 pounds, or considerably more than anticipated early in the season. J. P. Page threshed 11,000 pounds of seed from 25 acres, and G. L. Small threshed 1,200 pounds from two acres.

Three Boyd County 4-H Club boys who have excelled in poultry raising are helping farmers cull their flocks. They are Edsel Towler, Merle Jackson and Billie Molsberger. They represented their county in judging poultry at the Kentucky State Fair.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NOTES

The first annual 4-H club rally in Bell county attracted 33 boys and girls from 15 communities, 23 club leaders and 153 parents. More than 1,000 entries from 13 communities were made in the farm and home exhibits.

An organization to promote 4-H calf club work has been formed among farmers in Clinton county. A committee attended the fat cattle show in Louisville, and will have charge of the calf club promotion work in the county.

James Gore won grand championship honors at a Tylor county 4-H club show of poultry, tobacco, clothing, corn and livestock. Two hundred and sixteen boys and girls took part. Wamsley Mann was first in showing seed corn, and Helen Dudgeon first in the poultry department.

About half of the club members in Warren county are enrolled in the tobacco production project. Curing tobacco was discussed at the October meetings of 12 clubs, with an attendance of nearly 200 club members. Most of the members have improved their curing methods.

With more than 400 girls already enrolled, an attempt is being made to have all Jackson county girls of 4-H club age take part in the clothing project next year. Meetings held at four schools in the county attracted an attendance of 1,550 persons.

Club members showed 30 pigs, five kinds of poultry, corn, tobacco and garden products at the Clark County Fair. Approximately 50 boys and girls made exhibits. Sixty-five percent of the club members in the county have completed their 1936 projects.

Miss Dairy Weems, a former 4-H club girl in Fulton county, is now dietitian at the Mt. Sinai hospital in New York. She was state champion in the clothing project, and from club work received her inspiration to attend the College of Agriculture, where she was graduated in home economics in 1931.

Boys who won calves in the "calf scarmble" at the Kentucky State Fair: Burton Kimbrough, Harrison county; Ernest Harris, of Madison county; Floyd Thompson, Boyle county; Glenn Wilson, Owsley county; Lton Ballard, Clark county, and Kyle Leonard, Boyle county.

BIG EMPLOYE GAIN IN BEVERAGE BUSINESS

Statistics on the production of alcoholic beverages in 1935, the first full year of operation covered by the census since the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, have been received by the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. The 1935 report contains comparisons with 1914 and 1933, the former being the last normal pre-prohibition year for which Census figures are available. One of the interesting facts shown is the increase in employment of those engaged in the production of distilled liquors. The number of wage earners employed by distillers in 1935, 8, 633, was more than double the corresponding number reported for 1914, the rate of increase being 107 per cent. As compared with 1933, the increase was 404 per cent. Wages paid in 1935 amounted to $8,776,526 an increase of 258.1 per cent over 1914.

Christmas Lesson

LESSON TEXT—I John 4:7-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men. Luke 2:14.

PRIMARY TOPIC — Why Christmas Comes.

JUNIOR TOPIC — Immanuel—God With Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Jesus Came to Earth.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Greatest Gift of All.

"I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old familiar carols play
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men."

Thus sang America's well-beloved Longfellow. But at once his honest heart began to question—"Is there peace on earth? Are not men and nations striving against each other in hatred and violence?" Were he alive today he might ask his questions with even greater fear and sadness.

How blessed then that as followers of the Christ we are again permitted to stand at the lowly manger in Bethlehem town and rejoice anew that "the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth" (John 1:14). Let us all who bear his precious name covenant together to "keep Christ in Christmas," and in the giving of gifts remember God's great gift. Let no home fail to have read on Christmas day the Bible story of the Incarnation (Luke 2:1-20).

The lesson for this Christmas Sunday has been well chosen from the First Epistle of John. The "Apostle of Love" is our teacher as we consider God's supreme gift of love. We note first of all

I. Its Origin (I John 4:7, 8).

"God is love." In other words, love is not merely one of his characteristics, but of the very essence of his being. He not only loves, but he is love. Therefore only those who know him can truly love, and those who have not love do not know him.

II. Its Manifestation (vv. 9, 10).

"We may give without loving, but we cannot love without giving." God's love "sent his only begotten Son into the world that we might live through him." Let us be sure to emphasize that Christmas celebrates the coming of the Saviour into the world.

III. Its Results (vv. 11-19).

1. Love between men (v. 11).

This verse presents an absolutely irrefutable argument. If God could love us, surely we should love one another.

2. Fellowship with God (vv. 12-16).

No man has ever seen God, but God is manifested in the lives of men who, because they have taken his Son as their Saviour (v. 14), and have confessed him as such before the world (v. 15), have come into perfect fellowship with God. Only through such lives will the world know God's love.

3. Boldness in the Lord (vv. 17, 18).

It is tragically true that even on Christmas day when we speak of peace and good will, it is a fact that men and women outside of Christ are his enemies and must look in fear toward a day of judgment. But how different for those who know Christ as Saviour. Perfect love, God's love, has cast out all fear and they may face with boldness even the day of judgment.

If any reader of these lines lacks this holy boldness, why not make this Christmas season a time of spiritual "nativity"—take the Christ of Bethlehem and Calvary as your Saviour just now!

4. Appreciation of his love (v. 19).

Love begets love. God's love for us moves us deeply and we love him. He loved us "while we were yet sinners" (Rom. 5:8). Much more then, being saved, we should love him, and love the brethren. (See I John 4:20, 21.)

So "let us keep the feast, not with . . . the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth" (I Cor. 5:8). Then we may indeed wish one another

A Joyous Christmas!

Real Poverty

Poverty is, except where there is an actual want of food and raiment, a thing much more imaginary than real. The shame of poverty—the shame of being thought poor—it is a great and fatal weakness, though arising in this country from the fashions of the times themselves.

Faith in Our Fellow Man

AS ROSS HUTTON finished telling his little daughter the story of Christmas, of the shepherds and the Christ child, and had as tactfully as possible explained about Santa Claus, Polly heaved a sigh. "Well, I think there's a Santy Claus and I hope he brings me a sheep like the ones in the story."

The day before Christmas, Ross saw a white woolly lamb in the window of a toy shop. He was glad he had walked to his office. Otherwise he might not have seen the lamb. He would stop on his way home and get it. But one of the men in the office offered to drive him home, so the lamb was forgotten until he heard Polly as she was being put to bed tell her mother she hoped "Santy" wouldn't forget about the "sheep." Ross looked at his watch and decided the shop would probably still be open. Anne called to him to ask where he was going, and he answered, "Back in a few minutes."

When he parked his car before the shop, the thought that the lamb might not be there, struck him for the first time. He felt much relieved, therefore, when he saw the lamb in the window.

As he tucked the package under his arm and turned to leave the shop, a little boy came in. Ross heard him ask the proprietor if he still had the lamb that was in the window that morning. He was told the gentleman just leaving had bought it. "Oh," the disappointment he felt showed in his voice. Wasn't there something else he would like? But there didn't seem to be anything else.

As he got into his car Ross caught sight of a small boy standing before the window, his gaze fastened on the place where the lamb had been. He seemed so disappointed, it was too bad there wasn't another lamb for him, Ross thought as he drove away. But probably something else would catch his fancy and he would forget all about the lamb. Children were like that. Ross wondered though if Polly would have forgotten so easily. He scarcely thought so. The poor little thing would have been mightily disappointed. He was glad he had remembered before it was too late.

But try as he would he couldn't get the picture of the little fellow out of his mind. Halfway home he turned his car around and went back to the shop. The boy had left, so Ross asked the proprietor if he could tell him where the boy lived. He lived just around the corner. He often came into the shop. Tonight he had come to buy the little lamb for his small sister, and was so disappointed when he found it gone. The proprietor had tried to interest him in something else, but he hadn't been successful in doing it. Ross interrupted to know in just which house the boy lived. Then in order to have some satisfactory excuse to offer at home, he bought a baby doll for Polly.

When somewhat later he came into the living room where Anne was busy trimming the Christmas tree, she wanted to know where on earth he had been. He shook his head and put his finger to his lips as a warning not to waken Polly. He placed the package under the tree and with a happy smile he began helping with the work of trimming.

The next morning he was awakened by Polly's happy cry that she knew there was a "Santy Claus" because he had brought her a "sheep" and a baby doll just as she asked him to. Ross sprang out of bed and into the living room. Where could the "sheep" have come from? For there was Polly with a lamb under one arm and the doll under the other.

"Where?" Ross asked, pointing to the lamb. Anne whispered that she had bought it.

"There is a Santy Claus, isn't there, Daddy?" Polly's voice implied she was giving information rather than asking it.

Ross heartily agreed with her: "There certainly is a Santa Claus beyond a doubt."

THE SIMPSON AFFAIR

The simple name of Simpson has become a household word in America, but it is said millions of English people have not so much as heard it yet—or at least not in public print. It's another case of having to go away from home to hear the news.

If it's true, as exclusively reported over here, that his majesty invited a premire and primate—two of the highest cards in the whole deck—to mind their own business he set the tune for the daily press of his realm to dance by.

However, the British newspapers never did develop the high arts of keyhole peeping and transom lifting to the extent practiced by a certain peculiar school of American journalism. With them, an Englishman's house still is his castle, though it be a glass house. Or even a royal palace.

But some of the London gossip-writers must be so swollen up with strangulated copy they've probably had to have their clothes let out. Now, if haply 'twas purely a Yankee affair—instead of being, as it were, fifty-fifty—how those boys would love to cut loose.

Robert Dehart, of Lincoln, Neb., sued a widow who had jilted him, and asked that the 2,000 he had spent courting her be returned.

Henry Sunshine and Violet Storm were charged with intoxication before a Chicago court on the same day.

We resolve—

To continue to merit your friendship and cooperation.

New Year Cavalier

by Helen Gaisford Waterman

FENTON DUMONT was bored with the party. All right welcoming in the New Year so smugly for people like these—but he was an adventurer, a cavalier, and the formal drawing room, the lovely ladies so ready to smile upon him, the classical music, the slow, pompous talk of the men suffocated him. He stepped to the balcony.

It had stopped snowing. In another hour the year would be dead. A grand year. But another would be beginning. He slipped over the balustrade, wound his leg around a pillar, and slid down to meet it. To the east, far away, the year was already new, and so he set off in that direction.

He was almost half way across the bridge before he noticed the girl, but then he strode quickly to her side. "Please don't," he said gently. She started. "I should only have to jump in after you, and can't you imagine how cold I'd be?" he ended, and shivered with clown-like intensity. "I might even catch my death," he continued lightly, but the girl looked back to the river, and he realized his error. "You may want to die," he said earnestly, "but I don't. Please!"

"Then leave me be," she answered. Her voice was soft, musical, but passionately desperate.

He gathered her in his arms and kissed her. She struggled fiercely. He kissed her again, and again, pinning her arms to her sides with his strong clasp. And suddenly she went limp in his arms, and cried against his shoulder. He took off his overcoat and wrapped it around her, for she was shivering. "Why did you come off without your coat and hat?" he chided, and stroked her soft hair.

Behind him, bells and whistles proclaimed another year. "Happy New Year, lassie," he said gayly. She dried her eyes. "I'm being a fool," she apologized.

"Not at all," he answered, gallantly. "Methinks I behold a restaurant across the bridge. How about some coffee?"

She let him lead her, and he found a corner table. When their order had been placed, he turned to her.

"Why should you love a man like that?"

She looked up quickly, studying him. "How did you know?"

"Why else should a lovely girl like you be spending New Year's eve that way? You should be dancing—"

She smiled. "I don't know. It seemed terribly important half an hour ago. But I'm all right now. It doesn't matter any more."

"Off with the old," he quoted, "on with the new. This is the season for lovers as well as years. The old is off?"

"Yes."

He took her hand. "The new—would like very much—to be on." His gaze caught and held hers. "May I take you home now?"

She nodded her thanks. Outside, it was snowing again, but they scarcely noticed. At her door, he kissed her, and this time she did not resist. "On with the new," she murmured gently.

"That's O.K. this time," he answered, "but I won't let it happen next New Year's."

AN ESSENTIAL OF SUCCESSFUL COOPERATION

In speaking of farmers' cooperative marketing association, S. D. Saunders, Cooperative Bank Commissioner, recently said: "One of the necessary moves in strengthening good management and in improving the capital structure of associations lies in closer relation to producer members and a more complete understanding on their part of what their business institution is doing and how it is doing it.

"Some cooperatives are making a notable record in the methods that they employ to keep their membership fully, promptly and effectively informed. No organization can afford to neglect this important element of success. There is no place in the cooperative movement for any other attitude than that the best interests of the producers are served when there is opportunity for complete and satisfying knowledge of what is going on in their business enterprise."

It is demonstrably true that the most successful cooperative have been those in which the relationship between members and managers has been closest and most understanding. Once a member feels that the cooperative to which he belongs is a more or less alien thing with which he has only a remote and impersonal relationship, his loyalty and enthusiasm inevitably flag. Both members and managers must keep this fact constantly in mind if the cooperative is to serve its purpose.

The space taken on these pages are devoted to Christmas and New Year greetings and everyone should read them closely as they're printed for you. These business men and others wish to express their greetings to everyone.

XMAS PAGEANT HUGE SUCCESS

WITH THE LARGEST CROWD EVER TO ATTEND A PROGRAM OF THIS NATURE—150 STUDENTS PARTICIPATE.

The "Christmas Pageant" presented by the Burlington High School Monday night was attended by one of the largest audiences ever to gather for such an occasion. Approximately four hundred parents, students and friends filled the auditorium to enjoy a Christmas program under the direction of the faculty of the school.

The program was indeed a success, not only from a standpoint of entertainment, but educational as well. Even though we may have heard the story of the Christ child many times, we were able to grasp many new thoughts as each student wore a beautiful costume that was appropriate for his or her individual part. The entire program was colorful and entertaining even down to the lowest grades or beginners.

Behind such a program as this, we all know that there was a lot of hard work and training necessary. Every teacher in the entire school had a part in the preparation of this program, and each deserve due credit for their untiring efforts.

MANY ACCIDENTS TUESDAY OF LAST WEEK NEAR HEBRON

Last Tuesday, Dec. 15 was almost blackcat Friday so far as the narrow hill on lower river road was concerned. E. Aylo, Hebron man was calling for Mrs. Charles Riley, whose auto had slipped, turning over. Another car coming over the hill saw the wreck and when applying his brakes, skidded over an embankment, landing against a tree, which possibly kept him from having a cold bath in the Ohio River. Another car traveling in the opposite direction on the other side of the hill skidded and went down an embankment.

No one was seriously injured, but several suffered slight cuts and bruises from the accidents.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO WASHINGTON

FOR INAUGURAL CEREMONIES TO LEAVE COVINGTON AT 9:45 P. M. JANUARY 18—DISKIN IN CHARGE OF ARRANGEMENTS.

James A. Diskin, of Newport, chairman of the Inaugural Committee in charge of arrangements for the Kentucky official train, announces that, for the convenience of Kentuckians who will attend the second inaugural ceremonies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on January 20th, arrangements have again been made with the Chespeake & Ohio Railway to operate special train service to Washington.

These trains will leave Covington at 9:45 p. m., and Louisville at 5:55 p. m., on Monday, January 18th, consolidating at Ashland. The party will arrive in Washington at noon on Tuesday, January 19th, and the train will be parked in the railroad yards so that passengers may sleep in their cars during the stay in the Capital City. Returning, the train will leave Washington on January 21st.

The per capita cost in Pullmans, including the privilege of occupying the cars during the stay in Washington, will be $40.50 for a lower berth. A much less coach fare will be available. To afford those using coaches an opportunity to get some rest enroute and at Washington, the seats will be lowered each night.

Mr. Diskin, who is a member of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, asks that applications for reservations be sent to him at Newport as soon as possible.

J. P. Dolwick, of Constance was a caller at this office Monday.

MR. AND MRS LLOYD E. AYLOR ENTERTAIN

FRED OBLE DIES AT COUNTY INFIRMARY

Fred Oble, aged 50 years died at the county infirmary Thursday night of last week from a heart attack.

He had been at the county infirmary only three days when he suffered a heart attack, living only a short while.

He was a former resident of Constance. Mr. Oble is survived by one brother, Tom Souther, of Cincinnati.

He was buried in the county cemetery.

FARM LANDS BEGINNING TO TO MOVE IN BOONE COUNTY

During the past week Wilford Rouse sold his 51 acre farm west of Burlington to Mr. W. V. Moore, and Mr. Moore sold a tract of 12 acres on U. S. 42 to his sister, Mrs. Linna Moore.

W. L. Cropper sold his 212 acre farm near Bullittsburg Church to Mr. J. C. Hauer of Kenton County last Friday. This is a good productive farm and has been well cared for.

With tobacco and all other farm products now selling for a good price and Boone County bein gso close to the Covington and Cincinnati markets, we would not be surprised to see considerable real estate change hands i this County within the next year. People usually buy the things on which money can be made and we do not know of anything on which one can make more money than farm land at the present time.

HAROLD OGDEN ATTENDS FOUR-H CLUB CONGRESS

Harold Ogden, who was the winner of the tobacco show held last year attended the International Four-H Congress at Chicago November 28th. Mr. Ogden met the twenty-nine other delegates from Kentucky at Louisville, and from there to Chicago by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

He stated that the cattle show was undoubtedly the largest attraction there. He returned to his home December 3rd.

Fifteen hundred club members were in attendance at the Congress with all states excepting four represented.

Mr. Ogden stated that tobacco was not nearly as good this year as last.

PETERSBURG TO MEET PRESSLER

AT HEBRON GYM SATURDAY NIGHT, DECEMBER 26—BOTH TEAMS RANK HIGH IN MID-WEST LEAGUE.

Both these teams have exceptionally good records and are recognized as the two strongest teams in Northern Kentucky at the present time. The Petersburg boys, as usual, have a fast and hard fighting team and are strengthened this season by several more experienced players that have made a name for themselves in the sport.

Five of the Petersburg boys played with the Segram team of Lawrenceburg last season. They are: Bill Bihr, Ralph Bradburn, Bill Bradburn, Roy James and "Woody" Woods. Boyd Mahan made a name for himself first in Boone County Athletics and later received honorable mention on the Transylvania team while in college. Roy James is also a college star, being a graduate of Wittenberg College and playing on such teams as Dayton, Holmes and other outstanding school teams, while attending high school. "Bud" Bateman, of DePauw College will also be among the members of the Petersburg crew. Albert Sebree, Jake Snyder and Henry Deck, local boys, are also scheduled to complete one of the best teams ever to wear Boone County colors.

These teams have won championships in several Cincinnati tourneys, and when they meet at Hebron next Saturday night, Dec. 26th, at 8 p. m. (slow time) you can expect one of the fastest games of the season.

This game has been announced through several daily papers that it will be played on the Florence floor, but this is incorrect, the game will be called promptly at 8:00 p. m. on the Hebron floor.

MRS. MARY JOHNSON

Mrs. Mary Johnson, aged 81 years, passed away Wednesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence J. West, following a week's illness from a broken hip. The remains were removed to the Taliaferro Funeral Home for preparation.

In addition to Mrs. West, she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Huffan, of Verona, Ky., and one son, Edwin Johnson, of Latonia, one sister, Mrs. G. H. Young, Erlanger. She was a member of the Latonia Christian Church.

Services were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Dumont Clown, at the Taliaferro Funeral Home, interment following in High Land cemetery.

WHEN JURY FINDS LENA SMITH GUILTY—IS GIVEN THREE YEARS IN STATE REFORMATORY.

Court held a night session Monday night to complete the trial of Lena Smith, wife of Henry Smith, and to wind up the last of the Smith case. The jury lingered approximately one hour before returning a verdict of guilty. Vest and Vest of Walton were the attorneys for the defendant. She was given three years in the State Reformatory.

Court was dismissed Tuesday, but will convene again Wednesday morning with a special judge in charge for the purpose of trying the case, Town of Walton vs. R. A. Thornton. No further court activities have been anounced, but it is probable they will adjourn immediately following the Thornton trial.

Editorial of the Week

STUDY THE FACTS

Next year is a campaign year. The voters will hear many assertions made by candidates. Some of the declaration will be contradictory to each other. How is the voter to know which candidate is telling the truth and which one is telling the truth and which one is trying to fool him either by misstatements or by misleading information?

The only answer for the citizen who is desirous of knowing the truth and voting in the interest of good government is for the citizen himself to find out what the true facts are. In this day of partisan politics, however, he must be careful to select the impartial sources from which to acquire the necessary truth for him to make up his mind properly as to what candidates he should support.

Some candidates are inclined to brag or boast of what they have done or can do. Others are more moderate and modest in their claims. The thinking citizen should not allow the claims and bombasts of a braggart to cause him to overlook the fundamental merit of the man who does not boast and shout.

Criticism of what has been done is easy and promises to do are also easy. Those who criticize should point out what they would have done under the same circumstances. Those who promise should demonstrate the means whereby they will effectively carry out their promises.

Another thing that the average voter must watch is rumors against various candidates. If opponents of a candidate spread rumors clandestinely the voter should wonder why the charges are not made publicly if they are true. Rumors should be checked carefully so that the voter may not be imposed upon by some unscrupulous politician or his friends.

Good government is a matter of concern to every honest citizen, who should desire to cast his vote for every candidate who is best qualified and equipped to render the public honest and efficient service. No other consideration should guide a man or woman in casting the ballot.

ARMING FOR WAR

The nations of the world are arming feverishly, ostensibly for defense, but this means war sometime in the near future. A similar activity preceded the outbreak of the World War in 1914.

We may not know, but it looks to us that the re-armament of the world has been forced by the activities of three countries, namely, Germany, Italy, and Japan. The first two are controlled by dictators, with a thirst for national glory and adventure. The last-named nation is ruled by a military clique and is engaged in gobbling up as much of China as it can and as fast it can.

We do not believe that either Britain, Russia, France or the United States wants a war, yet they would be foolish not to arm and prepare to defend themselves against possible attack. Disarmament is fine and desirable, but a nation would be foolish to practice it alone.

BULLETS OF JUSTICE

By REX COLLIER

"BABY FACE" NELSON

THAT the gangster always has the advantage over the law enforcement officer in the matter of gun-play is illustrated perfectly by the case of George ("Baby Face") Nelson — christened Lester E. Gillis — who murdered three G-men before they ended his kill-crazy career at the "Battle of Barrington."

Some critics of J. Edgar Hoover's special agents have claimed the sharp-shooting F. B. I. men "executed" some members of the Dillinger gang without giving them "a chance."

If there can be any just criticism of the agents in the Nelson case, it is that they gave "Baby Face" too many chances.

This thrice-paroled gangster shot down special Agent W. Carter Baum near the Little Bohemia inn, Mercer, Wis., in the most cold-blooded fashion. Baum, the F. B. I. files show, did not have any opportunity to defend himself.

Nelson ordered John Paul Chase to open fire with an automatic rifle on two F. B. I. agents whose official status he only suspected. That was just before the fatal Barrington battle.

He turned a machine gun on Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent H. E. Hollis as they were getting out of their car to demand his surrender, after having overtaken him near Barrington, Ill.

It was only after the deadly bullets from Nelson's and Chase's guns were pumping into his body that Cowley turned his own machine gun on them—fatally wounding Nelson.

During the 70-mile-an-hour chase which immediately preceded this battle, Inspector Cowley had ample opportunity to fire his machine gun at Nelson's car.

The inside story of gunplay in the Nelson case goes back to the cold night of April 22, 1934, when Agent Baum, Agent J. C. Newman and Constable Carl Christensen left the raided Little Bohemia inn to investigate a "disturbance" reported from a nearby farm.

The officers drove to the farm and pulled alongside an automobile, parked without lights in the driveway. The constable had recognized the car as one belonging to a resident of the community.

As the agents' car stopped, a man, later identified as Nelson, jumped out of the parked automobile and ordered the officers out. Without waiting for them to comply, Nelson began firing at them point-blank with an automatic pistol.

Baum was killed instantly. Newman was knocked unconscious by a bullet that grazed his forehead. Christensen also was rendered unconscious by a serious bullet wound.

Newman recovered his senses in time to fire several futile shots at Nelson, who disappeared in the darkness.

In the course of this investigation, a hotel keeper at Lake Geneva, Wis., told F. B. I. agents he suspected that some previous guests at his hotel were members of the Dillinger gang.

Cowley, with the co-operation of the hotel man, assigned two agents to take a room in the hotel keeper's home and await the return of Nelson and Chase. He stationed other agents in and about the hotel, disguised as employees. The surveillance continued uneventfully for weeks.

Then, on the afternoon of November 27, 1934, in the absence of the hotel man, the agents at the house saw a V-8 sedan stop in front of the house. Two men and a woman were in it. The visitors, whose identities could not be determined by the agents, left quickly after getting no immediate response to their knock.

The agents telephoned the Chicago office of the F. B. I. about the mysterious visitors, giving the license number of their car — Ill. 639-578.

As the car containing this trio passed through Lake Geneva a few moments later, an agent on assignment there recognized Nelson in the driver's seat and also noted the tag numbers. He, too, phoned to Chicago.

Immediately upon receipt of this second call, Cowley got in touch by telephone with two agents who were on a special assignment on the outskirts of Chicago, directing them to proceed at once toward Lake Geneva over the Northwest highway and to keep close watch for a V-8 sedan containing two men and a woman and bearing Illinois tags, number 639-578. Cowley said he and Agent Hollis would follow at once, with machine gun and shotgun, and would endeavor to overtake them on the highway.

The first pair of agents were armed only with pistols. They were in a decrepit coupe they had been using in their under-cover assignment.

About five miles east of Barrington, Ill., these agents saw headed toward them a V-8 sedan containing two men and a woman and bearing Illinois tags, only the last three numbers of which they were able to "catch." The numbers were —578. They turned around in the road sharply in order to follow this car and identify the tags definitely.

As they wheeled, Nelson became suspicious that he was being followed and he, too, turned around in the highway, heading back toward Lake Geneva. Satisfied, apparently, that he was the object of curiosity by the men in the coupe, Nelson suddenly swerved completely around once more, sped up and sought to compel the coupe to pull up at the side of the road.

The agents found themselves looking down the muzzle of an automatic rifle, held by Chase, who was seated in the back of Nelson's car.

Instead of obeying Nelson's simultaneous demand that they halt, the agents sped up and swerved down the highway. As they started away, Chase began firing at them through the windshield of Nelson's car.

Shortly after this encounter Cowley and Hollis, proceeding from Chicago, met Nelson's car on the highway. They turned around and took up the pursuit.

Nelson immediately stepped on the gas and tried to outdistance Cowley's car, which was a high-powered sedan. After a short and furious chase, during which Nelson's car began to overheat badly from loss of water, Nelson jammed on the brakes and veered into a driveway of the North side park in Barrington.

Cowley's car skidded to a stop about 200 feet ahead.

In the meantime, Nelson, Chase and Mrs. Nelson had jumped out of their car, the latter running and throwing herself into a ditch. Nelson and Chase got behind their car and leveled an automatic rifle and a machine gun over the hood.

As Cowley and Hollis emerged from their car — Cowley with a machine gun and Hollis with a shotgun — Nelson and Chase turned loose a deadly barrage of lead.

Hollis leaped behind a pole and returned the fire with his shotgun. He was killed instantly by a shot in the head as he aimed his shotgun.

Cowley, although hit several times by machine gun slugs, and while sinking to the ground from his wounds, managed to empty his machine gun at his assailants. Mortally wounded, he crumpled to the ground.

Nelson and Chase ran over to Cowley's car and started off in it.

Cowley identified himself to persons who soon rushed to the scene. Taken to a hospital, he asked that agents be rushed to him from the Chicago office. His chief concern was to confirm to his men before he died that it was "Baby Face" Nelson with whom he had battled. He died several hours after gasping his story to his grim-faced agents.

A telephone call to an undertaker, made by a mysterious woman, who hung up quickly, led Cowley's men to a ditch near a cemetery in Niles Center, near Chicago, where the remains of "Baby Face" Nelson were found—nude and torn by 17 bullets.

Another gangster had been crossed off the list — at the cost of the lives of three G-men.

Lesson for December 27

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN SOUTHERN EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Hebrews 2:1-4; 11:32—12:2.

GOLDEN TEXT—The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. Revelation 11:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Christmas Round the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Into All the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why the Gospel Spread So Rapidly.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Spread of the Gospel in Southern Europe.

History has marveled at the spread of the Christian faith in a wicked and hostile world. Dark were the days upon the earth when the handful of believers in Jesus Christ set out to preach the gospel. Why did the Christian faith spread so rapidly and build so soundly the future? The answer is found in our lesson for today. It is threefold. They declared

I. A Great Salvation (2:1-4).

The preaching of the apostles set an example of sound teaching. They knew that no "programs" or "drives" would suffice to meet the need of the world steeped in sin and superstition. They preached a great salvation, a real gospel, and God set his seal of approval upon their work.

The presentation of God's Word and his gospel in the power of the Holy Spirit is still the way of victorious usefulness for any believer and any church.

Turning now to the great faith chapter of Hebrews, we see the second reason for the spread of Christianity. Bible preaching brought forth Bible believers — men and women who obtained "a good report through faith."

II. A Victorious Faith (11:32-40).

The world is "not worthy" of its heroes of faith. In fact, it not only fails to recognize them and their mighty deeds but mocks, scourges, tortures, and saws them asunder. But they are written down in God's book of remembrance. He rightly evaluates their faith and their nobility of character.

We need to learn of God how to regard our fellow men lest we follow the crowd in giving praise to those who merit it not, and fail to recognize the unsung heroes of faith in our own communities and churches who are the very salt of the earth.

The final section of our lesson follows the first two in perfect sequence of thought. We have noted the apostolic message concerning God's great salvation. We have seen that the gospel is indeed the power of God which not only saves but which produces heroic living. Now we turn to our obligation to continue that glorious succession of these who live by faith.

III. A Race to Run (12:1-2).

The picture in the writer's mind is the great Olympic arena. All around are the spectators. A race is to be run. What a striking picture of Christian life. For it, too, is a race. It has a prize, both here and in the hereafter. It calls for intense activity. It brings us before those who either jeer at us or cheer us on our way.

Many are the things which may hinder a runner. One thing he cannot do is carry weights. These may not be sinful things but those which may be a hindrance to spiritual progress. Let us put them away!

And then there is sin—that treacherous enemy that so subtly "besets us" and entangles us. By God's grace let us cast it aside.

Greater than all the hindrances is the One in whose name we run and to whom we look for victory. Looking past the difficulties, the spectators, and even the course itself, we see him who is "the author and perfecter of our faith." The secret of victory is to Turn your eyes upon Jesus,

Look full in His wonderful face.

Pride and Ingratitude

Pride is of such intimate connection with ingratitude that the actions of ingratitude seem directly resolvable into pride as the principal reason of them.—South.

Life's Lesson

Take what is; trust what may be;
That's life's true lesson. — R. Browning.

Standing Erect

The Major—You know. I haven't seen your husband since he returned to civil life.

The Ex-Captain's wife—You mean since he was released from the army, don't you? He never was very civil.

WHO'S WHO IN KENTUCKY

The Standard Printing Company Louisville ,reports widespread interest in their publication, "Who's Who in Kentucky," which will be issued this month, and officials of the company state that advance orders have been fully twice as many as expected.

Kentucky has furnished far more than her quota of men and women who have gained national distinction in the arts, professions and as outstanding leaders of industry, and the result has been to excite interest in "Who's Who in Kentucky" in practically every state in the Union.

The book contains the most comprehensive data on Kentuckians ever compiled, and has added features about the Commonwealth that will cause the volume to be treasured by every Kentuckian and thousands of residents of other states who were born in Kentucky or whose ancestors were numbered among the early settlers.

Included in the volume are a short history of the State, an absorbingly interesting political history, and, without going into tiresome statistics, a general view of the agricultural and industrial resources of the Commonwealth, its system of state parks, its world-famous cave section and a plethora of educational and state department activities.

It is an interesting book about interesting people of what is generally conceded to be the nation's most interesting state.

A BRIEF SOJOURN IN THE SUNNY SOUTH

Coming through Dayton, Tenn., we saw the courthouse where the famous Scope trial took place, where Wm. Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow matched wits, and where the Great Commoner had a stroke which caused his death a few hours later. A filling station attendant, who said he did a thriving business as newsboy during the trial, commented on the number of tourists who asked him about that trial.

The tourist cabins at Chattanooga were furnace-heated. The mountain air was very cool, exhilarting and conducive to a good night's rest. Personally we were annoyed by the occupants of an adjoining room, whom we were convinced were gangsters planning a hold-up or bank robbery. The rest of our party ridiculed the idea, on suggesting that probably they thought the same about us; another accused us of having an overworked imagination or of reading too many detective stories.

At the restaurant in Chattanooga it was interesting to note the large pile of pine wood stacked outside. No wonder the fare was good. We engaged in a talk fest with the merits of cornsticks without and waitress-cook as to the relative with flour, which embarassed one member of our party who entreated us (sotto voice) not to "ask for a recipe for the pecan pie." But for this delicate sarcasm, we could have passed on the recipe to Recorder readers.

At Wartburg, Tenn., where we had delicious toasted ham and egg sandwiches we contemplated a query as to the origin of the name Wartburg and to offer as consolation that we were from Rabbit Hash, but remembering how impatient is youth and how bored by the loquacity of us old timers, we abstained from asking any questions in Tennesse.

We passed through what we called the bed spread area. We must have seen hundred of hand made embroidered and candle wick tufted spreads, pinned on clothes lines and for sale. But being in a hurry we didn't even stop to inspect them more closely.

BAILEY GREENUP

Their Christmas GOOD DEED

by Jocile Webb Pearson

BILLIE JONES adored his big brother. Jim had been a boy scout before going to college and to be a scout like Jim was Billie's one ambition.

"If we're goin' to be scouts," he confided to his chum Joe Perkins, "we oughta begin practicin'."

"Yea, but how do we know how to begin?" inquired Joe.

"We can help our mothers," said Joe. "Sure," replied Billie, "but this must be somethin' special like helpin' old Miss Riley carry her basket when it was icy, or somethin'. An' bein' Chrismus, we oughta give somethin'; mebbe a present, too. Say, I got an idee, Joe. Why can't we give her somethin' for our first good deed? She don't have a daddy or nobody to help her."

"But we ain't got money," objected Joe, "an' I bet she needs a lot of things—coal an' kindlin' an' everthin'."

"Leave it to me, Joe, I got another idee, but it's to be a secret. 'Tain't a good deed if ya tell anybody. Now cross your heart an' say: 'I'll never tell till death us do part.' There, that's the bindinest words I know."

Anyone would know it was Christmas by the spicy fragrance in the air. Even before one saw the big lighted tree in the living room. And Jim was coming home.

There were many whispered conversations and signs and giggles between the two boys that Jim's keen eyes found amusing. Coming home one evening he surprised them in the act of smuggling a basket of coal out the back gate.

"Hey, fellows! Where you going with that?" It was Joe who blurted: "Billie says it ain't no good if ya tell." Billie hung his head. "We're just practicin' to be scouts," he stammered, "an this is our good deed. We been doin' it for two weeks—I mean takin' coal to Miss Riley. She's poor an' deaf an' ain't got no daddy to get her coal—half the time we take it from Joe's house"—Billie looked appealingly at Jim.

"An' she only had a teeny little bit," put in Joe, staunchly. "An' you're s'posed to give to folks Chrismus, ain't you?"

"I salute two mighty fine scouts right now," said Jim. "But first we'll have to make clear the scout ideas of property rights. Deliver your coal, then come up to my room and we'll talk things over."

When old Mrs. Riley hobbled to her door in response to a loud knock Christmas eve, she did not see two little boys scamper behind the coal shed, but she did see a huge basket filled with a generous supply of food, and many bulgy packages piled high on the top, with a "Merry Christmas to you" tied to it.

Poultry, as well as all other kinds of livestock, appreciate slightly warm water in winter. In fact, maximum egg production can be obtained only when fresh, clean water, with the chill taken off, is put before the hens in clean vessels.

Most stockmen keep salt before livestock, usually in a box under a shelter. In order to insure sufficient minerals, some dairymen give cows free access to bone meal prepared for feeding. Cows eat less than an ounce a day when it is kept before them.

CHRISTMAS WHAT?
By Dorothy Cason

What does Christmas mean to you
As it comes once each year
It seems that there's so much to do
For those we hold so dear?

To some it's just a holiday
A time to have some fun
It's time for Santa! others say,
It can be either one.

The children want their Christmas trees
All decorated bright
With bells and tinsel, goodness me
The candles you must light.

And then there is presents you must buy
For friends and kindred all,
You work and work and then you sigh
There's one a little small.

The cakes and pies that you must bake,
The turkey to be dressed,
And all the other things to make
With little time to rest.

With all these things do we forget
What Christmas really is,
We think of Santa Claus and yet,
Forget this day is His

On this day of December,
Let's try in every way
To forget not, but remember,
That it's our Lord's Birthday.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY
By Dorothy Cason

Long ago in Bethlehem
On a bed of hay
Jesus Christ, our Savior
Was born on this glad day.

Now we call it Christmas
In honor of His birth,
He came to dwell among us
To live awhile on earth.

The wise men came to see him,
Guided by a star,
They found him in a manger,
When they had traveled far.

The angels came from Heaven
To tell the story grand
To shepherds watching o'er their sheep
"Peace, good will to Man."

Now on our Savior's birthday
We sing sweet songs of praise
And tell again the story
In many different ways.

His birthday we celebrate this day
But that is only part
It takes more than just his birth
To cleanse a sinful heart.

He lived a life of sinlessness
Died on a cruel tree
Arose, went back to Heaven
To set us sinners free.

HAPPY NEW YEAR MUSH

By Luella B. Lyons

LEAH MERWIN had been the one elected to stay at home when the others went into town in the old flivver to the morning New Year's service at the church. Someone had to remain at home to watch the stock and, too, Leah hadn't a new or even a decent coat. Jake Merwin was having tough sledding in financial affairs without one more need being voiced, so Leah never told him of her need.

"I wouldn't have minded if it hadn't started snowing the minute their backs were turned and now—they won't tackle driving home in this weather," but Leah's words stopped at once as she made out in the swirling snow a car that was stopping in the barnyard. The plump figures of a man and a woman were making a wild dash for the protection of the house.

"We saw we couldn't go another turn of the wheels," the sweet, friendly woman told Leah—the lady who introduced the two of them as Mr. and Mrs. Tom Madison, 11 miles to the east of Borger. "We hoped to spend New Year's and visit at our son's, Tom Junior's over at Borger, but now—well, we want to buy our dinner here from you. May we, my dear, without putting you out?"

They were such a jolly pair and Leah even forgot to be embarrassed when she had to serve them the only thing she had prepared, a feast of delicious fried mush and butter and syrup and plenty of fresh milk and coffee. Supper consisted of the same fare and so did breakfast the next morning, but by that time the Merwins were able to break the drifts and reach the farm and the Madisons, via those breaks, went on their belated way.

"It will be a happy New Year every day for a year for us, Momsy," Leah shouted when the Madisons were out of sight. To a smiling but perplexed family, Leah explained that Mr. Madison owned a small chain of meat markets and small cross road grocery stores and that he had given her sufficient orders for slabs of cornmeal mush just like she had served him and his good wife, for all those stores for one year at least. "The labels on this mush, he said, are to read 'Lady Leah's Prize Mush'." When the trio had quieted down a bit she added: "The money end of the contract will settle all our financial difficulties for the year and who knows, maybe forever!"

Beginning of the Year

As early as 251 B.C., the Romans accepted January as the beginning of the year. They named the month in honor of Janus, the two-faced god, as looking both into the past and the future. During the Middle Ages the year was made to begin at various dates. In England, in 1751, January was made the first month by act of Parliament.

600 ACP FORMS ARE FORWARDED FOR PAYMENT

Six hundred completed 1936 ACP performance forms were forwarded the State Office for payment on Tuesday of this week according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This represents the first shipment of approximately 1000 to be forwarded.

The County ACP Committee composed of H. E. White, J. H. Huey and J. F. Cleek completed final certifications Monday of all completed forms. The committee urged that all farmers, who have not already done so, complete the signing of these forms at the earliest possible date. Payments totalling approximately $125,000.00 for 1936 preformance that is already completed are ready as soon as forms are completed and forwarded the State Office. Before payment can be made performance must be certified by the farmer. These forms on the remaining 400 farms have already been prepared and are simply waiting the farmer's signature.

Payment on the first 600 completed forms is expected in about three or four weeks. The delayed forms will be forwarded in groups for payment as rapidly as possible after they are signed by the farmer.

A Review of 1936 . . . .

We are closing the year under very favorable conditions with no past due paper and no depreciations in our investment account—in fact have a nice appreciation in this account.

Our farmer customers are much encouraged over the prices being received for tobacco, other farm products and livestock, which makes for more and better banking.

We look forward to 1937 with confidence and a prosperous New Year.

(Delayed)

Our school has been expressing its appreciation to the Hi-Y boys for their wonderful gift which they presented to the school. The gift was a large bulletin board for our library. We do not know whether they planned it for a Xmas present or not, but it was highly appreciated by all.

All the windows and rooms are being decorated for Christmas. Most of this work is being done by the pupils, while the teachers are busy working and preparing a profram outline. The gymnasium will be decorated in the near future.

On Monday night, December 21, there will be a Christmas Pageant, given by the school in the auditorium. The program will be composed of numbers from both the grades and the high school. Everyone invited to attend and bring their friends.

The school organized a "Forensic Club" one day last week. The first meeting was attended by 14 members. They hope that as time goes on that more will join this club. This club is composed of four divisions: Those who are interested in oration, public discussion, debating and extemperaneous speaking. The officers of the club are: President, Harry Cook; vice president, Kathryn Denniston; secretary, Olive Poston; treasurer, Florence Cook.

The ones who were interested in debating received an invitation to go to Independence to a Debating Conference and baquet. Those attending were: Carolyn Cropper; Martha Jane Hightower, Rebecca Stephenson and Florence Newman. As Mrs. Fowler was unable to go, Mr. Kirkwood went in her place as faculty representative. The Conference was directed in a splendid manner and was enjoyed by all.

The Mother's Club of Room 1 decided to postpone their next meeting until the second Wednesday in January, due to the Christmas rush.

The Hi-Y boys are putting on a "Clean Speech Campaign." We think this is a very wise plan and should have special attention. The top five inches of the black boards are being used for quotations from famous men, which the Hi-Y boys hope everyone will read and profit by. For example: "Fire and Sword are but slow engines of destruction in comparison with the babbler."—Steel.

There will be a basketball game here Friday night. Hamilton plays Burlington. All are requested to attend. The game will be called at 7:15. Preceding this game there will be a "Midget" game played by our little boys from grades 4 to 6 inclusive. These boys are the future high school players for B. H. S. Be here by 6:30 and see them play.

KENTUCKY STATION DEVELOPS SPRAY OF NICOTINE AND OIL

The perfection of a nicotine-oil spray that will kill practically all insect pests is announced by the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. It is made of nicotine, which is a by-product of tobacco, Kentucky's chief cash crop, and highly refined oil.

Extensive tests made at the Experiment Station found the spray fatal to such hardy pests as squash bugs, white flies, mealy bugs, red spiders and green June beetles. Both chewing and sucking insects are killed by it, whereas it has been necessary in the past to use a stomach poison for chewing insects and a contact poison for sucking insects.

Heretofore, most insecticides have been applied as water sprays or dusts. Attempts to use oil failed because injury to foliage resulted. The secret of the nicothat the oil used is highly refined tine-oil combination lies in the fact to remove the properties that injure the foliage of plants. This oil is completely volatile, colorless and odorless.

The nicotine-oil spray is applied to plans undiluted in the form of a fine mist or fog. Work is going forward on a special type of sprayer which will insure satisfactory results without injury to plants.

Credit for the discovery of the nicotine-oil spray is given to P. O. Ritcher, research worker in entomology, and R. K. Calfee of the department of research chemistry at the Experiment Station.

Travelogue For Life

By MARTHA B. THOMAS

"I'VE just had a thought," said Marcia, "and it's a grand one."

They were tucked cosily beneath a bear rug in an old-fashioned sleigh, gliding along under the stars to the silvery jangle of bells.

"Tell me at once," commanded Jerry, "I collect grand thoughts as a hobby."

Marcia laughed. "Tonight is New Year's eve, and if," she sat up straighter in her eagerness, "the sun were shining, and we were going with it, just as fast, I mean—we could yell down Happy New Year to the whole world as we rolled along!"

Jerry was amused and indulgent. "Don't you see," continued the girl, "we're all so used to thinking of events happening just where we are, and not following them on and on . . . The idea rather gets you."

"Around the world in 24 hours at New Year's. A zippy travelogue?"

But she was serious. "See here, Jerry, you and I are going to be married soon, and I sort of hope we can, well, keep our thoughts up and off the ground."

"What an odd idea. Usually coming brides are chattering of linen and silver."

She pressed her hand on his arm. "Stop the horse a minute, please. There—let's both lean back and look up at the sky, and fill our eyes with stars, and space . . . and time-going-on. Maybe, if we drink deep enough," her voice was husky with feeling, "we won't get all tangled up with trifles. I'm a little afraid sometimes, of our days ahead, Jerry."

"Afraid?" The man's voice sounded hurt.

"Only that I'll get a habit of low-visibility."

"You mean," Jerry leaned over to take her hands "you want always to remember that new happiness, new ways of thought, and New Years, go ringing around the world with the sun; that time does not circle around one small set of people or circumstances?"

"Yes, yes, Jerry! Let's make a pact together, now. Not to think little thoughts about little events that happen to our little selves."

"Fine. I'm with you!"

"And to remind each another now and then, to stop, and get the true sense of time and space and world-bigness going on and on."

"Done, darling! New Year's resolution for a happy life: KEEP THE SUN, MOON AND STARS IN YOUR THOUGHTS . . . and you'll never be narrow-minded!"

Jerry kissed her.

"Hear the bells ringing in town? Aren't they far and sweet?" whispered Marcia. "Midnight circling the world. New Year's in a minute!"

NEW YEAR'S BELLS

FROM the earliest times the ringing of bells has been employed as a method of announcing death, and the use of bells at New Year's eve symbolizes the death of the old year. In England it was formerly customary to ring muffled bells just before twelve, and at twelve to remove the wrappings and to allow the bells to ring loudly.

New Year's Resolution

HERE'S a New Year's resolution
. . . Any one can make and keep;
It will help one's constitution,
And enable one to sleep.

"I will try to keep from fretting
When I cannot see the sun;
I will try to keep from getting Into quarrels I may shun.

"I will try to keep from grieving
Over troubles that are past;
I will try to keep believing
Things will all come right at last.

"I will try to keep from sighing
When I ought to smile, instead;
I will try to keep on trying To deserve to get ahead."
—Montreal Herald.

UNIVERSITY SHEEP ARE BIG WINNERS AT INTERNATIONAL

Once again sheep from the flock at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky captured the lion's share of high prizes at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago.

With 27 animals fitted by Harold Barber, master shepherd, the Experiment Station winnings included one grand championship, two championships, one reserve championship, seven first prizes and a host of second, third and fourth awards.

The grand championship award came on a pen of three Southdown wether lambs; the championships on cross-bred and Cheviot wether lambs; the reserve championship on a Cheviot ewe lamb, while first places were obtained on pens of lambs of each of the Southdown, Hampshire and Cheviot breeds and on several individual sheep.

In 13 years, the Kentucky Experiment Station has taken at the International Live Stock Exposition two grand champions, two reserve grand championships, 20 championships, 18 reserve championships, and a large number of first, second, third and minor awards.

32,503 ACRES TO GRASSES, LEGUMES

Madison county farmers cooperating in the agricultural conservation program in 1936 sowed 32,503 acres to grasses and clovers, County Agent J. L. Miller reports. Of this total, 15,217 acres were put in korean lespedeza ,and in addition lespedeza was sown on many old pastures.

Two hundred and ninety-four Madison county farmers used 15,195 tons of limestone, and 62 farmers used 3,350 tons of marl during the year. Approximately 8,890 acres were limed in the county, or more than in any previous five years.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

Fifty-five dollars profit from an acre of corn is reported by Robert Wilkerson, a Taylor county 4-H boy. He tried to produce 100 bus., but squirrels destroyed at least 10 bushels, and he harvested only 93½ bushels.

Calf feeding by club members is adding to farm incomes in Grayson county. Forty-eight calves this year sold for $3,300, and won $165 in prizes. Three carloads will be fed next year, financed by the production credit association.

Six hundred boys and girls carrying 500 projects is the 1937 club program for McCreary county. There also are to be a demonstration team at Junior Week, a judging team at the State Fair, and at least 35 members at a summer camp.

The Princeton Kiwanis Club gave medals to and entertained for Margaret Goodwin and John Roy McDowell, outstanding Caldwell county club members. The County Farm Bureau gave a banner to the Cobb club for having the largest percentage of project completions.

A calf fitting demonstration on calves owned by Frances Horton attracted the attention of a large number of people in Bath county. The baby beef project is increasing in popularity in the county. Many club members made money this year.

The Buena Vista 4-H Club, as the most outstanding club in Garrard county, received the Lancaster Rotary Club's silver trophy. The Buckeye club was runner-up. The award was made on the basis of club activities, including projects completed, record books, the secretary's books, window displays and general activities.

KENTUCKY FARMS NEWS

The annual meeting of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society will be held during the Farm and Home Convention at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington the last week in January. The fruit growers usually meet in December.

Following a referendum vote of farmers, the United States Department of Agriculture will establish an inspection and marketing news service at the tobacco markets at Mt. Sterling, Cynthiana, Horse Cave and Bowling Green. Ninety-six per cent of the growers voted for the service.

Farm leaders in Caldwell county, planning for the future, believe the county will eventually become a major livestock region, due to the loss of demand for fire-cured tobacco, the location of the county and topography of the land, and the abundance of limestone with which to make good pastures.

John Cushenberry, an Allen county farmer, reports a profit of $266 on 50 hogs fed two months and three weeks. Fed corn, wheat and whey, the average daily gain was 1.6 pounds per head. Corn and wheat were valued at $1 a bushel, and whey at 1 cent a gallon.

A recent report of the Mercer County Sheep Growers' Association showed 10,361 sheep insured, with $799 in the treasury. Losses to date total $272. Insurance from March 1 to Sept. 1 was 7 cents a head, and from Sept. 1 to March 1st 4 cents a head.

Dr. I. W. Johnson of Powell county grew 65 bushels of corn to the acre on five acres of bottom land which he tile drained and treated with limestone and superphosphate. The corn was of high quality, and Dr. Johnson took first prize on six years at the Robinson Harvest Festival at the Experiment Substation at Quicksand.

People are quoting Thomas Jefferson today who wouldn't have been on his side if they had been alive with the Virginian.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, darling, there were plenty of women at the beach but I didn't notice what they were wearing."

Democratic countries might as well make up their minds to stand together against the nations ruled by dictators if they want to survive.

One of the phenomena of human existence is the way two men, of equal honesty of intention, are able to look at the same facts and draw entirely different conclusions.

"Guess I've Always Wanted to Be An Engineer, Son"

YOU will find, in countless American homes on Christmas morning, eloquent evidence of the place railroads and railroading hold in the hearts of folks throughout our land.

In the memory of oldsters still living, the railroads completed the bold and romantic enterprise of binding the nation together with bands of steel from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

And by their enterprise, the railroads continue to challenge the interest and stir the imagination of youngsters born and reared in an age of wonders.

Today, with undiminished vigor, the American railroads, in providing cheaper fares, faster freight and passenger schedules and marvelous records of Safety, are writing new chapters into their romantic history.

Next time you take a trip, go by train.

The "Glorified Christmas Pudding"

By Alice B. Palmer

A SOFT carpet of fresh snow sparkled in the sun and the whole of Christmas was in the room as Lois opened her eyes, yawned contentedly and then suddenly remembered the great conquest of the day—"the Christmas Pudding!"

"Oh Em," she shouted, radiant with joy and keen with excitement. "Wake up! Wake up! It's Christmas!"

"What's that?" murmured Em, sleepily. "Oh yes, hurrah for the fun! Is the pudding done?"

Every year, as far back as Lois and Em could remember, they had looked forward with youthful anticipation to the Glorified Christmas Pudding. 'Twas a Swedish rice delicacy, in which a.. almond had always been concealed. Tradition had proclaimed that the lucky person who came upon the holiday nut in his Christmas pudding was to be the first one married. What fun it had been through the years.

"Well, girls," spoke mother, beaming with the holiday spirit, "who is to get the almond in the Christmas pudding?" This is leap year, you know."

Lois and Em giggled, knowingly, exchanging winks, as both were secretly engaged to be married.

Soon mother was busily engaged in the dishing up of this delicious pudding. It was being formed into cone-shaped mounds, resembling Christmas snow.

All eyes were now focused expectantly upon the rich creamy mountains of rice and they could scarcely wait until they dipped their spoons into its foamy depths. ..u was blinking at Em and carefully chewing each individual rice kernel, so as not to miss the almond. Em was slyly winking at mother and smiling confidently. Father was too pleased for words as he calmly viewed the whole situation with satisfied enthusiasm, secretly hoping that he would not come upon the almond.

Where on earth was the Christmas almond? All had quite finished with no sign of the coveted nut. A strange silence pervaded, coupled with a surprised sense of dismay and disappointment.

"Julia, called mother, to the girl in the kitchen, have you eaten your rice pudding yet?"

"Yes, Mrs. Allen," promptly responded Julia.

"What is the matter, my dear, you look so upset?"

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Allen, but I almost broke my tooth on a strange nut I found in the pudding."

A louder roar of laughter than was ever heard before, permeated the holiday atmosphere as one by one they tried to explain the Christmas almond to Julia. As the laughter ended, the "Glorified Christmas Pudding" once more faded away into tradition.

MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR

NATURAL GAS

The Cheapest and Cleanest Fuel on Earth For Cooking, Heating, Lighting and Running All Sorts of Gas Engines, Machinery and Refrigerators

There are sixteen million, two hundred and seventy-six thousand, seven hundred customers using gas for heat and power in these United States. The increase in gas customers was reflected in the sale of some 910,000 gas ranges in the country during the first eight months of 1936.

Boone County Kentucky has enough natural gas territory, now positively proven, to supply all Northern Kentucky cities and towns including Cincinnati, O. The gas companies that now supply this gas and have gas franchises on these cities, do now, and have for years, secured their natural gas supply from far off gas fields from thousands of wells and hundreds of miles of pipe line. Therefore, they cannot be expected to absorb, at once, all the natural gas that Boone County can furnish. For if they did, they would be compelled to shut down their own wells and pipe lines from the East and North that have been producing natural gas for the last twenty to forty years.

It would not be fair to the land owners that have been furnishing this natural gas for forty years. So to commence with the Gas Company has contracted to take a minimum of five million cubic feet per day from our pipe lines, increasing same each month, as their increasing demands warrant. Therefore, there is abundance of natural gas left to supply factories, stores, private homes and farm houses.

Every farm house, business place, private home in City, Town, and Hamlet in Boone County should and will be using natural gas out of mother earth to light, heat and cook with, if not this winter, they will before another cold winter arrives, when they see how comfortable their neighbors have been this winter.

Surveying for natural gas in Boone County was commenced the first of June, 1935, first well commenced Nov. 18, 1935. The first great gas gusher came in Dec. 24, 1935. There are now twenty-four wells with pipe line laid. Pipe line right-of-ways have been secured on state Route 18 and State Route 42. The gas company will be taking gas when they complete placing meters, which will be within a very few days. They are working on it now.

Natural gas is cheaper than cutting your own wood, even though you get the wood for nothing.

We are asked at the office a great many questions each day, and sometimes people on the street answer these qustions, knowing nothing about the gas business in general or our operations which confuses the party asking the question. So, therefore, we are going to ask and answer a few questions telling conditions as they really are as far as the gas business of Boone County is concerned, up to date.

There are now gas wells on the following named farms and two more about to be completed on I. Stephens and Leslie Rose farms: No. 1, Dr. F. D. Crigler, No. 2 Hafer Heirs, No. 3 B. H. Tanner, No. 6 H. L. McGlasson, No. 7, Sadie Tanner, No. 8 George Griffith, No. 9, Emma Farrell, No. 10 Rouse Sisters, No. 11, Pettit Heirs, No. 12 T. Reinhart, No. 13, Joel Gray, No. 14, Hubert Conner, No. 15 Beemon Heirs, No. 16 Harry Tanner, No. 17 Dr. J. D. Northcutt, No. 18 Leslie Rose, No. 19 Charles F. Kinsey, No. 20 C. F Blankenbeker, No. 21 R. G. Kinman, No. 22 C. F. Blankenbeker, No. 23 Cam Kennedy, No. 24 Wallace Rouse.

We are asked several times each day: "Will this gas burn?" Just as if the good Lord would produce a different kind of natural gas in Boone County Kentucky, than is produced from same earth in Pennsylvania, West Virginia or Ohio. Our answer is for anyone wishing to take the time to call on the residence of the following, I am sure they would be pleased to show you their natural gas, burning. Although we did not get their permission to have you call, we are quite sure they would be glad to show you: Mr. George Griffith of Limaburg; Mr. Chester Tanner at Limaburg, Ky.; Mr. Ross Russ at Limaburg, Ky.; Mr. A. J. Ogden, at Limaburg, Ky.; The Beemon heirs at Limaburg, Ky.; Harry Tanner, two miles west of Florence on Route 42; the Kinman or Brown farm, one mile west of Florence; Dr. F. D. Crigler farm, two miles south of Hebron, Ky.; Hafer heirs farm, right at Hebron, Ky., and the Joel Gray farm at Burlington, Ky. The Gray farm has from ten to fifteen burners in operation and his well has a pressure of one hundred and twenty-five pounds to the square inch, which is a 3835 pounds head pressure. As we use West Virginia charts we cannot gage a well over 120 pounds pressure, as that is as high as they go on the chart in West Virginia. Therefore, we believe every farm and private home in Boone County should be equipped as the Joel Gray farm is and burn natural gas.

Question No. 1—How long will these gas wells last?

Answer—As long as they have in New York State, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, in the same formation as we have here in Boone County. Forty years we know, and the good Lord knows how many years lnger. We don't know, as most of us will be dead by then—why worry?

Question No. 2—With whom has a contract been made to sell the natural gas and where is their pipe line?

Answer—The Bracken Gas Company, who control the gas pipe lines that run from Florence to Cincinnati, O.

Question No. 3—Who is the Bracken Gas Company?

Answer—The Bracken Gas Company is a subsidiary of the United Fuel Gas Company of Charleston, W. Va., and control all gas lines in Northern Kentucky, delivering natural gas to Covington, Newport and Cincinnati, O. The United Fuel is a subsidiary of the Columbia Gas and Electric Company, which owns and controls all the gas companies in Cincinnati, Ohio, Ludlow, Covington, Newport, Florence, Erlanger and Bellevue, Ky., and the Columbia Gas and Electric, in turn, is owned by the Standard Oil Interest. In fact, the Columbia Gas and Electric Company is the largest gas company in the world.

Question No. 4—How much does the Bracken Gas Company pay for the gas at the end of your pipe line?

Answer—Sixteen cents per one thousand cubic feet, more than they pay anywhere else in these United States, to our knowledge.

Question No. 5—Who is financing these large operations?

Answer—No one in Boone County. There has been some talk that we asked some farmers to help us on pipe line. Someone was having a nightmare, for no one has been asked for a dime at any time, nor will they be asked. Common sense should teach a child five years old that any company having twenty-four gas wells and a life contract with the largest gas company in the world, don't have to worry about finances of any kind. The pipe for the pipe line was purchased two months ago and is on the ground and laid.

Question No. 6—What has been, and is the cost of your weekly operations, such as payroll, coal, gasoline, oil and so forth, but not your large investments in drilling equipment, pipe line, so forth?

Answer—The average weekly expense has been, and is twelve hundrd dollars per week.

Question No. 7—How large are these gas wells compared to other gas wells East of Texas, the largest gas producing state in the Union?

Answer—These wells are larger by far, than any gas wells ever brought in East of Texas at this depth and in this gas sand known as a long-life sand.

Question No. 8—What is the B. T. U. heat units of this gas?

Answer—The best chemists that money can secure in this territory give us the heat unit as between 1250 and 1300 or 350 degrees higher heat unit than the gas in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Question No. 9—Do you employe Boone County labor and how does your wages compare with other work in Boone County.

Answer—We employe all Boone County labor with the exception of experienced well drillers. We are compelled to secure them from the oil fields. We pay higher wages than any other industry in Boone County that we know of.

Question No. 10—How does your operations compare with gas operations in other sections of the State of Kentucky?

Answer—We have drilled and brought in more gas wells in Boone County Kentucky this year, 1936, than were drilled and brought in in all the other one hundred and nineteen counties in the State of Kentucky this year.

We have never asked any one in Boone County for a dime or never will. We have had nothing to sell but service and natural gas. And as far as that is concerned have not asked anyone for a dime anywhere else. With the cooperation of the landowners and business men, Boone County can be made in the year of 1937 the oil and gas center of the United States.

Visitors are invited at all times to watch our drilling operations and to ask any questions they wish.

We have three of the most complete drilling equipments in the State of Kentucky in operation at all times, days and night, barring break downs and bad weather.

We are always pleased to show the wells that have been completd to show the volume and high pressure of gas in the wells.

We have over twenty-five square miles of natural gas, proven territory and extending same as each new gas well is brought in. Properly spaced, giving room for one thousand five hundred and fifty wells. All information and applications for the use of gas in your place of business or your homes, telling you how you can secure cheap fuel for cooking lighting and heating and factory purposes, no matter how large. Your factory may be secured by calling on writing to—

SEES ALL---KNOWS ALL

It's true about some of the boys not adhering to the training code of a good athlete. Since the rumor first came to me, I have had ample time to look thoroughly into the matter, and I found it to be as reported. You know what it means to start into a search for information. It is necessary to look over the whole situation in order to be sure what you say is true.

Well, if any of you know what it means to start hard work after being out for several weeks, you know the first reason why I say these boys should start training if they want to make good. No one can do a very hard day's work the first day on a hard job after a long rest. The old bones and muscles just wont give what they will after a fellow has worked at the job for a while.

Its' the same way with a basketball player. He just has to get in the very best possible physical condition to be his best through a hard game. It takes more than determination as important as that is in a game. It takes something that comes from good solid muscles with a lot of reserve to be called into service when the test comes. It takes a lot of lung action to last through four quarters of a fast basketball game too, if experience has taught me anything.

There is just one training statement that I should like to get across to the boys. I think they will all like me better because it is the only one I have and I think it is the only one they need. Here it is fellows. Eat good, well-balanced meal, sleep enough not to be sleepy in the day time, and have the habits of a good clean American boy who wants to make a real man out of himself.

Now I think I had better close by saying that during the Xmas holidays, an athlete may lose almost all that he has gained by training, if he forgets that traincodes last through holidays periods just the same as while school is in session. Come along Boone County athletes and let's put the old sport on the high plane it deserves.

Of course, I'm wishing the happiest and best Christmas to all of our boys, coaches, and rooters in athletic sports in our schools to Boone County who go out for the get the best there is in them. May this season bring all of us to know each other better and to forget the bad of the past, and try to make the future better.

BOONE COUNTY BOYS PLAYING WITH QUINTET AT EASTERN COLLEGE

Richmond, Ky., Dec. 15—After taking the Transylvania Pioneers over the jumps here last Saturday, Eastern's basketball quintet took things easy today and the rest of the week held nothing in store for them, as the holidays approach and the next tilt does not appear on the schedule until January 7, when the Maroons take on Kentucky Wesleyan five.

So far this season, Eastern's prize forwards, Woodrow Hinkle, Paris, and Tommy Scott, Mt. Sterling, have stolen the scoring honors. Hinkle marked up 13 points for the Maroons while Scott scored 8 in last week's game. Roy King, Annville, guard also chalked up 8 markers in the Transy game. These tree men, coupled with Bob Hatton, elongated Rensselaer, Ind., center, and Captain Paul Demoisey, guard from Walton, have formed the starting five for Coach Rome Rankin in the first two encounters of the season. However, some fine play exhibited by Otwell Rankin, Covington guard; Leslie Voshell, Burlington forward and Ray Fritts, Williamsburg, center, has complexed the problem of Coach Rankin on just who will and who will not be his starters.

Eastern's freshman team also has shown great promise this year with two impressive wins. The Stanford High School five and Transy's yearlin gteam have been their victims. On the team Coach Turkey Hughes has six men who look to be the finest freshman material that Eastern has ever possessed. Virgil McWhorter, a natural from Hazel Green, and Harry Bryant, a wizard from Cropper, head the forward list and are ably assisted by Wagers, a Berea lad, who rung the hoop for 13 points against Transy's Tenderfeet. Woodrow Noll, Covington giant is the center man, and Frank Slone, Inez and Rudy Craig, Butler, are two brilliant guards that are all any coach would ask for.
